KEEFE REVEALS OFFICIALS GOT TIP ON DEC. 5

Copy of Code Note Given to Them

BY WILLARD EDWARDS
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12—The famed "winds execute" code message, signifying Japan's decision to wage war on the United States, was in the hands of six high Washington authorities two days before the Pearl Harbor attack, Rep. Keefe [R., Wis.] disclosed today. The code message was intercepted by American intelligence on Dec. 4 and 5, 1941, and decoded on Dec. 5, two days before the attack on Pearl Harbor. The commanding officers at Pearl Harbor were not notified, Keefe noted.

Keefe told reporters he would go on the floor of the house tomorrow to report the results of interviews with Capt. Alwin D. Kramer in naval hospital at Bethesda, Md.

Kramer was in naval intelligence in Washington when the Jap code message was intercepted. He has outlined all his activities in that fateful period to Keefe and Rep. Gearhart [R., Cal.], two members of the Pearl Harbor investigating committee which starts open hearings next Thursday.

Kramer Partner Quizzed

Keefe revealed the secret testimony before a navy court of inquiry of a Capt. Safford also with naval intelligence, and a partner of Kramer.

"When the navy first heard of the 'wind' code messages some weeks before Pearl Harbor and learned that the radioing of the code, 'east wind, rain' in a weather report would mean war with the United States, Safford was instructed, he testified, to make out six carbons for distribution of this information to six top Washington authorities," Keefe said.

"Safford said that when the 'execute' message came thru he was to deliver the information directly to Adm. Noyes, chief of naval intelligence, who would presumably deliver it to the six men," Keefe continued. "There is no mention in the testimony of the identity of the six authorities, but it should not be difficult to guess what men would be given this most vital piece of information."

Message Now Missing

Speculation on this point, which can be cleared up only when the public hearings are held, Keefe said, involved the names of the late President Roosevelt, the then secretaries of war and navy, Stimson and the late Knox; Adm. Stark, then chief of naval operations, Gen. Marshall, army chief of staff, and Adm. Leahy, the late President's personal chief of staff.

"This message is now missing," Keefe noted. "Safford says he last saw it about Dec. 15, 1941, when Adm. Noyes asked him to assemble all the important Pearl Harbor messages in one file for the Roberts commission. That file is missing. We hope to find out during the investigation just why."

Continued investigation of the Capt. Kramer incident today, Keefe said, showed that Kramer entered the hospital Sept. 28 last, and was confined to a neuro-psychiatric ward until Nov. 3, when he was given liberty for the first time. Permis-

Rabbis March on Capitol in Palestine Plea

Await Bevin Views

LONDON, Nov. 12 (AP)—Official quarters said tonight they expected Foreign Secretary Bevin to make an important statement on Palestine in commons tomorrow. A dispatch from Jerusalem said Jewish and Arab representatives have been invited to meet tomorrow with J. V. W. Shaw, British administrator, for an announcement regarding Palestine policy.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 [Special]—An appeal for the immediate opening of Palestine as a Jewish homeland was carried directly to congress, the White House, and the British embassy today by a delegation of 1,000 Jews, including hundreds of rabbis. Most of them were from eastern cities.

The demonstration, timed to coincide with British Prime Minister Attlee's conferences with President Truman, was staged in a colorful manner with bearded, black clad rabbis marching four abreast from the Union station to the capitol chanting Jewish hymns.

Disembarking from trains at the Union station, the group assembled in the station plaza to sing "The Star Spangled Banner" as a prelude to their march on the capitol.

Give McKellar Petition

They were received on the senate steps by a group of congressmen, and a score of cantors repeated the national anthem and religious songs. They gave Sen. McKellar [D., Tenn.], president pro tem of the senate, a petition which he assured them would be presented to the senate tomorrow.

Similar petitions were taken to the White House and the British embassy by a committee of 12 delegates of the Revisionist Zionist organization. At the White House, Presidential Secretary Matthew J. Connelly received the petition for transmission to the President, and at the British embassy John Balfour, charge d'affaires, greeted the group. He assured the delegates Prime Minister Attlee would get the petition while he is in the United States.

Rep. Celler [D., N. Y.], who was among the congressmen greeting the demonstration, said "If no one will teach the British the meaning of honor, the Jews will," and predicted that "Jewish D-day will soon arrive in Palestine."

"The Jews are prepared to make every sacrifice for their homeland," he said. "If it is to be bullet for bullet or bomb for bomb—so be it."

Attacks White Paper

Sen. Mead [D., N. Y.] asserted that when Palestine was mandated to Britain it was agreed there would be no economic or political changes in the situation unless the United States was consulted. This agreement was ignored by the British white paper of 1939 which shut off Jewish immigration into Palestine, he said.

The petition set forth a four point program, leading off with a demand for immediate facilitation of President Truman's request for transfer of 100,000 Jews from camps to Palestine.

Other points were:

Immediate repudiation of the white paper of 1939.

Immediate formation of an Anglo-American commission "for the express purpose of evacuating European Jews to Palestine" and "eventual establishment of Palestine as a Jewish national homeland within its biblical boundaries."

Immediate release of all Jewish patriots from concentration camps in Palestine, Egyptian Sudan, Eritrea, and other British camps "where thousands of Jews are imprisoned without the benefit of trial."

One of the Jews in the line of march bore a placard identifying himself as a veteran of the British army in World War I.

Doomed Killer Makes Set of Keys; Escapes

Kingwood, W. Va., Nov. 12 [Special]—William Turner, 27, under sentence to be hanged for murder, escaped from the Preston county jail here today by filing a set of keys to several doors of the jail in a successful race against time.

William Turner

He was to have been transferred from the jail today to the state prison at Moundsville, to be held in the death house there until Dec. 28, the date set for his execution.

Turner and a cellmate, Paul Henry Hahn, 21, a burglar, fashioned the keys from tin soup plates and opened four doors, Sheriff Hobart Spindler said.

Hacksaw Smuggled in Jail

The prisoners used a hacksaw which had been smuggled to them to saw cell bars, permitting them to enter a jail corridor. With their keys they then walked to the jail garage, where they helped themselves to the sheriff's automobile. They fled in the automobile about 4 a. m.

The sheriff said the automobile was found this afternoon abandoned near Clarksburg, W. Va. Turner has a sister, Mrs. Myrtle Novich, living in Clarksburg, and it has been learned he and Hahn called at the Novich home about 9 a. m., the sheriff said. Mrs. Novich was out of town.

Turner was convicted in the Circuit court here Oct. 31 of first degree murder for the fatal shooting July 31 of Darla Dean Pratt, 15, a high school girl.

The sheriff said it was established at the trial that Turner had a grievance against Miss Pratt because she had warned a schoolmate against accepting his attentions because he was "too old for her."

Girl Slain on Porch

On the night of July 31, the sheriff said, Turner drove to a roadhouse near Newburg and fired several shots at the windows of the place. Miss Pratt and her parents lived in the rear of the roadhouse. The girl came out on the front porch with a flashlight and Turner shot and killed her, the sheriff said.

Turner, a native of near-by Bird's Creek, was released from the penitentiary last spring after serving a sentence for abduction of a girl, the sheriff said.

The keys made by Turner and Hahn in their cell showed signs of professional craftsmanship, the sheriff said. The prisoners left them in the locks as they fled.

U. S. MUST KEEP UP ITS FORCES IN EUROPE: IKE

Boston, Mass., Nov. 12 (AP)—Gen. Eisenhower said tonight that if American soldiers were returned too rapidly from Europe "an enduring peace may disappear and the war may have been fought in vain."

He told 500 cheering persons at a state dinner that "the day of critical decision is rushing upon us."

"If disintegration of our forces goes too far," he said, "it will provide evidence to the German people that we are not equal to our task."

"The plain fact is," he added, "the keeping of the peace requires maintenance of adequate forces in Europe."

"There has been a constantly accelerated pace of demobilization to restore men to their family circles," he said, and he added that up to a certain point that was "wise, commendable and necessary."

Police estimated that a million persons turned out to cheer the general. He and Mrs. Eisenhower, who came here to greet him when he arrived from Europe, entrained for Washington.

Housing Crisis in Zoo, Too; It's Pouch Paucity

The housing shortage is tough on every one, mused Robert Bean, director of the Brookfield zoo, yesterday, but it's worst of all for a baby kangaroo.

Bean looked ruefully into the cage where Baby, a 6 month old kangaroo, was standing up on its powerful back feet and looking lonesome. A baby kangaroo has only one chance at a home—in its mother's pouch—and there's no use in looking in the want ads.

Baby's mother—for reasons best known only to an erring kangaroo wife—won't let Baby into the house, and the nights are getting cold, Bean said.

No Court to Turn To

"It's a plain case of child abandonment," Bean said. A reporter remarked that there was no use swearing out a warrant charging the mother with contributing to the dependency of a minor, which has become quite the fashion in Municipal court lately.

"No," said Bean. "But perhaps we could sell Baby. I'd take $250 for him."

There it is. If you'd like a baby kangaroo boy to muss up the living room call Bean on the telephone and make a bid.

Bean commented that the birth rate at the zoo has gone up. During the war, no one was shipping zoo animals and supplies were low.

A Chance for the Rugged

A breeding program has now left the zoo with an overabundance of denizens of various sorts.

So if you'd like a lady hippopotamus to amuse the kiddies or to waddle around the back yard, there's one available. So are a few choice specimens of the baboon family. And for the rugged there's a Malay bear.

Bean has had an offer to trade one of his peacocks for two tiger cubs from a South Bend [Ind.] zoo. But he's hanging on to the peacocks. They're the only exhibit that isn't overcrowded.

STIMSON, 77, HAS HEART ATTACK; CONFINED TO BED

Huntington, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—Former War Secretary Stimson suffered a serious heart attack recently, his wife said tonight, but is recovering steadily. Mrs. Stimson said her husband was confined to his bed at their country home at West Hills, just outside of Huntington.

Mrs. Stimson said her husband had the attack soon after coming here several weeks ago. She described his condition as "progressively improved." He is 77.

Stimson, whose career has included service as secretary of state and as governor general of the Philippines, resigned Sept. 21 as war secretary.

WARSHIPS AGAIN SHELL SOERABAJA; EGYPT'S KING TELLS LONDON: GET OUT

Natives Fighting On House to House; 75s Silenced

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

SOERABAJA, Java, Nov. 12—British destroyers renewed their bombardment of this naval base today and British Indian troops fought bitterly from house to house, but Indonesian forces held them to small gains on the third day of the British attack.

The Nationalist troops were being steadily changed from wild, uncontrolled mobs into organized defenders. They were using mortars and artillery against the British colonial troops, but their shells were poorly aimed and fell at random over wide areas.

The destroyers, in Tandgoenga Perak harbor, silenced 75 mm. guns which had shelled the British controled airport, setting grass fires near R. A. F. planes. British fighter planes also struck at the nationalist headquarters in the Hotel Paringan.

120,000 Natives Fighting

British officers are confident they can go thru the city in a few hours if they want to take the losses, but prefer to go slow, clearing out machine guns with mortars rather than rifles and grenades.

They estimate 20,000 trained Indonesian soldiers and 100,000 armed natives are defending the city. They far outnumber the British but are short of heavy weapons.

Soerabaja was developing great battle scars. Mortar and artillery fire by both sides has torn gaping holes in the roofs. The city hall tower stands like a decayed tooth, with a big chunk missing from one wall.

Many fires are burning. A British naval party is running from fire to fire within the British lines, putting them out. But in the southern part of the town the Indonesians, who were ordered by their local leaders to burn the city behind them, are letting the fires go unchecked. To add to the smoke columns, a 10,000 ton Jap steamship anchored in the harbor caught fire and is burning to the water line.

Fighter planes spotted a group of 200 men preparing for an attack, and broke them up by strafing. Two others dropped 500 pound bombs on

POLICE TORTURE OF POLITICOS IN INDIA CHARGED

Beat Girl Students

LUCKNOW, India, Nov. 12 [Reuters]—Several students, including girls, were injured and 50 others arrested when mounted police charged with bamboo staves today into a crowd of students. The students were demonstrating against arrest of officers of the Japanese-sponsored Indian National army.

BY E. R. NODERER
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 5 [By air mail]—Reports of alleged police violence against Indian political prisoners, one of which drew a protest from Congress Party Leader Pandit Jawaharlal Nehru, are published in Indian papers reaching here.

Accounts of mistreatment of prisoners are permitted to be published in the Indian press, but are not allowed to be cabled abroad, Indian circles here say.

On the other hand, stories of police firing upon rival Indian political elements fighting each other are passed by the censor for the reason, Indians here explain, that this type of news tends to support the British claim that the Indians are unable to get along with each other, and therefore are not ready for independence.

"Dragged Like Dead Animals"

The Bombay Free Press Journal, in a story datelined Allahabad, Sept. 29, carried a statement attributed to Pandit Nehru under the headline, "Dragged Like Dead Animals . . . Practiced Cruelty upon Political Prisoners."

Nehru's statement said:

"It was reported that three political prisoners in a Benares jail were to be taken for trial to a court, which was situated about a mile away. They were in fetters and had handcuffs on and yet they were asked to walk this distance. They said that it was not possible for them to walk with fetters on and that they should be taken in a conveyance. This was refused and they were knocked down and dragged by the legs and arms all the way to the court, just as a dead animal might be dragged. Their clothes were torn, their skins scraped off, and they arrived at their destination with their backs and buttocks torn and bleeding. On the way a request for water was met with insults."

The same Indian newspaper, in its issue of Sept. 24, carries a story headlined, "Torture Chamber in Delhi Fort." It is datelined Nagpur, and follows in part:

"H. V. Kamath, secretary of the All India Forward Bloc, revealed the existence of a torture chamber in the Red Fort of Delhi. He said a lean and lank youth, not more than 23, belonging to the Sewagram Ashram, who discovered himself in obedience to the behest of Mahatma Gandhi, and surrendered to the police, was taken to this fort.

Not Allowed to Sleep

"He was kept in a dark solitary cell, eight feet by eight feet. He was not allowed to sleep. Whenever he dozed, on account of the fatigue and hunger, in came a rod and poked him. This method did not succeed, however. Nothing could be got out of this boy—this soldier of freedom.

"He was then taken to another chamber. Here he was made to lie on a cot and was examined by a doctor.

"After the examination a switch was put on. Slowly a huge slab of ice descended on him, covering him from neck to foot. 'Quick! Quick!' said the attendants. 'Out with it.' Yet the brave lad did not open his mouth. He suffered and became unconscious but spoke not a word. He was later brought back to the Seoni jail, where he narrated his experiences."

80 MILE WIND STRIKES CITY; UPROOTS TREES AND BREAKS WINDOWS

A flashing gust of wind that reached a velocity of 80 miles per hour struck Chicago for nearly a minute last night. In that brief time dozens of trees in the city and suburbs were uprooted, wires broken, telephone poles bowled over, and store windows smashed.

The weather bureau recorded a 60 second sustained wind of 45 miles, which also accounted for some damage. This, Forecaster G. E. Dunne rated as a gale. The last previous high windstorm occurred Armistice day, 1940, when wind in Chicago reached sustained velocities of 40 to 50 miles, and a gust in Gary, Ind., hit 100 miles. Hurricane velocity is 75.

Heavy rains were borne by the winds. Most of the wind damage was reported in the north and northwestern sections of the city, and in northwestern suburbs. The winds began blowing at noon, and started gaining intensity after 3 p. m., reaching the 80 mile gust around 8 p. m.

The roof of a Milwaukee av. street car was punctured in a dozen places by tile which was swept from the 12th floor coping of a building at Madison st. and Wacker dr. Mrs. Genevieve Blaszczyk, 25, of 1200 Huron st., a passenger, was slightly hurt.

Mrs. Esther Emilson and her daughter, Edna, 21, were injured last night and a guest, Ernest G. Peterson, 5810 Ridge av., also was hurt when a granary being used temporarily as a home by the Emilsons on their farm on Route 176, one mile east of Crystal Lake, McHenry county, collapsed in the high wind. Mrs. Emilson's husband, Carl, and Peterson's wife and two sons escaped injury.

Claims Sudan; Asks Independence for Libya

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 12 [Reuters]—The Egyptian people and government are determined to bring about the withdrawal of "foreign forces" from their soil and the government is in contact with the British government on this subject, King Farouk declared today in opening the Egyptian parliament. The king also demanded the Sudan for his country and claimed independence for the former Italian colony of Libya.

King Farouk

"Egypt is more resolved and united than ever to bring about the disappearance of every restriction on her independence by the withdrawal of foreign forces and by the affirmation of unity in the Nile valley," Farouk said.

Objectives Are Pursued

"The Egyptian government is in contact with the British government on this subject and is actively pursuing its task in order to realize our wishes and achieve the best results."

[The king's use of the phrase "unity in the Nile valley" presumably referred to the recent call by the Egyptian cabinet for the incorporation of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan into Egypt. At present the Sudan is an Anglo-Egyptian condominium with a governor general appointed by Egypt with the assent of Britain.]

Relationship of Britain to Egypt was regulated for 10 years by the Anglo-Egyptian treaty of 1936, which may be revised next year if both governments agree.

"Force No Argument"

Farouk declared that events in the Levant states where there had been clashes with the French had proved that force was no argument.

"The same lesson applies to Palestine, where the Zionists had no need to disturb a peaceful nation by seeking to submerge it in order to suppress it.

"Applying the same principles, Egypt has hastened to claim for Libya independence on the basis of consultation of the inhabitants and the integrity of their country."

He referred to the Arab league pact subscribed to by the Arab states of the middle east as inaugurating a new era of prosperity, grandeur, and expansion in the history of the Arab nations.

Greeted with the traditional cry of "Long live the king, monarch of Egypt and the Sudan," Farouk was warmly applauded by Nationalist members of parliament as he outlined Egypt's national aspirations.

Economic Reforms Planned

Turning to economic affairs, the king said the Egyptian government had asked Britain that no decision on the subject of sterling balances in London be taken without Egypt's consent. The government, he said, hoped to find with Britain a practical solution of the problem of Britain's debt to Egypt.

Other points in the speech included plans for economic reforms beneficial to the poorer classes.

UNDERWEAR IS CLEW IN CASE OF MISSING BOY

Los Angeles, Cal., Nov. 12 (AP)—The possibility that Dickie tum Suden, 3, missing from his parents' home near Downieville, Cal., since Nov. 1, was in this area was being checked by police today.

The investigation was started when a piece of child's underwear bearing a laundry mark which police said looked like "Tom-S," was found in a motor court near Van Nuys yesterday. The letter "O" was broken at the lower loop, however, making it an inverted "U."

The owner of the court told police that a man and a woman registered Saturday night. She related that when the man and woman checked out the next morning, a soldier, carrying a child of about 3 with golden hair, left by a rear door in the same court in which the couple stayed.

POWER POLITICS ENGULF SECRET OF ATOM BOMB

British Maneuvering for Deal with Russia

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12—President Truman, holding on for dear life to America's atomic bomb, was up to his neck in British power politics tonight.

British Prime Minister Attlee was maneuvering to give Russia the bomb secret indirectly, provided the soviet union agrees to keep off British empire preserves and otherwise stops annoying the British lion.

The Outstanding Question

Whether Mr. Truman will fall in with this British scheme to use the bomb secret as a pawn in European power politics for the furtherance of British empire policy was the outstanding question when the conversations between the President and the prime minister were suspended today. The White House declined any comment on Mr. Attlee's proposals, stating that the President is "in honor bound" to give out no information until the official statement is issued at the close of the conference later this week.

After a brief discussion with the President this forenoon, the prime minister moved from the White House to the British embassy and spent the remainder of the day composing the speech he will make to congress in joint session at 11:30 a. m. Chicago time.

A Major Purpose

To address congress was one of Mr. Attlee's major purposes in coming to Washington, for it is congress that soon will be called upon to decide whether the United States is to loan Great Britain 4 billion dollars for 50 years at nominal interest.

All Britain, from titled nobility to proletariat, is relying on the new socialist prime minister to make such a favorable impression upon congress that there will be no question of the extension of the credit. While he may present his views in a general way on the disposition of the atomic bomb, Mr. Attlee is understood to be intent chiefly upon informing congress of the financial condition of Great Britain and of the aims of its Labor government by way of allaying apprehension in this country that in aiding Britain financially America would be promoting the socialization of industry and the eventual extinction of private enterprise.

On Trade Concessions

Sen. Johnson [D., Colo.] hoped the prime minister would tell congress about Britain's trade policies.

"They are asking us for loans, but are not saying much about trade concessions," he said.

According to British officials the loan is not figuring in the Truman-Attlee conferences, altho the negotiations are nearing a close. Nor, according to the British, is the Palestine question likely to come up, in view of an agreement already reached between Washington and London on the creation of an Anglo-American committee to survey the number of European refugee Jews desiring to settle in Palestine. Mr. Truman proposed the immediate admission of 100,000 Jews and Mr. Attlee countered with a suggestion of 2,000 a month.

The Java Situation

Another question that will not be discussed by the President and the prime minister is the situation in Java, where the British are charged with the massacre of natives in revolt against the restoration of Dutch rule. This is a question that Mr. Attlee is not disposed to discuss and Mr. Truman is not disposed to raise.

The Truman administration has taken its stand firmly with the Dutch and the British in the efforts to put down the independence movement. Altho American lend-lease planes, tanks, trucks, and arms are being used by the British forces against the natives, the administration has merely requested the British to remove the United States emblem from the material used. State Secretary Byrnes said it was not feasible to forbid use of the lend-lease arms because under most lend-lease contracts the United States no longer has title to the material.

Ellender "Not Impressed"

Sen. Ellender [D., La.] said he hoped Mr. Attlee would talk about Java.

"I am not impressed by Mr. Attlee's proposal that the United States release to the world its knowledge of atomic energy," he added. "What I want to know is whether the British are trying to reëstablish the Dutch in the East Indies in order to control the prices we will pay for rubber, tin, and quinine. I don't like the idea of American weapons being used against the natives."

Under the Attlee plan, Russia would get the atomic bomb secret indirectly thru the allied nations organization if Moscow could satisfy London that the soviets had no untoward designs on the British empire.

Five Power Conference

First there would be a conference of the five powers that constitute the permanent membership of the allied nations security council—the United States, Great Britain, Russia, France, and China. At this conference all the powers would lay their cards on the table. Russia would be required to state its present and future political objectives, including all territorial and diplomatic aspirations.

This phase of the proposal goes to the heart of the differences between Britain and the soviet union that caused the outburst in the house of commons last week following the speech by Russian Foreign Commissar Molotov, which the British called "saber rattling." British Foreign Secretary Bevin blurted out in debate that the British are naturally suspicious of the soviet union for "coming right across the throat of the commonwealth."

The Russian Demands

Bevin was referring to the demands the Russians have been making ever since the close of the war to enlarge their sphere of influence in conflict with the British sphere of influence.

At the London conference, Molotov demanded that Russia be accorded a trusteeship under the new league of nations for two Italian colonies—Tripolitania on the north coast of Africa and Eritrea in East Africa, both of which Britain wants. In addition, Molotov asked for naval bases in the Dodecanese Islands in the Aegean sea. With such vantage points in its possession, the soviet union would be fairly astride what the British call their "empire life line," running thru the Mediterranean and the Red sea. As Bevin put it, the Russians would be "coming right across the throat" of the empire.

Nor have the British taken any more kindly to Russian demands for the right not only of freedom of passage but also of fortification of the Dardanelles; to Russian maneuvers to inflame the Arabs and the Jews in the near east against the British, and to Russian promotion of unrest in India. Russian designs in the far east also have aroused British suspicions.

Six Die in Crash

Beacon, N. Y. (arrow), where Commodore Dixie Kiefer and five others died in crash of plane bound from Caldwell, N. J., to Quonset, R. I.

Beacon, N. Y., Nov. 12 (AP)—Commodore Dixie Kiefer, 49, Pacific war hero, once called the "indestructible man," was found dead today amid the twisted wreckage of a navy plane near the summit of Mount Beacon.

Five others died with him. None of the dead was from Chicagoland.

The commodore was widely known as Capt. Dixie of the documentary film "The Fighting Lady," which depicted war time life aboard a carrier. He lived thru 10 major wounds in two wars, was hit 65 times by shrapnel in one Pacific battle, and died on a peace time trip of 160 miles, an hour's scheduled journey.

The plane plunged into the rain and fog shrouded mountain three miles northeast of here shortly after noon yesterday. The wreckage was not found until 3 a. m. today.

ALLIED PARLEY ON JAVA URGED IN PARLIAMENT

LONDON, Nov. 12 [Reuters]—Consultation with the soviet union, the United States, and other allies regarding the situation in Java was urged in the house of commons today by Dr. Haden Guest, Laborite.

He described the fighting there as "a major action taking place in war."

Philip Noel Baker, replying on behalf of Foreign Secretary Bevin, said: "It seems to me that the most desirable thing is to secure agreement amongst those on the spot. The government hopes it may be done and that law and order may be restored with the least possible bloodshed."

Dr. Guest asked, "Why should the odium of this attack on the Indonesians be laid on our shoulders?"

"The Dutch East Indies government has agreed to meet Dr. Soekarno and I hope that the meeting will shortly take place," Baker replied.

Norse Children of Nazis to Be Given Citizenship

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Norwegian government has decided to make citizens of the 9,000 children born during the occupation to Norwegian mothers and German fathers, it was announced today. A committee appointed to investigate the matter reported that it was unsafe to send the children to Germany, and recommended they be made "good Norwegian citizens."

BRITISH SHIPS AGAIN BOMBARD INDONESIAN PORT

a building after reporting "unusual activity." Pilots picked out the location of 75 mm. guns firing from south of the city. Three naval frigates and one destroyer put two barrages on the area. Nothing has been heard from the guns since.

One Indonesian, hiding in a building, threw a Molotov cocktail [gasoline bomb] on a British tank, setting it on fire. The Indian tank commander lifted the hatch, took the fire extinguisher, and squirted out the blaze, despite snipers' bullets pinging all around him. The fire gone, he battened down the hatch again and the tank rolled on.

Heavy Loss of Life

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 12 (AP)—British planes struck at Indonesian strongpoints in Soerabaja again today as Indian troops, now reported in control of nearly all the big Dutch naval base, fought off fanatical Indonesian charges.

The fighting was exacting a heavy toll of lives both among the Indonesian Nationalists and civilians.

The Dutch news agency Aneta said some women and children were killed when they were caught in the crossfire as Indian and Nationalist forces battled in the streets. The agency also reported that houses and shops were being looted and smashed as the Indonesians retreated. Furniture, crockery, clothing, and rolls of cloth littered the street. Hundreds of pairs of silk stockings from one warehouse were ripped and scattered.

Control Most of City

The Dutch reported the British had gained control of most of the city. The latest British statement said their forces had won nearly half of the port.

The British command said the type of Indonesian attacks and the use of weapons at the naval base "indicate most strongly that the Japanese are guiding and helping the Indonesians, altho proof of the fact has not yet been established."

The Soerabaja radio called upon the United States, China, and Russia to intervene and demanded that religious leaders in Java assist in poisoning the water supply of the allied forces, Aneta said.

BRITISH SEAMEN CHANGE MINDS; SAIL WITH DUTCH

SYDNEY, Australia, Nov. 12 (AP)—The liner Moreton Bay, carrying 1,600 Dutch troops brought from Britain to Australia, left for Java tonight after a British crew which walked off the ship yesterday decided to sail the vessel after all.

The crew of 100 left the liner yesterday and cabled the National Union of Seamen in London for advice as to whether to sail the ship with Dutch troops aboard. All but 10 members of the crew voted to sail, after saying no reply was received.

Wins Peace Prize

Cordell Hull at his desk in Washington, D. C., apartment yesterday after learning he had been awarded the Nobel peace prize for 1945.

OSLO, Norway, Nov. 12 (AP)—Cordell Hull, 74, former United States secretary of state, was awarded the 1945 Nobel peace prize today for the part he played in laying the foundations for the allied nations organization.

At the same time the five man committee of the Norwegian parliament, which made the award, announced that the 1944 peace prize would go to the international committee of the Red Cross at Geneva, Switzerland, for its work among prisoners of war.

This was the first time the prize had been awarded since 1938. Normally it is voted annually by the Nobel committee of the Norwegian parliament to the person or persons "who shall have most or best promoted the fraternity of nations and the abolishment or diminution of standing armies and the formation and extension of peace congresses."

GOODBY, BRITAIN, IF A-BOMBS FALL, FLYER WARNS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 12—Britain was warned tonight by a man who saw what the atom bomb did to Nagasaki, Japan, that she faces "total and absolute extinction" if involved in another war. Recounting his experience as royal air force observer on the Nagasaki raid, Group Capt. Leonard Cheshire, in a speech at Manchester, said that ending all war is a biological necessity as far as the British are concerned.

The only other safe courses, he said, would be to accommodate the nation's 50 million persons permanently 1,000 feet underground, or to abandon this country and disperse the population thruout the empire.

SWEDES REVEAL V-10 WEAPON AS NAZI 'SPACE SHIP'

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 12 (AP)—The newspaper Aftonbladet quoted an unnamed British lieutenant today as saying that the Swedish engineer, Nils Werner Larsson, on trial in Sweden for delivering military secrets to both Germany and the allies, held the key to construction of the whole series of nazi vengeance weapons from V-1 to V-10.

The V-10 was the weapon which the Germans expected to hurl across the Atlantic in 35 minutes to bombard the United States. It was in blueprint stage when Germany surrendered.

The newspaper said plans for the V-10 reached the United States seven weeks ago and formed the basis for Gen. Arnold's reference to "space ships" in his report yesterday to the United States secretary of war.

Delivered Improved Pistol

In the report, Arnold envisaged space ships traveling 3,000 miles an hour "operating outside the earth's atmosphere." He added:

"The design of such a ship is all but practicable today; research will unquestionably bring it into being within the foreseeable future."

Larsson is charged specifically with offering German military secrets to allied military representatives in Sweden and of delivering an improved Swedish machine pistol to the Germans, presumably to create confidence in him.

The newspaper quoted the British lieutenant, who recently visited Sweden from Hamburg as saying that Larsson had great technical knowledge and had worked in the German experimental laboratories in Peenemuende in 1943, where V-weapons were developed.

Aided V-Weapon Builders

Larsson left Sweden in 1943 for Germany and assisted German discoverers and builders of the V-weapons, the newspaper said. After the German collapse, Larsson was said to have had freedom of movement in Germany. The British officer was reported to have met Larsson in an officers' barracks in Hamburg a few weeks ago.

The Briton was quoted as saying the entire German staff, which was used in Peenemuende to develop V-weapons—about 90 men in all—was transferred to the United States several weeks ago.

Larsson was arrested by the Swedes at the border, apparently while en route home from Germany.

HALSEY PLEADS: COOL OFF; KEEP SEPARATE NAVY

Crowds Shout 'Hi, Bull!' and He Loves It

BY LESLIE MONYPENNY

Adm. Halsey topped off a two day visit to Chicago last night with an urgent plea to the nation for retention of a separate navy. Proposals for a merger of all armed services have been made in Washington, D. C., in recent weeks and Gen. MacArthur has approved the plan.

In defiance of advocates of unified forces, Halsey said he had three basic thoughts on American arms: "Hold fast to our strength; observe a 'cooling off' period before we undertake drastic changes in our proven and successful naval and military system; don't go off half-cocked and scrap what we now have in the hope that some political panacea may come to hand and prevent future wars."

Favors Unity of Command

The plain spoken admiral, who won his greatest fame as commander of the 3d fleet, which smashed the Jap navy, spoke to 2,000 persons at an association of commerce dinner. He emphasized that he was staunchly declaring the need for unity of field and combat command.

Spattering rain and overcast skies yesterday did not stop thousands of Chicagoans from roaring a welcome to Halsey, who came as Chicago's official guest and received a greeting Chicagoans save for those they love and respect.

There was more than the usual parade welcome in the spontaneous applause from the massed thousands who lined the parade route and it showed in the shouts of "Hi, Bull!" and "We showed 'em, didn't we?" as Halsey sat on the back of an open car.

Waves to Spectators

Halsey loved it. He has a deeply lined face, but it was creased with an ear to ear boylike grin, and he constantly waved his hand to salute cheering spectators in windows far above the street. It was Halsey's day.

The parade, which included 10 bands and 10,000 marchers, was made up of men and women from military and naval units in the Chicago area, and Legion, Red Cross, and R. O. T. C. units. Adm. Halsey reviewed it after his car, in which Gov. Green and Mayor Kelly rode, reached State and Madison sts.

Ceremonies at the stand, which combined a salute to the dead of two great wars with the colorful program for the Pacific hero, were interrupted once or twice by rain. Halsey, in a blue naval uniform, black raincoat, and white officer's cap, nimbly ducked under an umbrella with Mayor Kelly.

Calls Him an Alderman

Gov. Green, wearing a raincoat, quickly found his hat and put it on. The crowd roared when Mayor Kelly, addressing Halsey, unthinkingly called him Alderman Halsey.

Halsey's face sobered when he spoke of the dead of this war and the last. He called for a strong America, one that must accept responsibility as the world's greatest, yet a peace loving nation.

"The sight of these unbombed buildings and the crowds in this street are the best reward for the bitter years out there," Halsey said.

In a strong voice, the admiral, who commanded the greatest fleet the world has ever known, declared: "We must keep the strength we have won at such great cost. At the council tables we must speak with authority."

Halsey said Chicago's fame had spread thruout the Pacific as a war production center, as a hospitable host, and in the fighting qualities of the two cruisers which bore the name Chicago.

Green Urges Strong America

Gov. Green, following Halsey to the microphones, called for a strong America in words that matched the admiral's.

At 11 a. m. the thousands of spectators turned eastward and stood at attention while the American Legion held its traditional Armistice day ceremony. A firing squad of United States marines sounded three rifle volleys which echoed in the silent streets. A bugler blew taps and a 60 piece orchestra from Great Lakes Naval Training center played "The Star Spangled Banner."

Banks and offices were closed, but in business houses men and women paused at 11 a. m., the hour when the last shot of World War I. was fired 27 years ago.

At noon, Adm. Halsey spoke briefly to a report luncheon of the Community and War Fund campaign workers in the Hotel Sherman.

The admiral will leave Chicago today for Minneapolis, the next stop in a tour of large cities for the Victory Loan.

YANKS DIRECT JAP DEPARTURE, KOREAN RETURN

Tides of Migration Meet at Fusan

FUSAN, Korea, Nov. 12 (AP)—This hill-sheltered port at the southern tip of Korea is witnessing Asia's largest tide of migration resulting from collapse of the Japanese empire.

The Japanese are returning home in stoical despair. Many are abandoning lifetime careers and possessions, since Japan had been established in Korea for 35 years.

Koreans, heretofore employed in the Japanese empire's lowest and most menial labor, are returning to the promise of a new freedom and an independent homeland.

The two tides—a counterpart of many seen in Europe—tonight reached a total of 542,000 since Japan's surrender and Korea's liberation. The total is almost equally divided between the two streams. Ships bringing Koreans home take the Japanese back to Japan.

No Migration in Red Area

It is emphasized that the migration thus far affects only the American-occupied portion of Korea, south of the 38th parallel. No travel is permitted from the Russian zone.

At Fusan's pier the Japanese wait in long lines thru the day and night for necessary processing—delousing, inoculations, and the search for contraband and forbidden amounts of currency. Men, women, and children are permitted to take only what they are able to carry and most of them bear enormous bundles strapped to their backs.

Columns of Japanese bent almost double under such weights take it uncomplainingly, with customary Japanese stoicism and fatalism.

Yanks Direct Operation

The process is under the close supervision of Brig. Gen. Donald J. Myers of Boulder, Colo., commander of the United States 40th infantry division.

Repatriation of the Japanese armies in the American zone of Korea is virtually completed. Nearly 100,000 soldiers have been shipped back to Japan without friction, leaving only some 3,000 for necessary temporary duties.

Japanese civilian repatriates, thus far totaling about 170,000, are leaving voluntarily. Estimates of those remaining in Korea range from 100,000 to 400,000. The question of whether these will be compelled to leave has not been decided. It is realized it may be difficult to determine how many actually are Japanese, in view of considerable intermarriage.

Arrest of Boy Solves 5 Maywood Burglaries

Five recent burglaries in Maywood were solved yesterday, Police Sgt. Frank Stumpf said, with the arrest of Fred Mueller, 13, of 719 22d av., Bellwood, who was seized after he had been frightened away from a house at 17th av. and Washington blvd., he admitted he intended to enter. Sgt. Stumpf said the boy confessed the other burglaries and returned a small amount of money and articles he had taken. The boy, who will be questioned by juvenile officers, was released to his father.

PROTEST TAKING CIVILIANS HOME ON THE HORNET

HONOLULU, Nov. 12 (AP)—The American Veterans committee, claiming more than 1,000 members, announced today it had sent a letter to the military affairs committee protesting utilization of the carrier Hornet to return 1,000 civilian workers to the mainland.

Basing its protest on an article in Stars and Stripes, the latter told the committee "thousands of service men find it difficult to understand the sudden precedence of contractual over moral obligations."

The navy had explained it used the Hornet to return civilian Pearl Harbor workers because the government brought the workers to Oahu under a contract that they be returned when the work was done.

HEAVY MAJORITY CLAIMED BY TITO IN YUGOSLAVIA

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Nov. 12 (AP)—Virtually complete returns showed tonight that Marshal Tito's National Front won a sweeping endorsement in Sunday's general elections, despite an appeal by opposition leaders for a boycott of the balloting.

Incomplete returns showed that more than 90 per cent of the nation's 8,020,671 eligible voters had cast ballots.

National Front candidates for the constituent assembly, running without opposition, polled the heaviest vote ever recorded in Yugoslavia, partly because women were voting for the first time.

There was one other way besides boycott in which the voters could express opposition to Tito's candidates—a special ballot box for those who did not approve any of the National Front candidates.

FLY 7 ITALIANS TO U. S. IN POUND TREASON INQUIRY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 (AP)—Seven Italians who may testify in the treason trial of Ezra Pound, American poet who allegedly broadcast for the axis during the war, arrived here today.

The group, flown from Italy, will be questioned by justice department attorneys and will appear before a District of Columbia federal grand jury. Justice department officials said the jury would be asked to re-indict Pound for treason.

The original indictment, returned in 1943, was based on broadcast recordings by the federal communications commission and on FBI investigations. The new indictment would be based on testimony by the Italian witnesses who say they saw Pound broadcast from axis Rome. A department spokesman said the treason law requires at least two witnesses to each overt act.

DEFEAT IN SIGHT, JAPS EASE WAR PRISONERS' LOT

Given Dog Meat, Allowed to Dig Clams

(This is another article in a series on "Men Who Wouldn't Die," whose author was a prisoner of the Japanese for 40 months.)

BY MAJ. A. C. TISDELLE
as told to Carl Wiegman
[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

Last spring, when the Japs saw their defeat and doom approaching, they began to be more solicitous about our welfare. For the most part, their new regard for us was expressed by words, rather than deeds, but there were a few improvements.

We began to receive 40 dog carcasses, each weighing 20 or 30 pounds, for our mess. These were delivered about once a week. We boiled the meat in soup and found it stringy, sweet, and quite good. Since we had eaten horses, mules, monkeys and lizards on Bataan, and rats, water buffalo, and whale in prison camps, our sensibilities were not offended by dog meat.

The Japs started permitting us to send working parties to the seashore to dig clams, which also added protein to our diet. A camp farm was started on 35 acres provided by Baron Mitsui. The farm not only provided vegetables for our mess, but precious sunshine for the farm workers, who were convalescents from our hospital. Men who work 12 hours daily in a coal mine get little sunshine.

Underfed Michigan Soldier Dies

Our diet was still far from adequate, as an entry in my diary for March 22 indicates. On that day Sgt. Henry E. Haywood of Wayne, Mich., died of malnutrition.

We could see, by their general behavior, that the Japs were getting jittery. Every day, at every formation, the officers made speeches telling how much they treasured us.

"Take good care of your health," they pleaded. "Don't catch cold. Remember that we are here for your protection. The population is hostile. Don't go outside the gate without a guard. The guards will protect you."

Civilian Population Friendly

As a matter of fact, the civilian population was very friendly by this time. In the coal mine, our men violated the rules and talked constantly with civilian miners, when guards were not looking. On the farm, prisoners made friends with the Japanese children, who are charming little people. The children even helped our men pick weeds similar to spinach, which we put into our soup.

The Jap corporal in charge of the farm was a decent fellow. When he thought the children were pestering our men too much, he chased them away. They scampered behind his back and made the Jap motions which are equivalent to thumbing your nose.

A Penalty for Conversation

The spirit of humanity did not extend to the camp administration, as we learned to our sorrow on April 11, when one of our prisoners was arrested on a charge of talking with civilians in the mine. To spare the feelings of his family, I shall not use his correct name, but shall call him Corp. Christian, which is a more accurate name than his own.

Christian was a good hearted, good natured fellow, who was imposed on by everybody. He was a jack of all trades and could fix anything. Once he made caps out of old blankets for many men who needed them. Corp. Christian wanted to be a minister after the war and spent much of his spare time helping our chaplain.

The Japs kept him in jail for four days and forced him to kneel at attention on a bamboo rod. They kept him standing for hours with arms outstretched and a rock in each hand. If he lowered his arms, he was beaten. I went to Lt. Fukihara, the Jap commander, to intercede for Christian, and was told that he had been "very bad" and had to be disciplined.

Yank Dies of Brutal Treatment

At midnight of the fourth day the Jap guards stripped him and stood him in front of the jail, where he could be seen by a shift of prisoners going to work in the coal mine. Our men watched, with fists clenched and eyes blazing, as a Jap guard poured buckets of icy water over the helpless, naked man.

Christian took it bravely. When an American sergeant stepped forward and tried to speak to the guards, Christian told him to get back in ranks. For a few tense seconds we thought there would be a riot and a massacre. Then the American sergeants regained control and hurriedly marched the men away to the coal mine.

Christian was taken back to jail. Two days later, our doctors received a hurry up call to come to the jail. They found Christian on the floor of his cell, dead.

Executed for Trying to Flee

Soon afterward, a marine corporal was jailed on a charge of trying to escape from the mine. Several Jap military policemen came to camp and took the corporal away. Two days later the Japs announced he had confessed and had been executed. His ashes were brought back to camp.

At Camp 17 we thought we were the most miserable men in the world until the day when 50 Americans limped in under guard from Camp 1. They were more emaciated than we were.

When 97 Americans arrived from Camp Cabanatuan, on Luzon, all of them survivors of a ship that had been bombed, strafed, torpedoed, and sunk, we decided we had been lucky. These men were in such bad shape that many of them died during the next month.

Chaplain's Amazing Escapes

One of them who did not die was Maj. John Edward Duffy of Toledo, O., a chaplain whose series of escapes from death were almost miraculous.

During the death march from Bataan, Father Duffy was bayoneted and left for dead. Filipinos rescued him, nursed him back to health, and hid him for months. A traitor betrayed him and the Japs threw him into a dungeon at Fort Santiago, where he was tried by court martial.

Somehow, he beat the court martial, the only American known to have done so during the war, and was put into Bilibid prison. While being taken to Japan, he was on three separate ships, all of which were sunk. He arrived on the fourth ship.

Earns Admiration of Japs

Father Duffy's experiences had not made him fearful of the Japs. He bawled out the camp interpreter every time he saw him, telling him the Japs ought to be ashamed of themselves. Even the Japs admired Father Duffy.

On April 23 I was relieved from duty, with six other officers, on orders of the Jap commander. We were told to prepare to leave the camp three days later. Before our departure the Japs searched us carefully. Expecting this I left my diary in the latrine during the search and managed to get it again before we were taken away. The diary recorded the deaths of 97 out of 1,721 prisoners at camp 17.

We went by truck to the railway station of Omuta and by train to Fukuoka, where we joined a large group of officers being assembled for shipment to Manchuria.

That night, after we had been placed aboard a ship, American B-29s flew over on a bombing mission.

The ship carried us to Fusan, Korea, during the next day. On the way one of the officers died of malnutrition and was buried at sea. This was a sorrow, of course, but our mood was one of excitement and curiosity about our destination. We knew by this time that the end of our troubles was near.

Boy, 6, Pilots Plane for Father

Al Bennett Jr., 6, and his father before their take-off yesterday from Middletown, O., in plane piloted by the boy.

Coming to Chicago

Fort Wayne, Ind., Nov. 12 (AP)— Al Bennett Jr., 6, landed a light two place airplane on Smith municipal airport here today and announced he was taking a brief vacation from 1st grade to become the world's first flying newsboy.

With the boy was his father, flying instructor Al Bennett Sr., of Middletown, O. They carried the first issue of a children's magazine from Middletown and will make their last deliveries in Chicago tomorrow.

Bennett Sr. said he had been teaching his son to fly since last year. The youngster is not permitted to solo by civil aeronautics board regulations.

Al Jr. is just learning to read and his father tells him what the instruments say. His other flying aids are extensions on the rudder pedals and a couple of pillows on the seat.

RIPS TESTIMONY YAMASHITA GAVE MURDER ORDER

BY ROBERT CROMIE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 13 [Tuesday] —(AP)—Bright eyed Bisiumino Romero, 14, took the stand this afternoon as a defense witness in the trial of Gen. Tomyuki Yamashita and in fluent Japanese gave a complete contradiction of one of the prosecution's most important witnesses.

The boy, whose alert appearance and obvious intelligence held the spectators' attention, said he knew Yamashita only thru photographs and from the fact that he had only once seen him.

Denies Serving as Interpreter

He flatly denied he had ever served as interpreter during a conversation between Yamashita and the late Gen. Artemio Ricarte, Filipino revolutionary and pro-Japanese, the boy's grandfather.

The boy said he had never seen Yamashita at the Ricarte home, altho he had served as interpreter between his grandfather and other Japanese generals.

His testimony completely threw down the story of Joaquin Galang, a prosecution witness who testified a week ago that he was present when the boy was interpreting between Yamashita and Ricarte and that at that time Yamashita had told how he had issued an order for the massacre of Filipinos and the destruction of Manila and would not rescind the order.

Questioned concerning Galang's statement, the boy said, "It's a lie."

Americans Shot in Camp

Starvation and murder at the Los Banos internment camp in Laguna province was told today by two former American internees, one a 66 year old attorney.

Paul Hennesen, a mechanical engineer, told of a food situation that grew progressively worse until even pigs starved to death, and civilian internees were given unhulled rice to eat—food which is usually given only to chickens.

He said the barracks were so flimsy that when protests about them were ignored by the Japanese, seven collapsed in a small typhoon last August.

The most gripping portion of his testimony, however, was the description of how two internees were shot while attempting to return to camp after having been out during the night, presumably in search of food.

Two Internees Shot

The first occasion was on Jan. 20 when an American named Pat was held and shot while sliding down a gully, heading toward the camp. After he fell he was shot five more times. Beside him was a little bag containing two coconuts and other native food.

The second murder was on Jan. 28 when George Lewis, also an American, was shot just before daylight while slipping under a fence into the camp. Despite strong protests by the camp committee, Lewis, whose wound was slight, was taken to a clump of bamboo trees outside the camp and executed.

Ordered to Kill

Clyde A. DeWitt, an attorney who was formerly a member of the internee committee, told how members argued with the camp commandant, only to be told that his orders were that guards should "shoot until they kill" when persons attempted to escape.

The Philippines supreme court has called upon Lt. Gen. W. D. Styer, commanding general, American Forces in the Western Pacific, who appointed the military commission trying Yamashita, to show cause why the trial should be continued. The defense had asked for a writ of prohibition on the ground that the military lacked jurisdiction.

U. S. SHIPS LAND 2D CHINA ARMY AT GREAT WALL

Believe Nationalist Force Outnumbers Reds

BY JOSEPH HEARST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

ABOARD ADM. BARBEY'S FLAGSHIP U. S. S. CATOCTIN, Off Taku, China, Nov. 12—Vice Adm. Daniel E. Barbey, commander of the 7th amphibious force, announced today that the remainder of the Chinese Nationalist 52d army had just been landed at Chinwangtao. The Nationalists now have two full armies, the 13th and 52d, encamped before Shanhaikwan. The city, at the southern threshold of Manchuria, is held by Chinese Communists.

Chinese Nationalists were brought to Chinwangtao from Haiphong, Indo-China, by the 70th and 71st American transport divisions. As in the movement last week of the first units of the 52d army, there was considerable illness among Chinese. Ten deaths at sea were attributed to "dysentery or presumptive cholera." There is no illness among American naval personnel attributable to the presence of Chinese, however.

Outnumber Communists.

The new Chinese forces, under command of Lt. Gen. Chao, moved thru Chinwangtao and took up positions on plains south of the Great Wall. While the Chinese army does not equal an American army in either numbers or equipment, the nationalist force now before Shanhaikwan, is believed far greater than the communist force.

Neither side has opened attack, altho there have been numerous skirmishes. It appears likely both sides are holding off in hope an acceptable compromise can be reached at a Chungking conference to avert all-out civil war.

Meanwhile, despite the large number of Nationalists present, surrendered Japanese troops and Chinese puppets still were being used to guard railroad lines between Tientsin and Chinwangtao and puppets were being taken into ranks of Nationalists.

No Interference—Patterson

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 (AP)—Secretary of War Patterson said today that United States troops in China will not be used for the suppression of civil strife, but will protect American lives and property.

The text of Patterson's statement:

"The military problem in China at the present time insofar as the United States is concerned is the completion of the surrender, disarmament and evacuation of the Japanese forces. There are still more than a million armed Japanese in the China theater.

"Our limited force on the continent of Asia is making every practicable effort to assist the forces of the central government of China in the accomplishment of this mission.

"The United States troops in China will not be used for the suppression of civil strife but will protect American lives and property.

"Points in China that have been liberated by United States forces will be turned over to representatives of the recognized central government of China.

"There is no danger of our troops becoming involved in civil war in China unless they are attacked, in which event we may expect the American troops to react with vigor and success."

PERFUME LEADS FRENCH LIST OF LUXURY EXPORTS

BY ANNE BRUYERE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

PARIS, Nov. 12—Perfume and cognac top the list of luxury products France is exporting in large quantities to the United States, the United Kingdom, and South America for Christmas, Michel Guerin, secretary of the syndicate of the French perfume industry, said today. More than 75 per cent of the perfume produced is earmarked for export.

"The American soldiers have been our best customers," said Guerin. "They bought 60 times more perfume than civilians. However, we expect most of the United States personnel to leave before Christmas so we are reserving the bulk of our output for export purposes."

The lack of bottles and shipping facilities are the biggest problems of cognac and perfume dealers. Nevertheless, the French government is so set on resuming exports on a scale even larger than before the war that it is according special privileges to industries producing merchandise in demand abroad.

The Russians are ordering vehicles of all types. Despite the shortage of coal, rubber, and iron the automobile industry is working full time. In September 3,752 cars were produced and their average price was 300,000 francs [$6,000].

GEN. M'ARTHUR WILL DISBAND U. S. 6TH ARMY

TOKYO, Nov. 13 [Tuesday]—(AP)—Gen. MacArthur today approved the deactivation of the 6th army, which is policing southern Honshu and Kyushu Islands, and the transfer of the entire occupation to the 8th army. The change is expected to be effected in January.

Headquarters said the development probably would not mean any wholesale movement of 6th army troops, but merely the disbanding of headquarters and the reassignment of 6th army personnel to Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger's 8th army command. There was no information about a possible new command for Gen. Walter P. Krueger, 6th army commender.

Divisions now in the 6th army are the 32d, 41st, 98th, 33d, 24th, 25th, and the 2d and 5th marine, the 13th armored group and the 6th ranger battalion. Headquarters is at Kyoto, on Kyushu Island.

The string of children, ages 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 11, 12, 13, and their attractive, darked eyed 33 year old mother, brought considerable attention as they awaited their train.

Mrs. Vernoy, holding the 2 year old, explained that her husband, Stephen, had just returned from the South Pacific and was under medical care at Orange, Cal. They plan to make their home at Orange.

ACCUSE HUSBAND AFTER SLAYING OF NAVY OFFICER

Leonardtown, Md., Nov. 12—Navy Lt. Rodgers Edward Wilson, 28, of Edgewood, Pa., was shot and killed at a California, Md., home after a dispute arose with his host, State Trooper G. F. Sanger reported tonight.

Lt. R. E. Wilson

The trooper said he had sworn out a murder warrant, naming George William Booker, 34, a vending machine maintenance man, at whose home the slaying occurred.

Sanger said he was informed that another naval officer and Wilson had joined the Bookers at a drinking party in their home last night. Sanger said that during the evening Wilson allegedly had made an insulting remark to Mrs. Booker, 30. Ordered from the house by the husband, Wilson left, accompanied by the other officer, but returned and threatened Booker, Sanger said. Wilson was shot twice.

Hunters Fire and Become Successful Fishermen

ESTEVAN, Sask., Nov. 12 (AP)—Two hunters, P. C. Brown and Archie Holley, sighted some ducks from the edge of McDonald lake near here. Brown fired. The wadding from the shell fell into a hole in the ice. A big jack fish jumped for the wadding, and landed on the ice. Holley's dog retrieved the fish. The ducks got away.

SMUGGLING RING FOUND ON U.S. TO MONTREAL LINE

MONTREAL, Que., Nov. 12 (AP)—Investigation on trains between Montreal and New York has uncovered a smuggling ring, a Canadian police officer said tonight.

The official said seven men would be arraigned "within a day or two" and that he understood an eighth man had been arrested in the United States.

The gang, police said, took Canadian goods into the United States for distribution on the black market there and returned to Canada with American goods for illegal sale here. Cigarets, silk stockings and lingerie were favorite articles brought into Montreal. Food products received top priority in the New York trips.

MIKADO HEADS JAP COMMUNIST CRIMINALS LIST

TOKYO, Nov. 12 (AP) — Emperor Hirohito heads a war criminal list being prepared by the fledgling Japanese Communist party because he must share responsibility for the Pearl Harbor attack, Yoshio Shiga, one of the party's leaders, said today.

"The emperor cannot escape war guilt," said Shiga, "and should be exiled to China under allied surveillance."

The Communist party announced it will sponsor a nation-wide campaign to investigate Japanese war criminals—starting on Dec. 8, the Pearl Harbor anniversary.

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters surveyed results of allied occupation policies and reported that diplomacy and directives have shattered the nation's war minded, spiritual, and economic control systems as effectively as bombs destroyed its cities and factories.

MOTHER OF TWO SAYS SHE WOULD WED BOY ELOPER

Oroville, Cal., Nov. 12 [Special]—Mrs. Eleanor Devent, 25, mother of two children and wife of a soldier serving in Japan, told officers here today that she loves Ellsworth Wisecarver, 16, and would like to divorce her husband "if Sonny still wants me."

Mrs. Devent came here last Wednesday with "Sonny," as she calls Wisecarver. They were taken into custody last night after her father reported they disappeared from a Long Beach home, where both were house guests. They intended to bring her children to Oroville, she said.

Last year Wisecarver eloped with Mrs. Elaine Mofredi, 22, and mother of two children. They were married in Yuma, Ariz. The marriage was subsequently annuled.

ENGLAND'S FEAR OF U. S. SEEN IN RISE OF CANADA

Tell How War Strategy Aided Liberty

[This is the fourth and last of a series on Canada's rise to nationhood.]

BY FRANK HUGHES
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 12—Canada began to seek nationhood, confederation, and a constitution in the Civil war years for a variety of reasons, one of which will appear astounding to Americans today.

In old documents in the library of parliament here is a statement by John A. Macdonald of Ontario [then Upper Canada], one of the foremost in the Canadian confederation movement.

"If it were not for the weakness of Canada," Macdonald said at the 1864 confederation conference in Quebec, "Great Britain might have joined France in acknowledging the southern confederacy. We must, therefore, become important, not only to England, but in the eyes of foreign states, and especially of the United States, who have found it impossible to conquer four millions of southern whites. Our united population would reach that number . . ."

Civil War Leaves Its Imprint

There is no doubt but that the lessons of the Civil war played a large part in the thinking of the Canadian confederation fathers. They selected a federal form of union because they were determined to avoid the issue of states' rights which they blamed for the Civil war in the United States.

At the same time, British apathy toward her colonies and abject fear of the United States was one of the reasons why Canadians were permitted to confederate and form a fragmentary self-government without any more interference from England than they suffered.

William Garvie, a journalistic associate of Joseph Howe of Nova Scotia, was present at the London conference at which Canada's constitution, the British North America act, was drafted in March, 1867. He wrote a letter describing the situation.

"The only people who really cared anything about the matter [the Canadian constitution] were precisely the people whose interest it was to put it forward," he wrote.

Fear of U. S. Expands

"More than that, I find among English politicians a growing fear of the United States which is really humiliating. English statesmen have made up their minds not to fight a land battle on this continent [America], for they know just as well as we do that they could never keep the Yankee troops on their side of the frontier, and that it would be one of the costliest campaigns into which Britain could drift.

"They are under the impression that if they do not own a foot of soil in America the Yankees cannot come over to attack them without positive peril—and they are, therefore, willing upon any pretext to turn us adrift.

"'I would not care,' said a member of parliament to me, 'if Grant were in Montreal tomorrow, so long as we were not bound to find soldiers to drive him out. He would not hurt you if you were not bound to us; and he could never hurt us there; while he would ruin himself by coming to us on board ship'."

Garvie related how the British North America act, shepherded thru three conferences by loyal, aspiring Canadians, received an indifferent "brush-off" in the British parliament.

"Utterly Indifferent"

"The great body of the house," he wrote, "was utterly indifferent, even the delegates seemed chagrined at the lazy contempt with which a thin house suffered their bill to pass unnoticed thru committee.

"A clerk at the table gabbled on, not the clauses even, but the numbers of the clauses, and as if that were not a quick enough mode of rushing thru a disagreeably dull measure which did not affect anybody's seat, and which therefore could not be listened to, he used to read a whole batch of numbers at once—for example: saying 'Moved that clauses 73, 74, 75 pass,' and they passed sure enough without anybody worrying himself about the contents."

At that indifferent session of the British parliament, Canada crossed the threshold of nationhood. Now, more than 70 years later she has freed herself of all except a vestige of British control, has helped mightily to pull Britain thru a second World war, and is feeding and supplying England during the peace time crisis.

Royalists Fail in Move to Oust Belgian Regime

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Belgian senate gave Premier Achille van Acker a 69 to 35 vote of confidence tonight, climaxing a two-day attempt by royalists to oust his government. For two days, Van Acker heard himself attacked for insisting that King Leopold never return to the Belgian throne.

Holdup for Fun

Estelle Anderson, currency exchange cashier, who thought toy pistol holdup was no joke.

When a stranger walked into the Northcenter Currency exchange at 1008½ Lincoln av. yesterday, and laid a note and a gun on the window counter, the cashier, Estelle Anderson, 30, of 1031 Kenmore av., wasn't thinking of jokes. She dived under the counter and called police. A squad grabbed Charles Rosenmund, 56, of 3543 Van Buren st., a peddler, who grinningly awaited them. He pointed to the gun. It was a toy weapon. He indicated the note. It read: "This is just a joke." Rosenmund is a mute. Police held him for questioning. Thru the sign language he insisted his deed was only a prank.

CLAIMS SWISS WILL ASK CHUNK OF ITALIAN LAND

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Nov. 12—"The Italian government is well aware of the movements afoot to annex Campione to Switzerland," states a story in the Lausanne [Switzerland] Gazette, in spite of the fact that the Swiss foreign minister, Dr. Max Petitpierre, declared on Oct. 28, "Switzerland does not want any territorial gains as a result of a war in which she did not participate."

Arrow locates Campione

The Lausanne Gazette assures its readers that "Switzerland only awaits a peace settlement in order to make territorial claims against Italy."

Campione is a small Italian enclave on the southern shore of Lake Lugano opposite the city of Lugano. Thanks to being surrounded on all sides by Swiss territory, Campione managed to stage an anti-fascist revolution during the neo-fascist period and maintained its independence, nurtured politically and economically by Switzerland during the last 15 months of the war.

'WINDS EXECUTE' TIP KNOWN BY 6, KEEFE SAYS

sion to leave the hospital was extended a few hours after Keefe and Gearhart, on the house floor, charged they were informed Kramer had been "badgered" into mental ill health by high officers seeking to make him change his testimony.

Kramer Highly Nervous

On Oct. 30, a Dr. Raines, head of the psychiatric division, wrote Mrs. Kramer in Miami, Fla., Keefe said, and asked her to come to Washington to see her husband. Kramer was showing some improvement, the physician wrote, but "certain manifestations persisted" which led the doctors to conclude that something was preying on the navy captain's mind. They asked for her assistance in finding out what it was.

"When we talked to Capt. Kramer, he was in a highly nervous condition altho his mind was perfectly clear," Keefe said. "The liberty leave given him after stories in the press about his case came as a complete surprise to him. Mrs. Kramer is now here with him and they are leaving next Wednsday for Miami. He will be back as a witness and in my opinion will be one of the most important of all the witnesses."

Wants G-Man's Testimony

Keefe also said that FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover and some of his G-men should be added to the 48 member witness list for public hearings. Keefe termed the witness list announced Saturday by Chairman Barkley [D., Ky.] "all right—as far as it goes," but added in an interview:

"There are many others who should testify, among them Mr. Hoover.

"The FBI was out at Hawaii doing investigating work prior to the Japanese attack. It had a good live setup and knows a lot of things about which the public should be informed.

"Hoover and some of his agents can give us a lot of information we need."

Keefe added that he and Rep. Gearhart [R., Cal.] have an appointment to see Hoover about the matter tomorrow.

CANADA VOIDS NEW RATES IN TARIFF REVOLT

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 12 (AP)—The Canadian government, faced with a revolt of its supporters from the west, has retreated on tariff changes proposed in the new budget just a month ago and tonight announced cancelation of all new rates. At the same time, the government reaffirmed its support of free trade principles.

The issue centered around a protective tariff of 20 per cent placed on a certain type of steel tubing. The tariff was directed against the United States. Before the war, this product came almost wholly from the United States, but during the war a Canadian plant expanded to produce the item on a large scale. The protective tariff did not apply to the British empire.

In announcing the budget Oct. 12, Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley said there were no important tariff changes. Upon discovery of the steel tubing item the government was attacked by two of its leading newspaper supporters and by members of the government Liberal party from the west, who charged that the tax was a reversion to a protective tariff policy in conflict with the government's avowed espousal of free trade.

Boy Found Dead

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP)—Deputy Coroner Ernest Lanzetta said tonight no date has been set for an inquest into the death of Donald H. Hutchinson, 10, who Detective John Regan said hanged himself after his mother sent him to bed for refusing to help wash dishes.

Lanzetta said the inquest would be scheduled after he had received complete reports on the boy's death.

Regan reported last night the Hutchinson boy had been found strangled in bed with two belts formed as a noose and attached to the bedposts. Regan said the boy's body was discovered by his brother, Howard, 7.

CHARGE SWISS QUISLING LEFT LINE UNGUARDED

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

CHIASSO, Switzerland, Nov. 12—If Switzerland had been laid open to Nazi invasion it would have been wiped out as was Holland in 1940 thru organized treason, revelations published by the Biel newspaper La Jura indicate.

"Maj. Corrodi, later nicknamed Baron Elfendau," the paper says, "had charge of the defense of one of the Rhineland districts in the spring of 1940, the time of the greatest danger of a German invasion. When his troops were alerted he did not distribute ammunition to them, leaving his sector practically without protection against any attack. Evidently this was well known to the Germans, who could have promenaded thru the Swiss lines."

Later Corrodi fled to Germany, where he became an SS [elite guard] ober-fuehrer. He returned to Switzerland at the time of the German collapse. Recently he was court martialed and got an exceptionally mild sentence. Public opinion has been aroused in north Switzerland, where the papers are demanding reopening of his case.

FRENCH REDS 'WON'T OPPOSE' DE GAULLE UNITY

PARIS, Nov. 12 [Reuters]—The French Communist party will not "oppose a demonstration of national unity around the person of Gen. de Gaulle" when the constituent assembly meets tomorrow to elect the head of government of the fourth republic.

This was the reply of Jacques Duclos, secretary general of the Communist party, to a letter from the Socialist party. Duclos said the Communists would not oppose De Gaulle.

The Socialist members of the newly-elected constituent assembly are expected to meet tomorrow morning to decide the stand they will take on the election of the new head of government. The Communists, Socialists and the Catholic left [Mouvement Republicain Populaire] have almost equal representation in the assembly.

POLAND EVADES STARVATION, BUT NEEDS MORE AID

Poland will escape starvation this winter, altho there still is a shortage in that country of basic foods such as fats, oils, and meats, Michael Szyszko, Polish vice minister of agriculture, said at a press conference yesterday.

Visiting Chicago after attending the allied food and agriculture organization meeting at Quebec, Szyszko said part of his mission here is to get the Polish war relief organization which collected large sums of money and vast amounts of clothing and medicine, to start shipments to Poland.

The organization, under the influence of the former exile government in London, has refused to send the money and food which it collected from people thruout America, he charged.

Polish agriculture is recovering rapidly from the war, which reduced its live stock population 74 per cent. Former large land holdings of the Polish aristocracy are being divided among the peasants and the agrarian reform is well under way, he said.

NEW PRECEDENT OF WAR CRIMINAL TRIAL DEFENDED

Elder Krupp Judged Too Ill to Face Court

BY HAL FOUST
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 12—Former Supreme Court Justice Robert H. Jackson, America's chief prosecutor of leading Nazis, and his British counterpart, David Maxwell Fyfe, today defended the international military tribunal against criticism from prominent members of the United States bar. Jackson and Fyfe's argument was mainly that there is no desirable substitute vehicle for trying Hitler's principal backers.

"What," asked a reporter, "can be said to those persons who have complained that the procedure violates the basic principles of democratic jurisprudence, that it is retroactive legislation, that the defense is curbed, and that the proceedings are without precedent?"

"The tribunal is a logical development from treaties that condemn as criminal any nation that wages aggressive war," Fyfe replied. "Here we are condemning individuals for waging aggressive war as well as for their atrocities."

"Must Have Progress"

"I'm afraid Mr. Fyfe is too gentle with these critics," Jackson said. "What would they have us do, kill the defendants without trial? I have no patience with those who object to this tribunal because our grandfathers had nothing like it." Fyfe added, "We must have progress in international law if we are going to preserve peace."

The reporter continued, "Is there anything in the tribunal's charter or its rules by which a victorious aggressor in some future war could be arraigned and convicted, or is the setup for the trial of the vanquished only?"

"Whether the aggressor wins or loses has nothing to do with his guilt," Jackson replied, "but I might point out that, as for future wars, the life of this tribunal under its charter expires in one year."

"There are several wars in progress at the moment in the orient, with contradictory reports on who is the aggressor," said a reporter. "Could this tribunal try individuals for being aggressors there?"

"This tribunal is for the trial of European aggressors only," said Jackson.

Krupp Too Ill to Appear

Britain and the United States today filed separate answers to a motion in behalf of Gustav Krupp von Bohlen und Halbach, 75 year old munitions manufacturer, that his trial be deferred because he is ill and near death in a Salzburg hospital and can not appear.

Jackson is asking that the eldest son, Alfried Krupp, be substituted as defendant. Alfried, president of the Krupp works in which his father is chairman of the board, is in the custody of the British. Jackson's plea cited evidence that the giant munitions company was an active instrument in inciting Hitler's aggressive wars. Jackson said it was desirable to have a "live Krupp" before the court.

The British ask that Gustav be tried in absentia, asserting that the evidence against the Krupp works would be the same. Fyfe said public opinion in Britain would not tolerate postponement of the trials for the proposed change of the indictment. The trials now are scheduled to start Nov. 20 and Jackson estimated that substitution of Alfried would not delay the start more than a week or 10 days.

Jackson made known that when the indictment was drawn he had favored including Alfried as well as Gustav, but that the British, with the support of the Russian and French prosecuting staffs, had objected on the ground that they wanted to limit the number of defendants in the mass trial.

TYLER KENT'S U. S. TRIP STILL BRITISH PUZZLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 12—British official sources and his lawyers today had no further information on when Tyler Kent will be deported to America. A home office spokesman said nothing definite was available regarding the time of his departure but that he was still in Brixton prison.

Kent was moved to Brixton more than a month ago after serving five and a half years in an Isle of Wight prison for violation of this country's official secrets act while working as a code clerk in the American embassy here.

Kent's lawyers apparently are leaving the case entirely in the hands of the home office, which ordered his deportation. His counsel decided on Friday not to apply for a writ of habeas corpus to free him pending deportation. They said he had no means to get home at once because of the muddled transportation situation.

VON RIBBENTROP BUSY WRITING, WIFE BELIEVES

[By Wireless to the New York News and The Chicago Tribune]

NUERNBERG, Germany, Nov. 12—In an unheated little room of a bomb-shattered apartment building, the wife of Joachim von Ribbentrop sat knitting a sweater for her 4-year-old daughter Ursula today, and speaking hopefully of her husband's forthcoming trial as a war criminal.

Unable to visit von Ribbentrop in jail, she said her only contact with him had been thru letters. "He hasn't complained," she said. "He's being well treated." Asked what the former champagne salesman and foreign minister was doing besides working on his defense, she showed a glint of a smile and said, "I suspect he's writing his memoirs."

Asked how she felt about her present personal situation, she shrugged a shoulder and replied, "I'm very philosophical. One shouldn't lose a war, you know." Frau von Ribbentrop doesn't expect to remain in Nuernberg for the trials. Her three youngest children—Berthold, 12; Adolf, 10, and Ursula—are living near Munich. "I must be with them," she said. Her eldest son, Rudolf, 24, is a war prisoner, and Bettina, 23, is a Red Cross nurse.

Argentina Says It Obeys Chapultepec Pact Rules

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Nov. 12 (AP)—The Argentine government in a formal bulletin reiterated tonight its claim to "complete and absolute" compliance with the promises it made when it signed the Americas' Chapultepec agreement earlier this year. The statement said Argentina's military government strengthened the activities of its alien property control, closed German and Japanese schools, eliminated German and Japanese societies, and "carried to the extreme its zeal for supressing and extinguishing all centers of nazi, fascist or totalitarian inspiration."

SEABEES DRILL FOR OIL AT U. S. TOP OF WORLD

[Special to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune]

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, Nov. 11 [Delayed]—At the northernmost tip of Alaska, 5 degrees north of the Arctic circle and about 1,000 miles south of the north pole, Seabees of the United States navy are drilling for oil.

Where navy drills for oil [arrow]

Right now 580 men are living in subzero temperatures here and at Umiat on the Colville river, where the first well is being drilled. Drillers already are down to 1,816 feet. Oil is expected to be struck at 3,000 to 5,000 feet.

Coincident with the drilling of the first well a survey of the land between Fairbanks and Umiat No. 1 has been conducted to learn if a pipeline would be practicable and possible. This survey went north from Fairbanks to Livengood, thence to Yukon and north across the Koyukyk river, up the John River valley and over the Endicott range into Umiat, a 600 mile stretch.

5 Teen-Aged Hunters Drown as Boat Upsets

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 12 [Special]—Five young duck hunters, whose ages ranged from 12 to 16, drowned today and three companions were rescued when their borrowed rowboat upset in swift current at a dam on the Monongahela river, about 15 miles south of Pittsburgh.

NEW MOTORIZED FORCE TO POLICE OCCUPIED REICH

FRANKFURT, Germany, Nov. 12 (AP)—Formation of a motorized force to police the American occupied zones of Germany and Austria with tanks, armored cars, jeeps, and motorcycles, all equipped with two way radio, was announced tonight by United States army headquarters here.

The force will be on an experimental basis, the announcement said, to determine whether a fast moving mechanized organization can increase the efficiency of occupation forces.

If it works, the constabulary will be expanded to take over much of the work now being done by infantry divisions, releasing many occupation troops.

After the harvest . . . what?

Back in America's infancy, in 1621, Governor Bradford proclaimed a day of thanksgiving and prayer after the New England colonists brought in their first harvest. Gradually, over the years, it became a national custom to set aside one day of thanksgiving annually after the harvest. After the harvest!

What a harvest we celebrate in this year of our Lord, 1945! Not alone our bounteous harvest of crops. Not alone our magnificent harvest of military victory. But Peace—Glorious Peace—that's our harvest of '45!

After the harvest . . . what?

A Day of Thanksgiving—from the depths of our souls!

Then we must finish paying for the weapons which did so much to bring us Victory. We must bring our boys and girls back home with all possible speed. We must heal our wounded and disabled—regardless of the cost. We must help every serviceman return to civilian life again.

That's the "Why" of this Victory Loan!

That's why General MacArthur radioed from the battleship Missouri: "They are homeward bound—take care of them!"

That's why the New York Stock Exchange says: Buy Victory Bonds. Don't let anyone talk you into cashing them. That goes for all of your War Bonds. Beware of all "get-rich-quick" schemes. Unscrupulous promoters are looking for victims now—as they were after World War I.

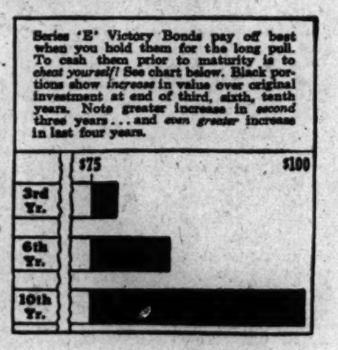
Yes, buy all the Victory Bonds you can—and hold them! These Bonds offer a variety of features meeting virtually every investment requirement. For the average person, the Series 'E' Bond is "tailormade."

When you invest in Series 'E' Victory Bonds, you'll get your money back—plus an extra dollar for every three you lend! That's the investment proposition to you—direct from the U. S. Government. It's the world's safest investment.

All Series 'E' Bonds offer you the same yield, same maturity, and the same safety.

Seventy per cent of this Exchange's net current assets are in U. S. Government Bonds. The Bonds of our Government are the only securities we have ever recommended in the 153 years of our existence.

Invest in Victory Bonds. Invest in Peace—instead of War!



Series 'E' Victory Bonds pay off best when you hold them for the long pull. To cash them prior to maturity is to cheat yourself! See chart below. Black portions show increase in value over original investment at end of third, sixth, tenth years. Note greater increase in second three years . . . and even greater increase in last four years.

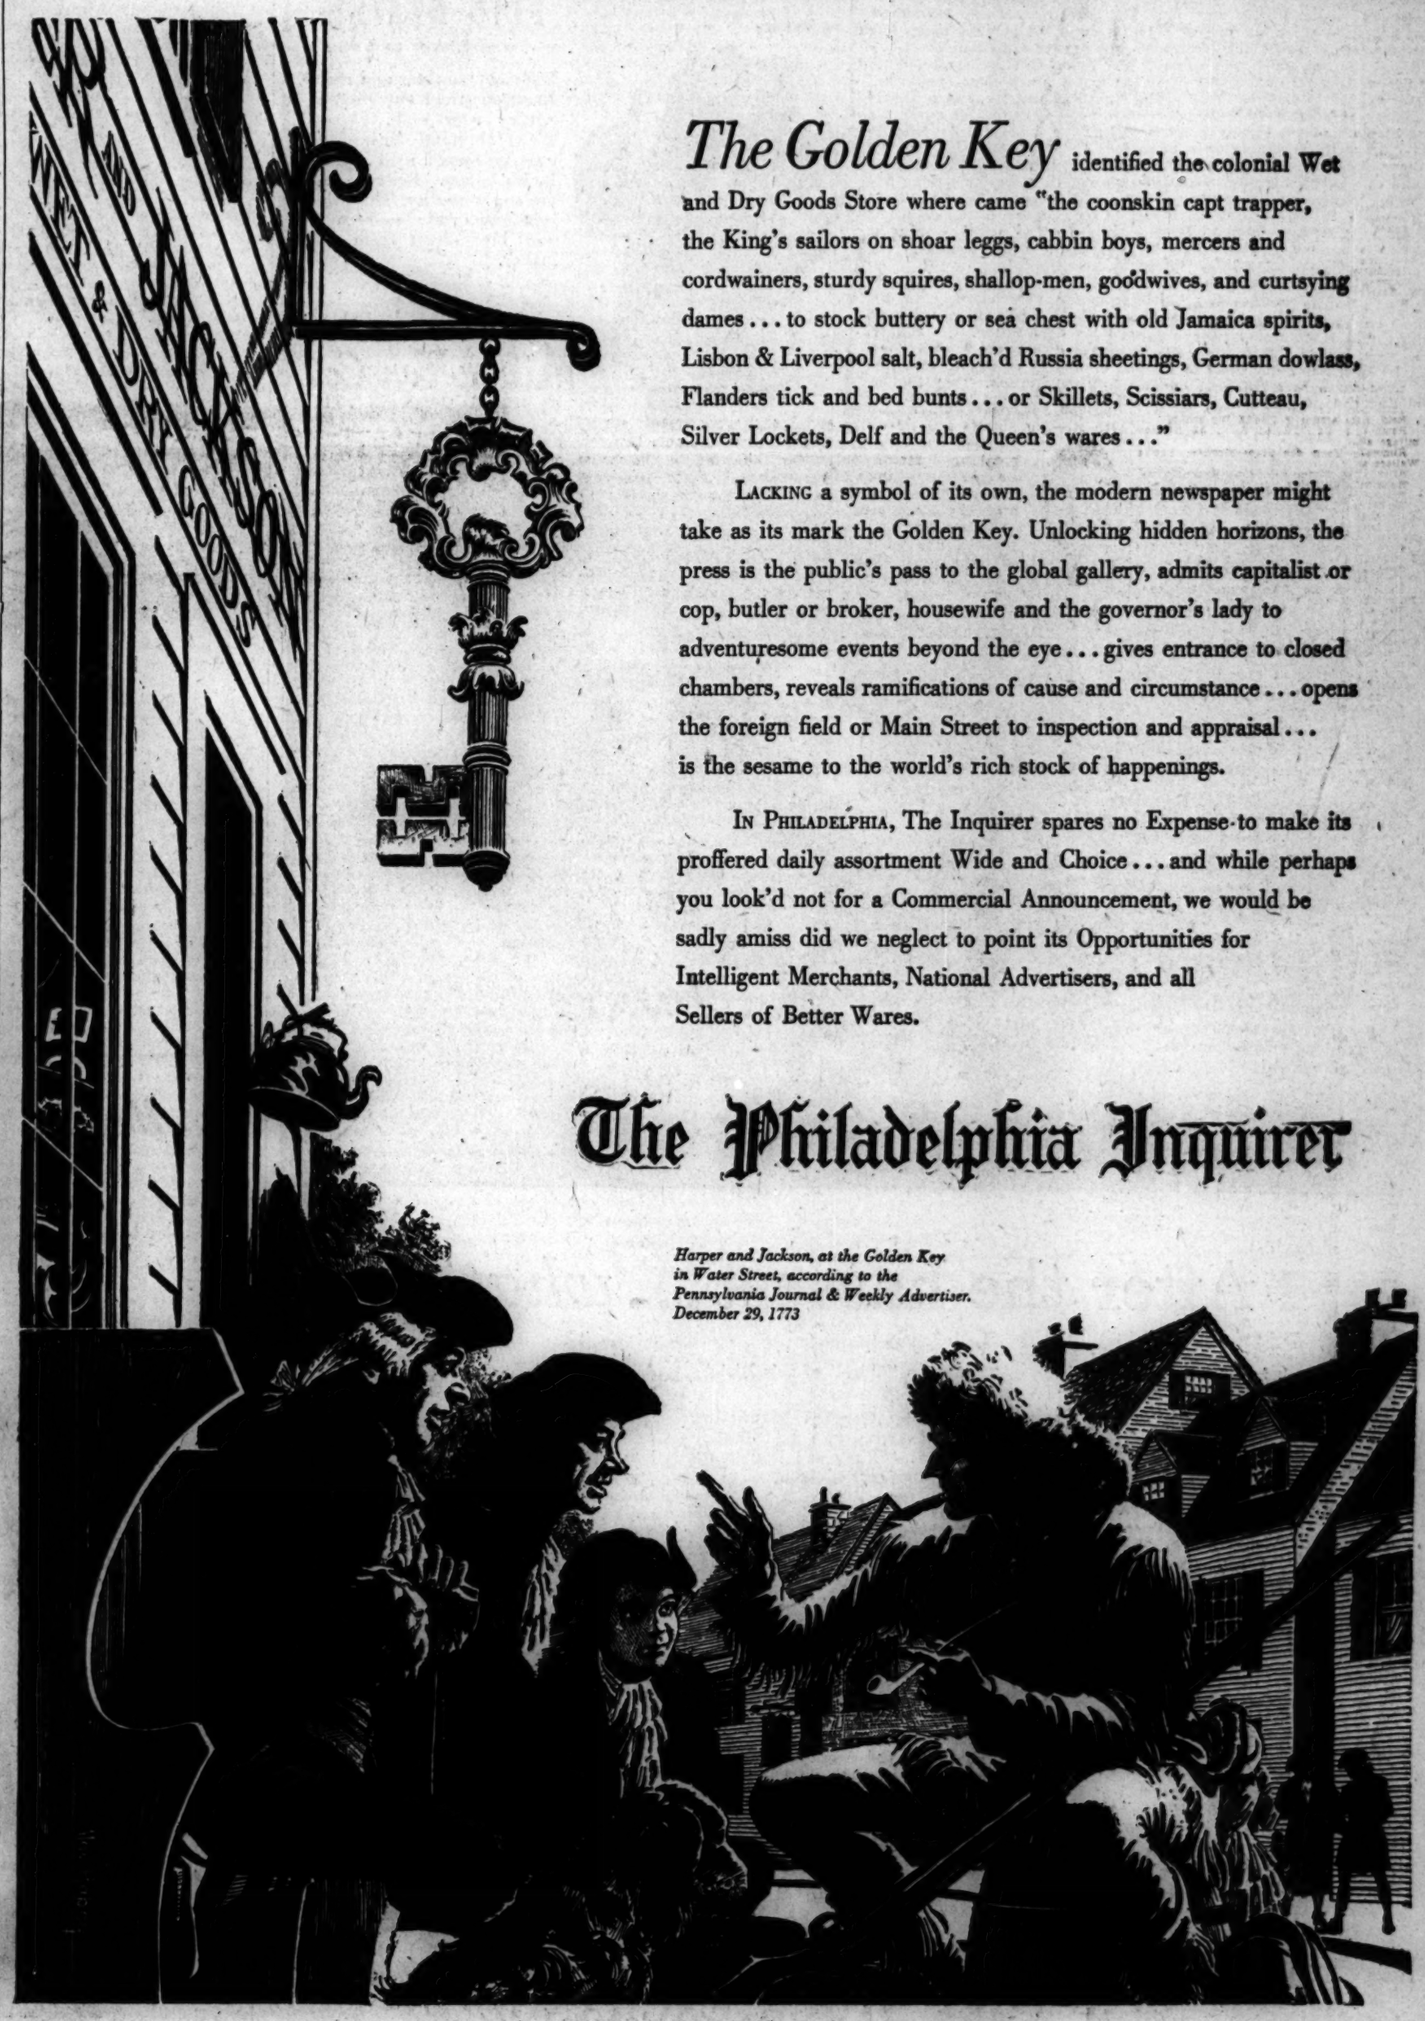
NUJOL MINERAL OIL

....The "Easy-Action" laxative

The Golden Key identified the colonial Wet and Dry Goods Store where came "the coonskin capt trapper, the King's sailors on shoar leggs, cabbin boys, mercers and cordwainers, sturdy squires, shallop-men, goodwives, and curtsying dames . . . to stock buttery or sea chest with old Jamaica spirits, Lisbon & Liverpool salt, bleach'd Russia sheetings, German dowlass, Flanders tick and bed bunts . . . or Skillets, Scissiars, Cutteau, Silver Lockets, Delf and the Queen's wares . . ."

LACKING a symbol of its own, the modern newspaper might take as its mark the Golden Key. Unlocking hidden horizons, the press is the public's pass to the global gallery, admits capitalist or cop, butler or broker, housewife and the governor's lady to adventuresome events beyond the eye . . . gives entrance to closed chambers, reveals ramifications of cause and circumstance . . . opens the foreign field or Main Street to inspection and appraisal . . . is the sesame to the world's rich stock of happenings.

IN PHILADELPHIA, The Inquirer spares no Expense to make its proffered daily assortment Wide and Choice . . . and while perhaps you look'd not for a Commercial Announcement, we would be sadly amiss did we neglect to point its Opportunities for Intelligent Merchants, National Advertisers, and all Sellers of Better Wares.



Harper and Jackson, at the Golden Key in Water Street, according to the Pennsylvania Journal & Weekly Advertiser. December 29, 1773

THE QUESTION

If you had the necessary money and the authoritative backing, what is the first thing you would do to improve Chicago?

WHERE ASKED

Harrison High school.

THE ANSWERS

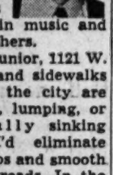
Charles Samars, senior, 2047 W. 18th pl.—Instead of a few beautiful parks stretching out along the lake as a show piece I would create many small parks thruout the city so they could be easily accessible to every one. That would keep boys and girls off the streets. I know because we have to play ball on the streets.

Loraine Machaj, junior, 2311 W. 19th st.—Every one has been talking about the improvements of the post-war era and now that it's here I'd like to see lots of action. I'd like to see housing conditions improved. If I had the money and the backing I'd rip out every street car track and substitute bus lines and smooth streets.

Ramona Nielzielski, senior, 2322 Marshall blvd.—We have three colleges in Chicago that are free colleges. I'd expand those to four year colleges because they take in only two years. This would give students who want an education and who have no money the same chance in life that children of wealthier people have.

Ruth Holub, senior, 1623 W. 33d st.—If I had the money and the authoritative backing I would see to it that there were better places for recreation for children in the younger and older age brackets. Then I would go to work on the slums and build good housing facilities for people who cannot afford to get out of the slums.

William Spevacek, junior, 3024 S. Albany av.—My first project would be a band shell larger than the Hollywood Bowl where high school bands could hold concerts as they do in so many other cities. I'd build a school of music for high school students to get them started in music and provide a staff of teachers.



Joseph Jechenthal, junior, 1121 W. 19th st.—The streets and sidewalks all over the city are breaking, lumping, or generally sinking away. I'd eliminate the bumps and smooth out the roads. In the parks there should be grass planted on baseball diamonds and other spots where it has worn away. I'd have that done.

33D SCHEDULED MAY LEAVE FOR HOME TONIGHT

BY GEORGE SCHREIBER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Vancouver Barracks, Wash., Nov. 12—Illinois and Chicago high point men of the 33d division, formerly the Illinois national guard, who arrived in Portland, Ore., yesterday from the Pacific war theater, will reach Fort Sheridan on the evening of Nov. 18 or next morning, unless something unforeseen by the army or the railroads takes place.

This announcement was made from this army post's headquarters over the public address system to the troops. The announcement, which came a few minutes after the processing of the Illinois soldiers had been completed, was greeted with cheers. The departure from Vancouver is set for tomorrow night or early Wednesday morning. Capt. Frank G. O'Farrell, in charge of liaison between railroads and the army, said the trip was almost certain to come off on schedule.

Capt. Fred Dettmar, public relations officer from Fort Sheridan, representing Brig. Gen. John T. Pierce, the post commander, announced here that the men would be processed thru Fort Sheridan within 48 hours at the most.

Permits Family Meetings

Capt. Dettmar said Gen. Pierce had approved relatives' meeting the men at the post provided the relatives promise not to interfere with the rapid processing there.

When the effect of the big news wore off, the Chicagoland soldiers spent their spare time loafing at this historic army post, where they were brought from Portland, or in Portland spots of interest, doing what soldiers do the world over—talking about home and about becoming civilians. The army finished the processing here rapidly, and those men who had money were given passes to visit Portland. The golden cross on the field of black, the insignia of the division since World War I., was a familiar sight in Portland restaurants, hotels, and soda fountains. The men seemed to care more for ice cream than beer.

Some of those who were processed early got into town before noon, and lined the curbs in small groups, watching the city's Armistice day parade. Portland's celebration of Armistice day today was the first real holiday the thousands of war workers have had since V-J day. The paraders, especially war veterans from the Pacific coast's 91st World War I, division, were greeted by the Chicago men with rounds of applause. The shrill "wolf whistle" went out to the pretty girls on the floats and marching with organizations.

When the two trains, each bearing 15 officers and 533 enlisted men, leave the coast, the men will find themselves riding either in standard Pullmans or tourist sleeping cars. A break for the 33d division was that there are at present very few of the soldier hated "troop sleepers" on the coast. Soldiers object to troop sleepers because of the three tier bunks, hard riding, and lack of ventilation in all but the very latest models.

The men, from all that observers can gather, seem to be not much different than they were when the 33d was mustered into federal service in March, 1941. They are more bronzed from the Philippine sun, and they have firm lines of determination around their mouths and eyes. But basically they are the same men who left home more than four years ago.

Best Medicine in World

These men do not want to talk about themselves because they are too fresh from the combat zone, and the realization that they really are back in the United States has not been thoroly absorbed.

The soldiers are not yet over many of their bad dreams. Only time at home with their families can cure this. And a Thanskgiving dinner at home, as a civilian, is expected to be the best medicine in the world for these boys turned men.

There were plenty of bronze stars were won.

British, French Dicker for Radio Luxemburg

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 12—The British and French governments are trying to get a grip on Radio Luxemburg, it was indicated in the house of commons today by Minister of State Philip Noel-Baker. He said discussions are now going on between London and Paris "to arrange with Radio Luxemburg authorities for the use of that station for broadcasting programs under the aegis of the French and British governments."

LEADERSHIP IN THE AIR

The accomplishments of the army air forces in subduing Germany and Japan are impressively described by Gen. H. H. Arnold in his report as commander. The principal interest of the report, however, lies in Gen. Arnold's attempt to forecast America's air power requirements for the maintenance of the nation's future security.

The United States finished the war with such complete superiority in the air over any possible rival that there might be a tendency to coast into the future with our present weapons and methods. Gen. Arnold makes it clear that no such policy will do.

"In the past," he says, "the United States has shown a dangerous willingness to be caught in a position of having to start a war with equipment and doctrines used at the end of a preceding war. We have paid heavily for this error. A repetition of this error in the future could mean annihilation. No war will be started unless the aggressor considers that he has sufficient superiority in weapons to leave his adversaries in a state of ineffective war making capacity."

Our task, then, involves continuous development and production of the weapons which will keep us ahead of the potential aggressor, as well as continuous training of the technicians necessary to employ such weapons. "The weapons of today," Gen. Arnold says, "are the museum pieces of tomorrow. So tomorrow the B-29, the Super Fortress of today, will belong in the Smithsonian institution with the Wright and Lindbergh planes, its place on the line to be taken later by bombers that will carry 50 tons of bombs, planes with jet or rocket motors capable of flying around the world at supersonic speeds."

Because the future is unpredictable, Gen. Arnold is able to do little more than hazard a few guesses as to the shape of wars to come. "It is entirely possible," he says, "that the progressive development of the air arm, especially with the concurrent development of the atomic explosive, guided missiles, and other modern devices, will reduce the requirement for or employment of mass armies and navies. These latter forces must have sufficient rapidity of movement or be sufficiently dispersed at all times to avoid location and destruction by future air borne power. Air superiority accordingly is the first essential for effective offense as well as defense."

There can be little dispute with Gen. Arnold's thesis that air power is the governing factor in modern war. As Lt. Gen. Doolittle aptly remarked the other day, "The navy had the transport to make the invasion of Japan possible. The ground forces had the power to make it successful. And the B-29 made it unnecessary."

For the present, Gen. Arnold believes, the organization of the air arm will not differ materially from that which succeeded against Germany and Italy. "The only known effective means of delivering atomic bombs in their present stage of development is the very heavy bomber," he states, "and that is certain of success only when the user has air superiority." Again, he says, "Until others can match the present superiority of our anti-aircraft defenses we can run a large air operation for the sole purpose of delivering one or two atomic bombs."

But, the general is quick to admit, "an air force is always verging on obsolescence," and we shall eventually be required to resort to such weapons as piloted or pilotless aircraft moving at speeds beyond the velocity of sound, to improved versions of the German V-2 rocket, capable of delivering atomic explosives at greatly extended range and with a precision not obtainable at present, and to guided anti-aircraft missiles, directed to their targets by radar.

War with such weapons will be far more inhuman and destructive than in its present form. As Gen. Arnold observes, "Controled or directed robots will be of increasing importance and, altho they probably will never preclude some form of human guidance, reliance upon direct manual skills in pilotage will gradually decrease."

The vistas of the future thus disclosed are not encouraging. If the rational capacity were as highly developed as we sometimes like to think it is, Gen. Arnold's glimpse into the future would be completely persuasive in banishing war from the planet. But we have only to survey the world as it is today, with all of its tyranny and wholesale butchery, to be advised that we cannot expect any immediate enlightenment.

Our only course, then, is to pack such a punch, capable of a first round knockout, that we can warn off all aggressors. It is an unhappy prospect for a victorious nation, only now emerging from the most terrible war in history, to be forced to think of the future in terms of survival, but Gen. Arnold's statement has indicated that there is no other option.

GETTING THE AIRPORT

Mayor Kelly, in Washington to acquire for the city the Douglas airport site, reported that the people of Chicago may consider the deal as "in the bag." He added that the cost will probably be slight.

The technicalities of having the airport turned over to the surplus property administration by the war department, and then declared surplus, and then offered for sale by the SPA, remain to be carried out, but, meanwhile, the city can go ahead confidently with its plans for developing a modern air terminal, and for connecting it with the center of the city by the northwest super-highway.

The drive to obtain the airport site showed a good deal more energy and coördination of effort by both politicians and business leaders than has been evident in connection with any major public improvement for a good many years. As soon as the war ended Chairman Meigs and the members of the mayor's advisory committee on aeronautics recognized that the war-built airport at the Douglas plant gave the city a new opportunity to develop a modern air terminal. A proposal to divert the airport funds into a political land deal was promptly and properly squelched. As soon as the Douglas site was officially designated as the one the city wanted Gov. Green and Sen. Brooks undertook some of the preliminaries toward acquisition, which saved Mayor Kelly time when he went to Washington.

All in all, the coöperation between business and political leaders, and between leaders of the two political parties, has set a model which it is hoped will be followed in other developments for the benefit of Chicago and Illinois.

WHAT IS MR. BARKLEY AFRAID OF?

Sen. Wheeler has drawn attention again to the contrast between the behavior of the Republican leaders at the time of the inquiry into the Teapot Dome leases and the present behavior of the Democrats toward the Pearl Harbor inquiry. Mr. Coolidge and his majority in the senate knew that the Democrats would make the most of anything they could find reflecting discredit upon the Republican administration of President Harding, but the Democrats were given every opportunity to get the facts. Today, the Republicans on the committee of inquiry are handcuffed; the party in power is determined to hold the inquiry within bounds. Sen. Wheeler's criticism carries added weight because he speaks as a Democrat who played an important part in the Teapot Dome investigation.

The New Dealers assume that the Republicans have no right to use the inquiry for partisan advantage, but the assumption makes no sense. It is not only the right but the duty of the opposition to ferret out the facts for the nation's inspection and interpret them. The theory of our government is that the party in power is responsible to the country. Administrative acts must, therefore, be open to the fullest inspection by unfriendly as well as friendly critics.

The Democrats charged dishonesty by the Harding administration in the management of the government's oil reserves and were given a free hand in digging up the facts. The Republicans are charging a vastly more costly dishonesty to the New Dealers. On the evidence already available, it hardly can be doubted that Mr. Roosevelt was conniving to put this country into war at the same time that he was publicly proclaiming his determination to keep the peace. His bad faith resulted in a drain on America's natural resources that reduces the losses at Teapot Dome and Elk Hills to insignificance. More particularly, Teapot Dome cost no lives; 3,000 Americans died at Pearl Harbor and a quarter of a million in consequence of Pearl Harbor. In money, the difference is between a few million dollars and 300 billion dollars.

Nobody suggests that it was dishonorable of the Democrats to make the most politically of the Teapot Dome incident. Mr. Barkley suggests that it is dishonorable of the Republicans to hold the New Dealers accountable for their deeds. He says he can't permit the Republican members of the investigating committee to engage in independent research in government files. Why not, unless he is afraid they will find something even more discreditable to the New Dealers than the acts already disclosed? He talks of a fishing expedition, as if it were not the right of any and every member of congress to know what the administration has done and why. A member of congress, and particularly a member of an investigating committee, has as much right to inspect the records of the government as a citizen has to unlock his own front door, or the proprietor of a business house to count the day's receipts.

KEEP YOUR INSURANCE, VETERAN

The Northwestern National Life Insurance company has made a survey of discharged veterans which indicates that three out of every four men leaving the army and navy are letting their government life insurance lapse. Furthermore, only one veteran in every 25 had converted his insurance to a permanent basis. As issued, the policies were for a term of five years, since extended to eight, after which they lapse unless the person insured avails himself of the privilege of converting to another form of policy.

The veterans who let this insurance go are making a financial mistake. At least 90 per cent of them will later buy life insurance, and as civilians they will never be able to buy insurance as cheap as the policies the government sold them. If they have any doubts on that matter, they should check with those veterans of the last war who were smart enough to hold on to the war risk insurance sold them at that time. Most of them, unfortunately, weren't, and the experience of a quarter of a century ago is being repeated.

Much as we dislike seeing red tape at the army and navy separation centers increased, we think the suggestion a good one that insurance officers be assigned to explain to men being discharged the value of their insurance and to tell them how to convert it into permanent forms and realize its benefits.

A TREE GROWS IN JAVA

These warworn eyes now turn toward Java in search of footnotes to first page news about pandemonium. We can clarify the situation a bit, perhaps, by announcing that the mysterious city of Soerabaja is our old friend Surabaya, upon whose verandahs overlooking the harbor the seafaring characters of Joseph Conrad used to sit and spin long tales, such as "Lord Jim."

The embattled Indonesians, heretofore known as the gentle little people who invented batik, started their war for independence by telling the world that they would use every available weapon, including snakes. We will point out, therefore, that they forgot to mention a vegetable growth, peculiar to their island, which has had a death-dealing reputation among Europeans for almost two centuries. The upas tree of Java is famous in literature and folklore. In fact, it has been to Java what the zombie has been to Haiti—a legend to frighten children and inspire authors of horror stories.

If you fall asleep under the spreading upas tree, you will never wake up. Its leaves breathe out death. Come within a mile of it, and your health will be blighted for keeps. So the story ran. Since the trees of Java are numerous and the climate causes a yearning for shade, the upas could easily catch you off guard.

This whopper was started by an alleged Dutch physician named Foersch, who had served as a medical officer in Samarang. To the London Magazine of December, 1783, this otherwise unknown character contributed a narrative which described the effect of a grove of upas trees, thus:

"Not a tree nor blade of grass is to found in the valley or surrounding mountains. Not a beast or bird, reptile or living thing, lives in the vicinity. . . . On on occasion, 1,600 refugees encamped within 14 miles of it, and all but 300 died within two months."

Java has a tree of this name, which means "poison." Its bark contains a milky juice which is so toxic that the natives have used it as an arrowhead ointment.

THIS TIME, TOO

I sing the hitherto unsung man
Who quietly buys all the bonds he can
Without being urged by a famous name,
Or being kissed by a beautiful dame,
With never a show by a movie star,
Or being high pressured from near and far;
Who, from the first, has laid aside
As much as he could each week, and tried
To do what he could without feathers or fuss. . . .
The unsung man! (That's most of us!)

The Duke Has a Dinner Date

Linemaster: So when I gets home I tells tha Mama that tha "Line Dinner" is gonna be held on tha night of Nov. 28th, an she tells me that as far as she's concerned it cood be held on tha 32nd or 33rd. This don't make no sense to me, cause when I was in tha 2nd year of 4th grade tha teacher used to make us recite a poem, somethin about "30 days has November." I fergot tha rest of it, but that don't make any diffrunce cause my pay day is in tha middle of every month.

Ennyway she ain't coming, an tha reason is as old as tha fall of Rome [not tha last one]. It's cause she ain't gonna show up again this year in that black sateen 1942 model and her 1932 motheaten racoon coat. Mebbe she's right on tha dress act, but I told her that with tha new D. D. T. invention, a few squirts an nobody wood know that it used to be a moth cafeteria.

It's now settled that I raise $18.95 fer tha frock, an I'm thinkin how easy I'm gettin off when last night she opens up again as to where I'm gonna get tha bucks fer tha hat an shoes. Trying to tell her that she's got a pair of shoes an a hat don't get me to 1st base. When you folks see me there all by myself, you will know tha reason unless one of you guys can spare me one of your blondes. I promise to return her in good order.

SHATTERED BALL

"Be careful, child," they used to say to me,
"Some dreams are shining things and nothing more,
Like hollow balls of glass on Christmas trees,
That break to bits if dropped upon the floor."

I heard their words, but put no trust in them
Save as a tale which cautious elders weave;
And now a shattered ball lies at my feet,
But still I can't believe, I can't believe!

Gloria Love

I believe that the first condensed food for soldiers was "erbswurst" [pea sausage], the invention of a Berlin butcher, which was credited with winning the Franco-Prussian war. It was later adopted for civilian use. Anybody with a grudge against himself could buy the imported article in Chicago delicatessen stores before World War II.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks will answer questions of service men, veterans, and their dependents by mail if a stamped envelope is sent to 435 N. Michigan av. The Tribune's veterans' bureau, 1 S. Dearborn st., Superior 0200, gives personal interviews.]

T. G. asks: "For what length of time must a 17 year old sign up in the navy? If he waits to be drafted, goes thru basic training, and then wishes to transfer to the regular navy, how long would he have to stay in service?"

Boys of 17 may be enlisted in the regular navy for two or three years or not to exceed their minority—the day before their 21st birthdate. Those between 18 and 30 who desire to be enlisted in the regular navy may sign up for two, three, four, or six years. Other inducements for regular navy enlistments include extension of the family allowance provision for the full period of enlistment or reënlistment if before July 1, 1946, assurance of GI bill benefits upon expiration of enlistment, permanent extension of the 20 per cent increase in pay for sea duty or overseas assignments, free postage until Dec. 31, 1947, and reopening of the option to men in the first three pay grades to take either a money allowance for quarters for dependents or the family allowance. Men in the first three pay grades who are married, but childless, gain $9.50 by taking the quarters allowance in preference to the family allowance because the government allows $37.50 for quarters and adds only $28 to the $22 allotment for family allowance. Men with children, however, gain by taking the family allowance.

W. R. asks: "Is a veteran entitled to preference in the purchase of a surplus army staff car for personal use?"

No. Preference is granted to veterans for the purchase of surplus property only for business use.

MASTITIS AFTER CHILDBIRTH

WITH the arrival of the baby, the mother can anticipate a few weeks of rest in bed for recuperation. This gives her system a chance to readjust itself. In a few, however, the temporary bliss may be marred after the seventh day by an unexpected disturbance of the breasts sometimes referred to as "caking." Certain areas become hard, painful, and somewhat tender. It is generally believed that for one reason or other, plugging of the small ducts occurs and the secretions which usually flow freely are now obstructed.

At first there are no signs of inflammation but in time organisms move in. The staphylococcus is one of the most common offenders and is thought to gain entrance thru tiny abrasions or cracks. Occasionally these microbes can be traced to distant foci of infection traveling via the blood passageways. The victim may have a fever as high as 105 degrees F. and marked elevation of the white corpuscles.

At this stage every attempt should be made to prevent progress of the malady. Nursing is discontinued and an ice bag applied. Supporting the structure with a tight bandage will afford comfort. X-ray treatments or penicillin may help to turn back the bacterial invaders. Should this plan be successful, symptoms usually subside within 36 hours. On the other hand, if the pus becomes localized, heat is required. By incising the abscess much unnecessary pain can be saved. This also minimizes the danger of rupture of the lesion, with a resultant unsightly scar.

Such mishaps can often be prevented by cleanliness and protecting the organ from injury, especially in the region of the nipple. Undue dryness often leads to cracking or fissure formation; which provides a suitable orifice for the microörganisms.

Now and then the infection is deepseated or is contained in several pockets. This may require a second operation for, unless the material is eradicated, drainage may persist for months or even years. Once in a while an infected area becomes quiescent only to revive later, causing a second abscess. During the interim the enlargements may be mistaken for a tumor and only after removal is the true nature of the abnormality known. Should tuberculosis or actinomycosis be responsible, special care is demanded.

Pain in the breast does not invariably mean infection. Women between the ages of 26 and 40 frequently experience this disorder. Discomfort may extend upward to the shoulder and downward to the arm. As a rule, it is aggravated several days before the menstrual period. Many fear malignancy altho in general this symptom is not present in breast cancer.

A mass may be observed which is irregular, nodular, or doughy in consistency. This seems to come and go, being noticeable at one time and not another. An examination is always in order and the physician may decide in doubtful cases on a simple surgical procedure to make sure. Since the swelling apparently is no more than an overgrowth of normal tissue, it disappears eventually. Relief is obtained frequently by wearing an adequate support and eliminating all sources of infection.

HUNGER AND APPETITE

H. A. writes: I have been told that in true hunger the mouth waters at the sight of food. I do not have such a sensation. Can you explain?

REPLY

There is a difference between hunger and appetite. Either may be present without the other. Hunger usually manifests itself by a sensation of weakness and restlessness, perhaps associated with "pangs." In a person with a good appetite, the digestive secretions become active at the thought, smell, or sight of a meal. Even after hunger is satisfied, there is appetite for a favorite dessert.

RINGWORM FROM PETS

Brains and the Man

It would be very helpful to today's discourse if the Institute of Legal Medicine in Milan would take Mussolini's brain out of the formalin in which it is immersed and weigh it. His is the only dictator's brain the scientists have had a chance to pickle, and the world should be told as soon as possible whether it was as large as its late owner believed or whether it was pin-headed. It might even vie with the heaviest brain recorded in pre-war days in Vienna. This weighed 2,850 grams. It was the brain of an idiot.

Dr. Wilton W. Krogman, the University of Chicago anthropologist who can see a brain and mentally build the man or woman whose skull once sheltered it, is inclined to believe Mussolini's brain will not be phenomenally large. He thinks that above that bullneck, behind those well padded jowls, was a mass of fat. Scientists who base human behavior on physique, he said, would call him a mesomorph, a species characterized by bluster, strutting, and egotism.

Anyway, large or small, within reason the size of the brain doesn't mean a thing, for no matter how large a man's head may be, most of that is skull, which merely houses the brain and the fat which protects the brain. Of the brain proper, 80 per cent is given over to what is known as the bodily component, chiefly aimed at running us as motor and sensory organisms. The other 20 per cent, the important part when you run into a Mussolini, apparently is given over to the higher faculties of reasoning and intelligence. Scientists cannot yet look at that part and say why a man acted as he did. They can merely tell, they think, whether he acted a lot, a little, or not at all.

The study of brains—or of so-called good ones—has been limited by the fact that brains are hard to get hold of, certainly the brains of men who influenced the world for better or worse.

One of the few brains that has really been worked over is that of Lenin, which now is in 30,000 slices, thinner than the ham in war time sandwiches. An entire institute of the brain has been built around it in Moscow, and altho the institute also houses the brains of Pavlov, the last great bourgeois, and Clara Zetkin, the German revolutionist who once opened the reichstag with a denunciation of the Nazis, Lenin's slices are in the largest bottle. Only meager reports have come out of Russia about it and seem to indicate that it was richer in convolutions and had highly developed association pathways. The latter bit of scientific jargon means he had a lot on his mind.

The weight of Lenin's brain is not known around here and evaded even the Germans, who were avid at amassing statistics along that line. They found the heaviest brain to have been that of Oliver Cromwell. It was removed intact from the pike his head adorned after death and weighed in at 2,231 grams. Next, in order, are Turgenieff, the writer, 2,012; Taguchi, the Japanese naturalist, 1,920; Thackeray, 1,658; the philosopher Kant, 1,650; Daniel Webster, 1,518; Napoleon III., 1,500; Bertillon, the criminologist, 1,398; Gambetta, the French statesman, 1,314, and Walt Whitman, 1,282.

The average male brain weighs 1,367 grams, the average female, 1,206, and one, we are happy to report, is just as good as the other. [This finding, made by Cornell university in 1930, was corroborated recently in the house of representatives in Washington: Mr. Knutson—"I am in full accord with what the gentlewoman from Connecticut is saying. I want to pay her the compliment of saying she has a masculine mind." Mrs. Luce—"And I thank the gentleman from Minnesota. But I must refuse the compliment which he so graciously paid me by saying that I think like a man. Thought has no sex. One either thinks, or one does not think."]

You might be interested in knowing, however, that one of the smallest brains on record is that of the great phrenologist, Gall. It weighed 1,198 grams. Yet it was Gall who, having a high forehead and expanded cranial vault, advanced the theory that these were signs of genius. From his work came the word highbrow.

THEY WANT THEIR FATHER

Chicago, Nov. 6—I am a war wife. My husband is stationed in this country. I receive $100 a month from the government for myself and two children. With this I must pay rent, buy coal, clothing, food, milk, pay for insurance, and many other necessities. We have to live in hovels, and endure many hardships, and were willing to do so during the war, but the war is over.

The war is over and we want our husbands and fathers of our babies to return to us to make decent homes for the future citizens of our United States, and lighten our heavy burdens, struggling alone with our children. My children are pre-war babies and they need their dad and many times they cry out for him. Please send him home.

A LONESOME WAR WIFE

NOT HERE TO CELEBRATE

Chicago, Nov. 7—We read in the papers about getting rid of all the war criminals in foreign countries. What about the "war criminals" and "war mongers" in this country? I think something should be done about them.

I still cannot understand why my beloved son had to go to Germany to fight. My son was killed last March 29 in Cologne, Germany.

I am bewildered. I asked a man a few weeks ago, why we had to have this terrible conflict. [He is a staunch New Dealer.] He said, "O, we had to have this war—there was so much unemployment in the country, and that made better times, everybody working and making big money."

V-J day a woman stopped me on the street and said, "Isn't it a pity our beloved President isn't here to celebrate victory?" I said it is a pity that my beloved son isn't here to celebrate the victory—and many more sons, too, of other mothers.

JUST MOTHER

FOOTBALL BROADCASTS

Lawton, Mich., Oct. 29—Assuming that the majority of radio listeners to football broadcasts hear the play-by-play action, I am at loss to know why football broadcasters go over all of the plays, the gains, and statistics instead of describing the band antics, and formations, and thus give the listeners an opportunity to hear the band music from beginning to end. If it is good for us, the listeners, to hear a repetition of the plays, then, why don't university officials keep the bands off the field between halves and bombard the cash customers in the stands with the same 15 minute account of yards gained, etc., that are forced upon the listening public at every broadcast? If the "show" between halves is good for the crowds present it is good for us listeners.

DID HE TAKE SOMETHING WITH HIM?

Nunnelly, Tenn., Oct. 29—I have searched every history available and I can't find where the grave of any President was ever guarded, except the late President Roosevelt, and I would like to know why? Was there buried with him some valuable document that he didn't want any one to see?

WONDERING

YANKS' CHRISTMAS

Lewistown, Ill., Nov. 4—My husband and I want to tell you how very much we appreciate the opportunity presented thru your "Christmas Gifts for Service Men in Hospitals" appeal to do something for our wounded boys this Christmas. Our own son, a bomber pilot, was killed over Germany in August, 1944. We feel that in doing something for other boys our own loneliness will not be so great at this holiday season.

MRS. M. B. BOYD

Chicago, Nov. 8—I am so thankful that my two brothers who fought in Germany are safe that I would like to share a little of our happiness. I wish to have the names of two service men. I think your idea of helping our boys to have a Merry Christmas is one of the best in the world. I hope to receive the names in due time.

MRS. WILLIAM NORTE

ARNOLD—INTERNATIONALIST

Chicago, Oct. 27—Couldn't one develop that under the traitorous "one world" theory, Benedict Arnold was really an "internationalist" after all? He was really a piker, because he only wanted to "give" away a tiny little fort on the Hudson, while the present day crowd want to give away the whole nation. As a further development, Nathan Hale was really only an "isolationist"—a "dirty fascist" who was too stupid to see how "narrow" his viewpoint was. In view of the semantics being forced upon us, I begin to wonder just what treason really is.

THE EXPLANATION

Chicago, Nov. 2—In the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post the article on Chicago states in one sentence that surveys have never disclosed the reason for the popularity of THE TRIBUNE. In another sentence the article goes on to say that THE TRIBUNE is anti-New Deal, anti-British, and anti-Russian.

If the writer would have added "and pro-American" it would have been obvious why more than a million copies are sold daily.

UNDIVIDED ESTATE

Chicago, Nov. 9—The house in which I live is part of an estate to be divided among four of us who inherited the property from our deceased parents. There is a $4,000 mortgage on the property, which I am willing to pay. If I pay it off and maintain the house for a number of years and then buy out the others' interests, will I have to pay them $4,000 each, which is approximately each one's share, in spite of the fact that I will have already paid an equivalent sum on the mortgage?

M. P.

No. The ultimate division should be so handled as to allow credit and place you all in the same position.

In order to avoid all possible question, why not have the others sign an agreement setting forth the terms on which you are paying the mortgage?

"Number, Please!"

By MARK MERIT

When we recently heard that, during the building service employees strike in New York, one of our telephone operators walked up 35 floors to our telephone room in the Empire State Building, where Schenley executive offices are located, our interest was renewed in something we have been intending to talk about for sometime.

So . . . we made a visit to one of the most marvelously intricate inventions of man—which plays such an important part in our routine business lives—the telephone switchboard. We talked to Mrs. Pauline Hall, who is our Chief Operator and also a big sister to the 15 girls who operate the board. You could have "knocked our eyes off with sticks"—they popped—when we learned that our girls handle about 50,000 outgoing local calls per month and about 55,000 incoming calls. And then there are the thousands of inter-company calls, between offices, spread through 20 floors of this world's tallest building—just to round out the figures.

So much for our own individual business. Now let's permit our imagination to run loose for a moment and expand this picture across the nation. When we have done that, we believe that we will be just about ready to conclude that no commercial history of the period in which we are living would be complete without encomiums and grateful acknowledgement—to the nation's commercial telephone companies (who handled more than 30 billion telephone calls during the last war year—both dial and operator calls) and their multitude of loyal and courteous employees, for their magnificent performance.

And speaking of courtesy, the words "thank you" and "please," which we sometimes feared were becoming obsolete in our language, are still with us—thanks mainly to the girls on the switchboard. In an era of priorities their slogan was "there are no priorities on friendly words."

Salute!

CITY LIBRARIAN DIES IN CRASH; SOLDIER IS HELD

Body Hurled 159 Feet by Car's Impact

Mrs. Alice Knutson, 38, of 5703 Maryland av., a city librarian, was killed last night by an automobile which police said hurled her 159 feet from the point where she alighted from a street car at 57th and Cottage Grove. av.

Pvt. Reuben Hawkins

The automobile was driven by Pvt. 1st Class Reuben Hawkins, 22, of Two Rivers, Wis., a wounded war veteran who walks on crutches. Pvt. Hawkins, accompanied by another disabled veteran, Sgt. Ray Johnson, told police he was absent without leave from Gardiner General hospital since Sunday.

The driver, who was held pending an inquest into Mrs. Knutson's death, was shot in the left foot while in training in Hawaii. His companion is being treated for back injuries inflicted when he was beaten in a German prison camp. Mrs. Knutson was the mother of a three year old son. Her husband, John, a Crane company employe, is in a Wisconsin sanitarium.

Ernest Randall, a truck driver of Bloomer, Wis., was ordered held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter yesterday at an inquest into the death of Delores Beck, 13, of 5440 Higgins rd. Randall testified he did not know his truck hit the child Sunday. He admitted he drank four bottles of beer prior to the accident. Randall was captured by two hunters three blocks from the scene of the accident at Milwaukee av. and Higgins rd.

Waukegan Student Dies

Paul R. Ferry Jr., 17, a pupil of Waukegan Township High school, died 24 hours after his motorcycle was struck Sunday morning by a hit and run driver. He lived in a trailer camp west of Waukegan. Paul Zupan, 18, 1622 Seymour av., North Chicago, who also was riding on the motorcycle, is in St. Therese hospital, Waukegan. Albert Varsek, 20, of 2516 Gray ct., Waukegan, a war veteran was the automobile driver. He surrendered later.

An unidentified woman, about 60, was fatally injured by an automobile at 43d st. and Lake Park av. last night. She died later in Chicago hospital. She had light brown hair, blue eyes, was of slight build, and wore a brown cotton dress, black shoes, and galoshes. The car driver was Herman Levin, 48, of 1615 Wallen av.

GARY STUDENT STRIKERS BACK AT THEIR DESKS

Nearly 700 out of 800 white pupils at the Froebel High school in Gary, who quit classrooms two weeks ago because of Negro enrollment, returned to their studies yesterday. Some of the continued absences were attributed to normal causes such as illness.

The return-to-school movement followed pleas made Sunday night by Leonard Levenda, 17, strike leader, and John Jadrnak, chairman of a committee of 13 parents, which had backed the pupils.

Another factor in the return was the position of Clement T. Malan, Indiana state superintendent of public instruction, who said no school questions could be considered until pupils were back in school.

CICERO HOSPITAL SITE DONATED AT DOLEZAL DINNER

A project to build Cicero's first hospital was informally launched last night at a testimonial dinner to Jerry Dolezal, township collector and Republican committeeman, with the announcement that John L. Keeshin, president of Sportsman's park, Cicero race track, would buy the hospital site.

Gov. Green, Atty. Gen. Barrett, and other Republican leaders praised Dolezal on his 10th anniversary as committeeman. Keeshin authorized Barrett to deliver his offer to the 900 townspeople assembled in Cicero stadium. Keeshin said the need of a hospital to serve the town of 65,000 was imperative. Keeshin recently donated an iron lung to the town.

Dolezal was presented by Gov. Green with a town Republican organization check to cover a donation to the Sister Kenny Foundation for Infantile Paralysis. The amount will be the net proceeds of Dolezal's testimonial dinner.

ARMY PRESENTS 1ST TELEVISION SHOW TONIGHT

WBKB's Program to Deal with Return of Yanks

BY LARRY WOLTERS

The first television show to be produced by the army will be presented over the Balaban & Katz station WBKB at 7:30 o'clock tonight. The program, titled "The Army Transportation Corps Brings 'Em Back," will include a drama clarifying problems facing authorities in returning service men to their homes. Col. I. Sewell Morris, commanding officer of the 6th transportation zone, will tell what civilians can do to help speed service men home. A cast of army personnel and civilians will enact the dramatic portion of the show.

William C. Eddy, director of WBKB, yesterday announced that the owners have filed an application with the communications commission for a full time commercial FM station. The FM outlet proposes 15 hours of programs per day to supplement WBKB's projected expansion in the visual field. Studio facilities in the State-Lake building, said Eddy, will be expanded. WBKB has been operating since 1940.

Prime Minister Clement Attlee's address before a joint session of congress will be broadcast over W-G-N, WBBM, WCFL, WJJD, and WLS at 11:30 a. m. today. WMAQ will carry a rebroadcast at 11:30 tonight.

Red Skelton, the "I Dood It" kid, has fixed the date of his return to radio for Dec. 4. He will reoccupy the 9:30 p. m. Tuesday spot filled during his army days by Hildegarde, the songstress. She will move to Wednesday nights at 7:30. The Sigmund Romberg concerts now in that slot will wind up on Nov. 28.

'FATHER' OF FM ASSAILS MOVING OF WAVE LENGTH

Rochester, N. Y., Nov. 12 [Special] —Maj. Edwin H. Armstrong, inventor of the frequency modulation form of broadcasting, asserted today the action of the federal communications commission in moving all FM stations to a new band represented "the first time that radio has been forced to follow an unsound theory."

He spoke at the opening session of a three day joint meeting of the Institute of Radio Engineers and the Radio Manufacturers' association, attended by 800 members of the two organizations. Armstrong said tests by the Zenith Radio corporation prove that 25 per cent better performance is to be had on the present band than on the new band.

When the Zenith tests were assailed last Friday by the FCC as "not sound," Armstrong challenged the commission's engineers to appear at today's meeting and point out specifically where they were in error. No FCC representative made known his presence here this afternoon.

TRUMAN URGES THANKSGIVING FOR VICTORY

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 (AP) — President Truman called upon Americans today to observe Nov. 22 as a day of national thanksgiving for the blessing of victory.

The President's proclamation requested that the people "give thanks with the humility of free men, each knowing it was the might of no one arm but of all together by which we were saved."

"Triumph over the enemy has not dispelled every difficulty," the proclamation said. "Many vital and far reaching decisions await us as we strive for a just and enduring peace."

BRITAIN TO TELL PLAN ON RULE OF NEWFOUNDLAND

LONDON, Nov. 12 [Reuters] — Commons was told today that a statement on the question of early self-government for Newfoundland could be expected soon. James Maxton, Independent Labor, raised the question and received the information from J. Parker, dominions undersecretary.

Asked whether in his statement he would include details of the financial position of the colony, Parker made no reply.

Newfoundland, formerly self-governing, reverted to colonial status under a commission of government in 1934, following a series of financial reverses.

APPROVE BILL FOR FACTS ON WEEKLY PAPERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12—The senate postoffices committee today approved a measure passed by the house which requires weekly, semi-weekly and tri-weekly newspapers to file with the postoffice department a statement of their paid up circulations. Such statements are required of daily newspapers.

Rep. Murray [D., Tenn.] who introduced the measure in congress told the senate committee that the measure is desirable because "some few weeklies have been padding their circulation statements in order to get national advertising." The measure, he said, has the indorsement of many state press associations.

Sponsors Go to London; No One to Apply To

BY WILLIAM FULTON
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, Nov. 12—Twenty applications for the location of permanent headquarters of the new united nations organization in the United States have been received here, it was learned today from authoritative sources.

Candidates include Chicago, San Francisco, Philadelphia, the Black Hills of South Dakota, "anywhere in Indiana" [as suggested in the Indiana governor's letter], Washington, New York, Atlantic City, Richmond, and Miami Beach. United nations officials have received word that delegations will be on their way here within the next few days from Chicago, the Black Hills, and Philadelphia.

Nobody to Act Now

The united nations preparatory commission starts sitting Nov. 23, but it will not take up the question of a headquarters until mid-session. In the meantime, there will be no one to receive applicants' pleas.

San Francisco, which held the post position at the start of the race because the united nations charter was decided upon there, is fading back into the field, reliable sources say. The reason is that old world diplomats do not care to travel that far. Eastern seaboard promoters are cultivating the idea that they are closest to Europe.

Chicago Picture Darkened

Chicago, unfortunately, has been painted as a gangster ridden city by London and other European newspapers. Europeans who have never been there also are told by rival interests that the Windy City appellation means bad weather. Some one should enlighten them on the cooling effect of the lake breeze in the summertime and its moderating effect in winter.

The United States seems almost certain to play the role of host country. It apparently has at least 35 votes from China, Australia, New Zealand, the Latin American states, the middle eastern countries, and soviet Russia with her satellites.

THIS DAY IN HISTORY

Nov. 13—Americans Take Montreal

On Nov. 13, 1775, the Americans occupied Montreal, Canada, without encountering serious resistance. It was the one easy episode of a heart-breakingly arduous campaign.

During the preceding days Gen. Montgomery and his Americans, toiling overland from the Richelieu river to the St. Lawrence, had suffered severely from the rigors of the early northern winter. "Under our feet was snow and ice and water, over our heads clouds, snow, and rain," a chaplain who was with the expedition wrote. "Before us the mountains appeared all white with snow and ice."

As the Americans approached, Guy Carleton, governor of Canada, decided not to try to defend the weakly fortified town and fled down the St. Lawrence by boat. A committee of citizens waited on Montgomery when he appeared before Montreal and suggested drawing up terms of surrender.

The American commander denied them the right to negotiate, but after taking possession of the town he governed with justice and humanity.

The following year the Americans were compelled to evacuate Montreal, together with other posts they held in Canada. The invasion of Canada had ended in disaster and Montgomery himself had been killed in a futile attempt to capture Quebec.

GROUP SEEKING WORLD CAPITAL GOING TO LONDON

Members of the committee to urge Chicago as the site of the headquarters of the united nations organization will leave tomorrow noon via United Air Lines for New York. They will fly to Newfoundland, thence to Shannon, Ireland, and are expected to reach London at 1:45 p. m. Friday. The delegation includes Corporation Counsel Hodes, Leverett S. Lyon, William L. McFetridge, Prof. Curtis MacDougall, and James M. Cleary. The delegation hopes to convince the preparatory commission that Chicago would be an ideal site for the permanent headquarters of the commission.

Mayor Kelly will leave for New York City today and will see the delegation off when they leave the eastern city for London.

TRUMAN BLOCKS RECONVERSION, SAYS REP. TABER

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 (AP)—Rep. Tabor [R., N. Y.] today accused President Truman's administration of having "declared its total incapacity to solve the economic situation in the country."

"It has put pressure upon every one it could reach to pass the so-called full employment bill and unemployment compensation bill," he told the house.

"Both bills are designed to keep people out of regular private employment and to prevent reconversion. Both bills are designed to prevent the production and manufacture of goods and farm products necessary to prevent inflation. Why do we have the Truman administration trying to prevent reconversion?

The administration has been trying to get a "full employment" bill thru congress before Christmas. In essence, the plan is to pledge the government to take up the slack with a public works program when private industry fails to provide jobs for those able and willing to work. The bill which the senate passed, is being rewritten by a five member house subcommittee.

The unemployment compensation bill would provide federal funds to raise maximum payments to jobless to at least $25 a week. At present the maximum payments vary among the states, from $15 to $28 a week.

Chicago Motor Coaches provide convenient "turn-back" service for many heavy traffic areas in the city

We're Glad to Do These Daily "Good Turns" for You!

All over the city there are "heavy traffic" areas—for example, near large office buildings where many folks go to and from work at the same time of day.

Fortunately, the Chicago Motor Coach service is so flexible that we rearrange our schedules to accommodate you at rush hours. We call this our "turn-back" service, and schedule the required number of buses to begin their trip at that point. This gives everybody a fair break.

In addition, we operate commuter service to the Union, Illinois Central and Northwestern stations during rush hours, as well as many close-in "short-line" trips in order to give the greatest number of people the best possible service.

These daily "good turns" not only save you time and inconvenience, but they also help keep Chicago traffic flowing faster and smoother—another public service we are glad to perform!

ZEALAND HELPS BIG BUSINESSES, BARS THE LITTLE

Government Sets Up Factory Monopolies

BY QUENTIN POPE
[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

WELLINGTON, New Zealand, Nov. 11—The Labor government is employing its industrial controls to prop up large industrialists and keep small manufacturers out of business, it was revealed in an Auckland magistrate's court when Ronald A. Campbell, a footwear manufacturer, was prosecuted by the department of industries and commerce for manufacturing without a license and fined $25.

Shoemaking has been forbidden to unlicensed persons here since September, 1939, and 36 industries have been placed under the provisions of the industrial efficiency act, a 1936 law which permits creation of manufacturing monopolies under government inspection. Today it covers an estimated eighth of all industrial production, including the radio, electric stove, and cement industries.

New Investments Barred

Once an industry has been licensed, no new investment may be made in that field, and no goods turned out in competition with existing firms.

Campbell has been supplying custom made shoes since before the war. In 1939 his business was $3,500 monthly. After serving in the forces for two years he applied for a license to resume manufacture, but it was denied. The defense declared the industries and commerce department knew for years that Campbell was defying the government edict, but did not move because of the acute footwear shortage.

Small Firm Denied Labor

Claud W. Williams, former secretary of the committee that distributed manpower to footwear firms under the war time controls, which are still continued here, told the court that cobblers could not work at their trade and remain within the law because of the control system. This system was being administered solely in the interests of large manufacturers, Williams said.

One small firm was denied labor because the department believed any concern making under 2,000 pairs weekly was an uneconomic unit. Yet there was a definite footwear shortage, and most of the shoddy shoes, about which New Zealanders have been complaining, were made by big concerns.

PATIENT TURNED AWAY; WOMAN INTERN REBUKED

Dr. Anna E. Bonnett, 25, an intern at County hospital since Jan. 1, was sharply reprimanded yesterday by Dr. Ole Nelson, deputy warden, because she refused to admit a woman who was brought into the examining room on a police stretcher.

The woman, Mrs. Margaret Chollar, 45, of 1220 N. Clark st., had suffered a cerebral hemorrhage which paralyzed her left side and her vocal organs. Dr. Bonnett said she told police to take Mrs. Chollar back to her home because the patient needed only nursing care. The intern added she believed Mrs. Chollar's husband, Sherwood, could attend her, because he told her he was unemployed.

"I agree that Mrs. Chollar requires only nursing care, but Dr. Bonnett should not have refused admission to this case," Dr. Nelson said. He directed police to bring Mrs. Chollar back, and the patient was placed in a ward bed.

The new plane, called the XF8B-1, was developed for the navy and already has flown 100 hours, according to the announcement. It can carry a 6,400 pound bomb load or two 2,000 pound torpedoes and, after dropping such a load, can fight at speeds "considerably" above 450 miles an hour.

With heavy armor protection the new plane can be armed interchangeably with six 20 mm. cannon or six .50 caliber machine guns.

$100,000 LIBEL SUIT GOES INTO 2D WEEK TODAY

Probing of the financial affairs of the Church League of America, of which George Washington Robnett is executive secretary, will be resumed this morning when Robnett's $100,000 libel trial against E. P. Dutton & Co., Inc., begins its second week in United States Judge Walter J. La Buy's court.

Judge La Buy ordered a halt to a line of questioning by Lloyd D. Heth, attorney for the publishing company, at last Friday's court session which required Robnett to add up monthly bank balances while on the witness stand. The court directed Robnett to total his figures over the week-end and be ready for questioning today.

Robnett is the second witness called in the trial, one of half a dozen filed by Robnett against various firms and individuals as the result of what he charges are libelous statements made by John Carlson in his book, "Under Cover."

Carlson, whose real name is Avedis Arthur Derounian, was the first witness called by Heth after Robnett's attorney, Harry S. Ditchburne, had rested his case on a number of depositions from officials of the publishing firm and from L. M. Birkhead, head of the Friends of Democracy, an organization which employed Carlson as an investigator while he gathered material for his book.

Tea Will Open Textile Exhibit at Art Institute

BY JUDITH CASS

INVITATIONS from the textile committee of the Art Institute of Chicago to a tea and preview of the Charles Deering and other collections of Spanish textiles at 3 p. m. Thursday will attract a large gathering in the Agnes Allerton wing of the institute. Weaving, embroidery, brocaded silks, and velvets dating back to the year 1200 will be displayed.

The exhibition is drawn largely from the Charles Deering collection and has been made possible thru the generosity of the late Mr. Deering's daughters, Mrs. Chauncey McCormick, whose husband is president of the institute, and Mrs. Richard Ely Danielson of Boston. Of particular interest are two unique altar pieces and church vestments of the 16th century, which are heavily brocaded on white and blue velvet, and a double bedspread of heavy white silk which pictures the landing of Columbus.

A design of three wavy blue lines under a half moon of red is to be seen on all of the items in the Deering collection. The design was Mr. Deering's personal trade mark, signifying Mar y Ciel [Sea and Sky], the name of his estate in Spain, where he lived for many years.

Pouring tea Thursday will be Mrs. Chauncey B. Borland, Miss Florence Dibell Bartlett, Mrs. Potter Palmer, and Mrs. Howell B. Erminger Jr., all of the textile committee.

Members of the Antiquarian society of the Art Institute will meet in the institute at 10:30 a. m. today to elect officers. Mrs. Philip Miller is retiring as president after serving in that capacity for six years.

An exhibition of Coptic textiles and paintings by Marsden Hartley and Max Weber, sponsored by the Renaissance society of the University of Chicago, will be on display until Dec. 6 in Goodspeed hall in E. 59th st. The exhibit will be open daily from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Here and There

As a result of the annual St. Luke's fashion show, held Oct. 17 in the Medinah temple, St. Luke's hospital will receive $38,147.69 from its women's board, to be used for free care. The net proceeds of the show were announced yesterday by Mrs. Walter B. Wolf, president of the board, and general chairman of the benefit. The sum will enable the hospital nearly to double its free care, as the money received from last year's fashion show was $23,000. Thirty thousand visits were paid to the clinics in the past year.

Mrs. Wolf, who also is vice chairman of the Victory loan drive and chairman of the women's division of the drive, will assemble members of her executive committee at 11 a. m. today to hear an advisory talk by George F. Spaulding, chairman of the drive.

The Arden Shore camp in Lake Bluff will receive $30,000 from the Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association. The money was raised at a benefit dinner-dance Oct. 27 in the Drake hotel.

The Friends of Orphans raised $3,000 in a recent rummage sale. The money will go to the Lake Bluff orphanage, the Lydia Children's home, and the Central Baptist home.

White Collar GIRL

Saboteur

Security officers for the Manhattan project were not always successful in preventing small information leaks about atomic bomb research. One white collar girl in the metallurgical project at the University of Chicago inadvertently let slip an important bit of information. Almost a year before the Hiroshima bombing, her apartment mate was reeling off the elements to a third girl studying for an exam. After the chemistry student stopped, the metallurgical project secretary remarked that one element, plutonium, had been omitted. The student looked in her text book. No such element was listed. Realizing suddenly that she had talked too much, the WCG remarked that "she never did know much about chemistry—her mistake!"

Plutonium, as it was announced much later, was a key to the atomic bomb and a newly discovered, highly secret element.

Antique Show Opening Day Draws 18,000

Jewels and treasures of the dim past shone in full glory before 18,000 persons who jammed Exhibition Hall of the Stevens hotel yesterday for the opening of the Chicago Antiques Exposition and Hobby Fair.

From 25 states, antique exhibitors and dealers brought prized pieces to sell and to exhibit. Each of the 165 booths, containing antiques from old coins to delicate china, represented a different dealer.

An unusual corner of the large hall was occupied by the doll exhibit of Miss Mary Louise Benham, Jackson, Mich. Favorite among her 300 pieces was a wax French doll, 10 inches tall, and more than 100 years old. The doll, dressed in the highest pre-civil war fashion, was sent to America by a French modiste to illustrate the styles from Paris.

Miss Benham, who has collected dolls for 20 years, values her exhibit at $2,700.

"Gone with the Wind" oil lamps were among the fast selling items in the exhibition. O. C. Lightner, director of the hobby fair, said the lamps had increased greatly in popularity since the presentation of the movie.

He also predicted extremely heavy sales for all of the antique dealers this year because of "angel" buyers—mostly persons who have made money in war plants. Antique dealers refer to this group as "angels" because of the impetus they have given the antique business in the last five years, he said.

The show will run thru Saturday and will be visited late in the week by Robert Taylor and Barbara Stanwyck who will select articles for their new home, Lightner said.

Dear Diary BY BECKY

Expect Record Food Supply in U. S. Next Year

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 (AP)—Americans may have more to eat in 1946 than ever before in the nation's history. So said the agriculture department in a report today forecasting considerably larger supplies of most foods than were available this year.

If the department turns out to be right, per capita consumption would be more than 11 per cent above the pre-war level of 1935-'39.

But not all foods will be equally plentiful, the report said. Supplies of pork, the better grades of beef and veal, fats and oils [particularly butter], sugar, and canned fish are expected to be smaller than the amount consumers would buy at present prices.

Most of the improvement in the food supply will result, the department said, from a sharp cutback in military requirements. The services now are expected to take only between 25 and 33 per cent as much as they used in 1945.

The department said, however, that exports in 1946 will continue large, assuming that satisfactory financial arrangements are completed. The greater part of these exports will move in the early months of the year, mainly to the United Kingdom and the liberated areas of Europe.

The department said meat consumption per person next year is expected to reach 145 to 155 pounds, dressed weight. Consumption this year is expected to average about 130 pounds, altho at present it is estimated to be at the annual rate of about 145 pounds.

More ice cream, cheese, condensed and evaporated milk, cream, canned vegetables, and fresh and frozen fish will be available than in 1945, the report said. Eggs and fresh milk are expected to continue plentiful, while consumption of chicken, turkey, fresh fruits and vegetables, frozen and dried fruits, potatoes, sweet potatoes, and cereal products are expected to average substantially the same as this year.

The department said it expects the prices of better grades and cuts of meats to rise when government subsidies are removed in the first half of the year. These increases probably will be offset, it said, by lower prices of other grades and cuts.

Optimistic Over Sugar

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 12 (AP)—George L. Wright, vice president of Lamborn & Co., New York sugar brokers, told the New Jersey bottlers of carbonated beverages today that United States citizens may have 800,000 to 1,000,000 tons more sugar to eat and drink in 1946 than 1945.

If present optimistic forecasts of 1946 production are borne out, Wright said, "the household consumer may be freed of all sugar rationing by the fourth quarter of the coming year," but for industrial users rationing is likely to continue into 1947.

Let Child Respond Naturally in Face of Emotional Crisis

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

The scene where so much of our country's present day drama is enacted is one of the great railroad stations in Chicago. In one instance the actors were a soldier, his wife, their little girl, and a companion, possibly a relative or nurse—the person who described the incident to me could not be sure.

"Often, in emotional crises, children don't show what great joy, excitement, or tension they may be experiencing."

Evidently the wife had arrived at the station earlier to meet her husband, leaving the little girl behind with her nurse, for the parents were standing watching as the child and her companion approached from a distance. No sooner did the latter two catch sight of the child's father than the nurse, becoming emotional, rushed the child forward and exclaimed excitedly: "There's your daddy, home at last! Isn't it wonderful? Aren't you glad?" And so on.

The solemn and beautiful moment of this meeting should not have been marred by a worked-up scene, by adding to the excitement of the occasion, or by interfering with it.

If the little girl had herself been exuberant and rushed forward impetuously into her father's arms, even then the excitement of another person less involved could have waited for expression.

But especially if this meeting was approached by the child with a reserved expectancy, as this one was, the nurse should have remained composed so as not to spoil the moment.

Something of this sort might be a thought to dwell upon, if you have children and some such joyous reunion lies ahead. It is wise not to let excitement get artificially worked up by any one.

Children feel quite enough, even if they don't always give evidence of it. For, as I said not long ago, they rarely talk about their deeper feelings. And often, in emotional crises, children don't show what great joy, excitement, or tension they may be experiencing.

Room Scarcity Called Peril to Women in City

Working girls who come to Chicago to find a job and a place to live may find the jobs; but experts on housing agreed yesterday that the shortage of living accommodations is a problem so acute that it threatens the welfare of young women newcomers.

At a conference in the office of the Council of Social Agencies, representatives of Travelers Aid society, the Young Women's Christian association, and the Salvation Army said the housing shortage has forced many women to sleep in railroad stations, all night restaurants, hotel lobbies, and even turkish baths.

Mrs. Miette Cummings, director of the metropolitan service department of the Y. W. C. A., said the organization's room registry service, 59 E. Monroe st., remains open daily from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m., but still is unable to fill the demands of women wanting rooms.

"Most of the time when we close, there are as many as 25 girls waiting for rooms," she said. "We tell them to come back in the morning and they leave—for the station, we hope."

Both Mrs. Cummings and Mrs. Aneita L. Tidball, executive secretary of the Travelers Aid society, agreed that hotels and social agencies have given "fine coöperation" in obtaining rooms for girls. The problem, they said, is simply that there are not enough rooms in hotels, clubs, or private homes.

Mrs. Tidball said the Travelers Aid works from a list of 500 hotels and rooms available, but that the list fails to meet the demand every week-end.

Last week-end, she said, 400 girls were sent to substandard listings. These are below average accommodations that the girls frequently refuse, believing they can find other space, and ending up without anything, she explained.

Solution to the problem, the workers agreed, is to acquire more listings of rooms in private homes to tide the girls over until they obtain permanent accommodations.

"If we don't, Chicago's reputation for hospitality will fade," Mrs. Cummings said.

Chicago Opera Opens Final Week with Mediocre Repetition of "Il Trovatore"

Confronted with one last chance to dazzle its Monday night subscribers, the Chicago Opera company dug deep in the grab bag and came up with the short season's third performance of "Il Trovatore," with Stella Roman and Alexander Sved new in a cast which again held Kurt Baum, Margery Mayer, and Virgilio Lazzari, with talented Nicholas Rescigno to conduct. The whole was brightly billed as a gala evening, but I don't think it was just the weather, which included a minor cloudburst at curtain time, that dampened the fuse of operatic exuberance. Only the most determined optimist could have convinced himself that this was more than mediocre Verdi.

Scrambled traffic made me miss Mr. Lazzari's opening scene, and the best of what I heard afterward was Mr. Baum's singing, which was clear, true, and commendable, if not exciting. Miss Roman, whose way with "La Forza del Destino" has a lovely mezza voce to its credit, is miscast as Verdi's other Leonora, who demands more fireworks and wealth of tone. Mr. Sved looked like a decadent Roman senator and sang angrily in a big baritone, which was all to the good of the villian he portrayed, but it would have helped Verdi had he conjured more secure pitch, finer focus, and a reasonable legato. Miss Mayer sang smoothly much of the evening, but Azucena is too big a role for her warm mezzo-soprano, which is beginning to rebel under the strain.

Mr. Rescigno has a good deal of feeling for the score's melodramatic beauty. I hope he can persuade Giorgio Polacco to take time off some New York evening to tell him how Toscanini revitalized "Il Trovatore" at La Scala, where it had been scorned. Illustrated at the piano, it is a revelation worth any young, or older, conductor's attention.

Sherwood Report

Writing about the opening of "The Rugged Path" for the New York Times, Lewis Nichols said in part, "To get the bleak news over with immediately: Robert E. Sherwood's first play in five years has not been written with his best pencil. 'The Rugged Path' is soft and a little shapeless. Even the presence of Spencer Tracy, who is too infrequent a visitor, cannot keep it from offering a long evening in the theater, an evening that is alien to Mr. Sherwood's normal custom."

Lester Auditions

Edwin Lester, general director of the Los Angeles and San Francisco civic light opera associations and producer of "Song of Norway" and the revival of "The Desert Song" due at the Civic Opera house next Tuesday night, will audition singers at that theater Wednesday, Nov. 21, at 11 a. m. Appointments for auditions should be made by letter to Mr. Lester, specifying voice, personality, age, musicianship, and training. The age bracket for girls is 18 to 25; for men, 18 to 30.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 12—Metro is almost afraid to let Van Johnson go to New York. One reason is that he wants to see Jacqueline Dalya, who's rehearsing in the Brian Aherne show. And, too, tho it's no fault of his own he wasn't in uniform, there may be many embarrassing repercussions. Metro also knows that the kids will go crazy. To give you an example of what he'll face, last time Frank Sinatra played the Paramount theater, there were 400 cops on duty, and they couldn't handle the crowds. Johnson's as big as Sinatra. Don't shoot, kids, I'll go quietly. . . . Yes, Kathryn Grayson and her husband have become reconciled, and went the other day to look at Arline Judge's beautiful hilltop home with intent to buy. But they were so intent on each other, I don't believe they saw much of the house. . . . Dan Topping, now in New York, is trying to have his son brought on from California for the holidays.

Only an Idea, of Course

Agnes Moorehead's such a fine actress she can't get a job. Altho she's under contract to Metro, she was wanted for the fading mistress in "Anna and the King of Siam," but didn't get it. Nor will she play the other woman with Bette Davis in "Ethan Frome." She's so good stars are frightened of her. I wonder why somebody doesn't write a special story for Agnes, then we could say "a star is born." You don't remember—but I do—when Marie Dressler had trouble getting on the screen. But when they finally discovered her, look what happened! . . . Charles Hoffman, new Warners' producer, got a couple of goodies to do—"The Hasty Heart" and "The Unsuspected." Good luck, Chuck! . . . Shirley Temple and husband stole the spotlight from the players on a radio show—they were in the audience.

All There at the Waldorf

It looks like old home week at the Waldorf, with the Jack Warners, Samuel Goldwyns, Spencer Tracy, Monty Woolley, Geraldine Fitzgerald, and Cole Porter. But the gal who got the male stares was Cedric Gibbons' wife, Hazel. . . Mark Stevens had a head-on collision when he started on his vacation. He and his wife came out of it with scratches; but the car just lay there. . . . Forrest Judd is out of uniform and will do "Jumpin' Joe" with Monogram. . . . In releasing "The Last Chance," the Swiss thriller, Metro started a whole new policy regarding foreign pictures. They plan to buy outstanding ones made by independents and release them. . . . Amy Arnell's going around town with Billy De Wolfe, and may be tested at Paramount.

Home Again in Hollywood

Talked with Lew Ayres, who turned down three magazine stories in one week. He said, "I have nothing to talk about yet; have no plans other than to take time out and do an awful lot of thinking. And until I know in which direction I'm going, and what I want to do, it would be a waste of anybody's time to listen to me talk." Lew has worked a great deal in hospitals with psychiatric cases and said most of them talked about their children—or their childhood. He said, "We hear so much about the atomic bomb, we forget that the greatest atomic energy in the world is a child. Isn't it our job to control that energy and guide it?" He lunched with his friend, Ida Koverman, and some of the executives at Metro, but there was no talk of his making a picture; nor were there any photographs taken. Lew looks wonderfully well, but his reconversion hasn't started yet.

Thru the Looking Glass

You have to be on your guard from now on to protect the loveliness of your hands. Forget to take care of them and you'll be reminded to do so by chapped, reddened skin which looks much the worse for wear. And no woman, no matter how hard she works, can afford to have her hands show the toll of drudgery. Heavy household tasks, a busy schedule, and cold weather are not sufficient reasons for presenting a pair of sorry looking hands to the public. There are too many good preparations available to keep them looking lovely under any conditions.

We've just renewed acquaintance with an old hand cream and think you might like to be re-introduced to it, too. It's a pretty, pink cream, all spiffed up with a nice, spicy kind of fragrance, and it can do for you what it has done to keep many a woman's hands soft and appealing thru the years.

It's a good cream to depend on for all round hand care. Use it during the day after each hand washing, dabbing a small amount on the back of each hand and smoothing it on as you would a glove. You get a nice feeling of grace when you apply a hand preparation in this manner and do a good all-over job, touching from tips of the fingers well up over the wrists. The cream dries readily and leaves no after feeling of stickiness. Besides having skin that's beautifully softened, you'll have a pair of hands delightfully scented with the pleasant fragrance of the cream.

At least once a day give the hands a good massage with the cream. Apply it lavishly and work it in well, letting it soothe away all the harmful effects of work and weather. Don't waste any of the cream, rather spread the excess over arms and elbows to keep them looking soft and delicate, too.

SYNOPSIS: Avis Marriott accepts a job as companion-housekeeper to Maud and Erica Bolles, wealthy spinsters. Maud, a local autocrat known for her charities, has grown strangely penurious in her home. Erica, a semi-invalid, is dominated by Maud. A couple of guests and an evacuee family live with them at Turrets. Dr. Bruce advises Avis against accepting the position. Turrets is an isolated English manor with an abandoned underground passage. Avis' predecessor, Agatha Trimble, left under a cloud, suspected of theft. Robin Grier, Maud's godson, has been invalided out of the army. Mrs. Marks, a widow and family connection, seems too sophisticated for her surroundings. Avis arrives during a violent domestic scene, with the departing cook calling Maud a cheeseparing sinner. Avis' room is in the turret where Erica insists upon living. An unexpected guest, Oscar Moravian, arrives on Erica's invitation. From Mrs. Marks Avis learns he is an East Indian half brother of her dead husband and has a criminal reputation. Apparently Maud dares not send him away. In the night the soldier husband in the evacuee family slips and falls downstairs to his death. Dr. Bruce saves Agatha Trimble from an attempted suicide. Smears of wax polish make the stairs even more treacherous. Did some one want to kill Erica? Ten one-pound notes are found on the victim. Erica had intended this money for Agatha. Checking a low, buzzing sound, Avis finds an alarm clock in Maud's room and wonders if the alarm was set so some one could wake up and wipe off the wax.

INSTALMENT VIII.

SISTER'S KEEPER

Erica, Miss Bolles declared to Avis, was lavishly generous. "But when one considers that she has not the faintest conception of what money means! When I strive without ceasing to keep some check on her disbursements, think what it means to have one of the firm, so to speak, scattering banknotes and checks like so much waste paper."

Avis murmured that it must make things very awkward.

"Most awkward! Well! You will understand me now when I insist you are never to cash Erica's checks. Quite so, you would naturally never dream of doing so without first consulting me. But that is not all. I shall have to rely on you, Miss Marriott, to safeguard Erica from possible indiscretions, in short—to——"

"Keep an eye on her?"

Miss Bolles flushed. "A crude way of wording it. Nevertheless, it is what I mean to convey. My first step will be to secure maids. One thing more. If by chance my sister should desire you to affix your signature to any manner of paper, can I count on your good sense to refuse?"

"Oh, goodness yes, Miss Bolles!"

With a partly satisfied, "I think we understand one another," Avis made a wily appeal. Might she borrow the alarm clock she had noticed in Miss Bolles' dressing-room? Just to make sure of getting up in the morning? A moment's pause.

"That clock! Quite finished, I'm afraid, and one can no longer buy alarm clocks, as you probably are aware. I will call you if need be. I wake at 7."

"Oh, yes, poor old Trimble," Olive said. "She did pinch the stuff. Maud missed a string of pearls she never put on, an odd brooch, and what not. She wanted to know if I'd had any losses, and it happened I had. Not worth making a fuss."

Avis and Mrs. Marks had met in the freezing drawing room. It was 10:30.

"And——?" Avis prodded as Olive absently lit a cigaret.

"What? O, it was all in Trimble's room. Quite a mixed bag, you know, stuck away under the mattress. Trimble's day off."

"How absolutely frightful!"

"As you say. Parson's daughter and all the rest of it, firmly dug into the family, Erica eating right out of her hand. . . . Do you know what Erica swore? That she had given the things to Aggie. I think she went so far as to pretend she'd represented Maud's pearls as her own. A tip from the paddock, my child. If and when Erica begins showering this and that on you, just you watch your opportunity and put it all back."

For all the expansiveness Olive gave the odd impression of holding some bit back. Avis returned to Miss Trimble. How, she persisted, could any woman be such a dithering fool?

"Quite," said Olive. "Life security gone for messy pottage. Only that same morning she'd been on the phone to Erica's solicitor, arranging for him to come around."

Avis went rigid inside. "That morning! Did he come?"

"No, because Erica wouldn't have been fit to see him. Besides when Maud got to know about the phone doings, she rang up to say her sister had changed her mind."

The faint rattle of newspaper drew Avis' attention to the open study door. This was Maud's own exclusive sanctum. Crossing to the steps she looked inside. Instantly, like a jack-in-the-box, Oscar Moravian bobbed up from behind the Times to offer her a chair. "Not stopping," she murmured and passed thru, out the lower exit, straight for the adjacent back stair.

Now was the right moment to start her rummage for alarm clocks. Four unoccupied rooms faced her—Maud's and Olive's to the right with the original bathroom sandwiched between, Mr. Moravian's and the Grier boy's on her left, immediately across the front-to-back hall.

"Oh, sorry Mr. Grier!" She retreated hastily from the door.

The youth in old gray bags and polo sweater glanced round from the dressing mirror. "Make it Robin," he growled. Moodily he remarked that he had managed to distribute half of Maud's leaflets, himself signing on as a blood-donor as well. "You did! Since when have you been in condition to part with a whole pint of your precious blood?" He reddened annoyedly.

"Now don't you begin telling me what I can do! I suppose you consider this as swell fun, being promised that if I'm a good little boy I can go and grow onions. Onions!"

"Oh, dry up," she said lightly, picking up to examine the big glamorous photograph. "O, I see, this is why you were star-gazing!"

"Think I was paying tribute to myself?" he demanded edgily.

"Well," Avis approved, "she's a real pin-up girl. Yours?"

"Was." Robin's tone was hard. "Married now, to three chins and a bank roll."

"Why hang on to her picture?"

"I keep it," he said slowly, "as a reminder. I make vows to it three times every day."

Once bitten——? It dawned on her now why Dr. Bruce had called him a cub. He was just that—and yet he'd taken lickings enough, Heaven knew! Rotten at his age—24, 25—to be barred from running, on top of it to lose his girl.

He brushed back his forelock and shone on her his schoolboy grin.

Avis finished her unproductive hunt for alarm clocks and wound up in the stuffy dressing room to pause before the small curtained shelves, hesitate, and with furtive resolution remove Maud's useless clock and take it up to her own abode.

Maud was right, the thing wouldn't go. Shaken, its internal works dosed with brilliantine, it remained steadfastly dumb. Yet it must have been operating at 6 this morning! It was literally the only alarm clock in the house, unless the one she had heard had been hidden away. Avis stood glaring at the bland, unmoving face. And then she picked Maud's clock up, rattled it once again, and laid it on its face.

Immediately Miss Bolles' clock started ticking.

The schoolroom was empty, nor was its owner downstairs. Somewhere a door was banging to and fro. Then she realized it was the roof door, at the summit of the steep iron steps just ahead. Up she bounded.

Round her lay a flat area edged by a parapet wickedly low. In and out a number of crooked chimneys a black rabbit scampered like mad. Light-dazzled, she saw something else—a horrific picture which brought her heart right up into her throat. Feet, like a doll's, were dangling 12 inches above the leads at the far angle of the balustrade. The body belonging to them hung invisible over a 60 foot drop into the ravine!

The excruciating instant passed. Miss Erica, very much alive, wiggled roofward, muttered "Bother!" and proceeded to loop up and stuff into the pocket of her fluttering print frock many yards of coarse twine. Putting back her absurd ringlets she spied Avis, goggled doubtfully, then beamed.

Mrs. Marguerite [Marge] Lyon, author of "Fresh from the Hills," which was published by Bobbs-Merrill last week, and Miss Lois Fisher, who illustrated the new book, drew large crowds when they appeared in the Marshall Field & Co. book department yesterday to autograph copies.

"Fresh from the Hills" is largely a compilation of the series of stories on Ozark mountain life and its people that has been published in THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE. Mrs. Lyon writes under the pseudonym "Marge of Sunrise Farm" in THE TRIBUNE's series, "Fresh from the Hills."

Mrs. Lyon, former Chicago advertising agency employe and author of "And So to Bedlam," now lives in Arkansas.

Here's a Good Suggestion for the Next Party

BY SHEILA DALY

[Copyright: 1945: By The Chicago Tribune]

When the fellows and girls in crowd say they are tired of parties, meaning the home-and-hearth-side kind with records, cokes, and lots of chatter, it's time to perk up the party schedule with an old fashioned, but still fun, scavenger hunt. Take an old idea, add a few new angles and you have an evening that's real fun for every one.

on the SOLID side

Set the mood by sending out "scavenger" invitations written on torn pieces of white paper: The time, date, and place of the party scrawled in colored crayon.

Invite an even number of guys and gals, to come without dates, instructing them to bring the invitations with them, and then pair off by matching together the torn invitations.

Divide the party into groups of three couples, each supplied with a list of articles to hunt for. Make them difficult and make them funny—an old valentine, a baby picture, the front page of last Sunday's newspaper, a dog collar, a green lampshade—anything that will keep your guests busy young characters for the next two hours.

To make the odds even, set the rule that all the teams must go by foot, bus, or streetcar with no private cars allowed. Give a set of prizes to the group returning first with a complete list—six big scrapbooks wrapped in brown paper and tied with old, knotted string.

Top off the evening with refreshments, served in the same rough-and-ready style. Bowls of steaming chili served with brown bread and cokes or cocoa still is a favorite menu. Cover the table with a patched checked cloth and use candles stuck in bottles to light the room. The party is called a "scavenger hunt," and fun for your guests is the only thing you don't have to hunt for—your guests will find it every minute of the evening!

Household Forum

—By Louise Bargelt—

Mrs. E. H., Peoria, Ill.—I find that several coats of thinned floor or deck paint on a floor are much more effective than one thick coat. Sandpaper each coat lightly and dust with a brush or clean cloth.

Teresa B., Chicago—It is wise to pipe or bind draperies and slipcovers with self fabric. In this way both the trim and the body react the same when they are cleaned.

Ruth G., Elgin, Ill.—Why not, on porches of tomorrow's houses, have a shallow pit covered with an open grill? All mud scraped from shoes could fall below. This would save washing porches so frequently in bad weather.

Grapefruit and oranges, which are coming to market in increasing quantities, are the bargain foods this week. If you haven't been including these fresh fruits in your daily menu start doing so now while supplies are so plentiful.

In buying grapefruit, choose those that are thin skinned and feel rather heavy for their size. They'll yield more juice and have a better flavor. The quality of the fruit isn't affected by the color of the skin as it varies from a pale yellow to russet, but the fruit should be firm and well shaped.

As in the case of grapefruit, the weight of an orange indicates the amount of juice. The smaller sizes are most abundant and generally cheaper than the larger ones but are good "juicers" because of their weight, thin skin, and firm flesh.

There's a new sugar saving product on the market which will be of interest to the homemaker who is looking for means to augment her diminishing sugar supplies. It's an extra sweet corn sirup and can be used to replace part of the sugar in most recipes, or used as a table sirup.

The following frozen dessert recipes were adapted for this particular product and are true sugar savers.

Caramel Cream Parfait

¼ teaspoon plain gelatin
1½ teaspoons cold water
½ cup extra sweet corn sirup
¼ cup water
¼ teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
1 cup cream, stiffly beaten
1 teaspoon vanilla

Soak gelatin in cold water for 5 minutes. Boil corn sirup and water together to the soft ball stage [238 degrees]. Add salt to egg whites and beat until stiff. Pour thickened sirup slowly over egg whites. Add gelatin and mix until smooth. Cool. Fold in stiffly beaten cream and vanilla. Pour into freezing tray and freeze without stirring until firm.

Mocha Marlow
[Serves six]

1 square bitter chocolate
18 marshmallows, quartered
1 cup strong coffee
¼ teaspoon salt
1 cup cream, whipped
¼ cup extra sweet sirup
½ cup chopped walnuts or pecans

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add marshmallows, coffee, and salt; cook until marshmallows are almost melted. Remove from heat and continue stirring until mixture is smooth and spongy; cool. Gradually fold sirup into cream and whip until stiff. Fold whipped cream and chopped nuts into first mixture. Pour into freezing tray of refrigerator and freeze until firm.

If you haven't already discovered this extra sweet corn sirup and would like to try it, call this department and we shall be glad to give you the name of the product.

Before the dinner, guests will have a chance to meet the visitor, who was deputy commander to Gen. Eisenhower and second in command of all allied operations in the European theater of war, at a 6:30 p. m. reception. James B. Forgan will introduce Marshal Tedder. Cross, head of the Slavonic department of Harvard university, will make before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations at 12:15 p. m. today in the Gold room of the Congress hotel. At the speaker's table will be Mr. and Mrs. Addison L. Gardner Jr., the Barrett Wendells, the Snelling S. Robinsons, the Clarence Randalls, Paul Harper, Mr. and Mrs. Hermon Dunlap Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McKeon, and Walter Fisher, president of the council, who will introduce his fellow Harvard alumnus, Mr. Cross.

Following Allen Haden's talk on "Inter-American Relations" at 11:30 a. m. today in the Woman's Athletic club, Mrs. T. Lloyd Kelly will entertain at luncheon at the speaker's table for Mr. Haden, an authority on South America.

The club's victory unit of the American Red Cross has resumed its program of sewing and knitting for army hospitals and meets from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m. Mondays and Fridays to work.

Mrs. Bester Price heads the committee which has planned the dinner.

Arthur Meeker Jr.'s new novel, "The Far Away Music," will be reviewed by Mrs. Milton Youngren in the final of a series of book reviews sponsored by the Evanston Senior center of the Infant Welfare society, at 10:45 a. m. today in the ballroom of Mrs. George B. Dryden's Evanston home.

The actual bidding:

South	West North	East
1 spade	Pass 2 clubs	2 diamonds
2 hearts	Pass 2 no tramp	Pass
3 no tramp	Pass Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Queen of spades.

The road hog that we were apt to encounter on the highway in the good old motoring days was a much less sinister individual than his counterpart one so frequently engages at the bridge table. The former brings about a temporary discomfort which, by a little maneuvering, we can manage to obviate, but the latter usually places us in such a fix that no amount of skill can overcome it.

An attribute not sufficiently stressed by bridge players is that of partnership. The partnership instinct must be developed to high degree before any one can lay claim to proficiency at the game. There are some decisions which one simply cannot make himself, and those should be left to partner, who may be in possession of data that is not available to you. Which leads to this general observation: When you have already given a general picture of your hand and you come to a point in a competitive auction in which you are not quite sure what to do, pass it around to your partner to decide.

An extreme case of this principle occurs in today's hand. South opened with one spade and partner responded with two clubs. East, tho vulnerable, came in with two diamonds and South made the very normal rebid of two hearts. North, in view of partner's free rebid, went on to two no trump and South carried on to game. Against the proper opening of the queen of spades declarer could take no more than eight tricks.

It is South's rebid that is the subject of our observation. North contended that his partner should have passed the two diamond bid around to him. This bid he would have doubled for a set of 800 points. South maintained that there was no way for him to know that his partner could double two diamonds. To which North replied, "You could pass and find out." "But what if you were unable to do anything over the two diamond bid?" was South's query. "If I have a good hand I will do something when you have opened the bidding and if I have a bad hand there is not much of a profit in store for us."

I am inclined to sympathize with North's view. In fact, one expert to whom I presented this hand went so far as to double the two diamond bid himself, on the theory that if his partner had an unbalanced hand he would not stand for the double and if he had a more or less normal hand that justified going to the two level, the penalty should be satisfactory.

While this view may be somewhat extreme, nevertheless it shows a tendency on the part of experienced players to look for vulnerable sets on hands where it is not quite indicated that a game can be scored.

Shops Dangle Lavish Array of Yule Toys

BY REA SEEGER

Unless all the usual signs fail, it's going to be a record breaking Christmas. The king size Christmas wreaths with five large stars and the long, gold streamers are on each State st. lamp post. Most of the stores and shops have holiday decorations. Christmas card collections and the books of cards and the order blanks for individual engraving have been out since September, and the gift courts are doing a flourishing business at all hours.

The fun has begun and so has the mad scramble of shopping. One section that is already playing to the crowds is the toy department. Toys are still limited in quantity, so that shrewd shoppers are already busy, aided by optimistic children gleefully pointing out the gift possibilities of nearly everything in sight.

Among the thousands of gift ideas in these departments are the metal toys, bright red wheelbarrows, for instance, or metal swings for the tiny year old moppets. These are equipped with a bar so they can swing themselves. Foot propelled Irish Mails, not seen since before the war, are back and so are metal toy washing machines and other wash day models beloved of the small housewife with a family of dolls whose wardrobes need attention daily or weekly.

One of the newest sure fire hits is the plastic Noah's ark. If ever there was a modernized ark, this is it. The ark itself is of brown plastic, a real sea going structure with a jaunty red roof. It floats to the Plimsoll line with the 15 pairs of plastic animals, plus Mr. and Mrs. Noah and a tiny white plastic dove. There's a drydock arrangement for the ark if a sea is not available. The red roof divides to serve as a gangplank for the animals and the Noahs to march to dry land. It's one of the modern plastic wonders of the holiday. You can be 2 or 80 and still get a thrill out of it. The animals are so lifelike you'd think they were some of Frank Buck's, brought back alive to be perpetuated in unbreakable plastic.

DOOLITTLE HAS RIGHT TO TALK, SAYS HIS BOSS

Replies to Protests of Navy Secretary

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12 (AP)—The secretary of war told the protesting secretary of the navy tonight that while the army-navy merger debate should avoid personal digs, Lt. Gen. Doolittle had a right to express himself with "force and vigor."

Doolittle had told the senate military committee last week, in supporting the unification proposal, that "our B-29 boys are resting uneasily in their graves" as a result of naval commanders' claims about their part in the Pacific victory, and he had referred to some naval opposition to the merger as "hypocrisy." Forrestal promptly protested, in a letter to Patterson which the navy released to the press.

More Heat Than Light

In his reply, Patterson wrote he agreed that army and navy men when discussing unification, should confine the discussion to the principles involved; and, further, that "statements claiming any branch of the service won the war single handed are bound to produce more heat than light." Patterson added:

"This does not mean, however, that officers should not freely express their own personal convictions with force and vigor. Gen. Doolittle did that in presenting his views to the committee. I have read his testimony and I am certain that he had no intention of presenting the case for unification on other than its merits.

Before Highest Forum

"I do not agree that the deliberations can be 'elevated' to a higher level than the senate committee on military affairs. I know of no higher forum for matters of this nature than the appropriate committees of congress which have the ultimate responsibility."

In St. Louis, Mo., today, Doolittle told interviewers he had no retractions to make from his testimony before the committee.

REP. LUCE LOSES FIGHT TO SHARE IN BROKAW FUND

New York, Nov. 12 [Special]—Rep. Clare Boothe Luce [R., Conn.] has been denied a share of two trust funds totaling $3,786,000 left to her daughter, Ann Clare Brokaw, 19, who was killed in an auto accident in California nearly two years ago, it was disclosed today in a ruling by Supreme Court Justice William T. Collins sitting in Surrogates court.

The justice ruled that the trust funds, set up by Ann's grandfather, the late Isaac V. Brokaw, be given to Ann's half sister, Frances Brokaw, 14. Their father, George Brokaw, a former husband of Rep. Luce, died in 1935. Frances' mother, a former wife of Brokaw, is now the wife of Film Actor Henry Fonda.

The disclosure that Rep. Luce was seeking part of the inheritance was made when a trustee of the funds, Howard Crosby Brokaw, former brother-in-law of Mrs. Luce, filed accountings in Surrogates court. The trustee said he was uncertain whether half of his dead brother's share of the funds should be paid "to the administratrix of the estate of Ann Clare." Rep. Luce is administratrix of her daughter's estate.

CANADIAN LABOR SPURNS GENERAL STRIKE ATTEMPT

WINDSOR, Ont., Nov. 12 [Special]—The attempt of striking workers of the Ford Motor company of Canada to stage a dominion wide one day sympathy strike by all organized labor today was an admitted failure tonight.

Except for reports of sympathy walkouts by 1,300 CIO workers in Kitchener, Ont., and 700 in Sarnia, labor thruout the dominion was unresponsive to the Ford strikers' appeal. In the Ford strike, 10,000 members of the CIO United Automobile Workers have been idle since Sept. 16 over wage and union recognition demands.

The dominion-wide sympathy demonstration was sought in telegrams sent yesterday to union locals thruout Canada by the UAW-CIO joint policy committee directing the Ford strike. The wires were signed by Roy England, president of Local 200, UAW-CIO.

In Ottawa, A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said that as president of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employes he had rejected the request for a one day sympathy walkout. The Canadian Congress of Labor is an organization with which CIO unions in Canada, as well as many non CIO labor unions, are affiliated.

The motor company tonight rejected union proposals for ending the strike and charged the union with "prolonging the tieup."

The company's action came after a meeting between company officials and two union officials, and drew from a union spokesman an announcement that picket lines at the Windsor plant would be "strengthened" tomorrow.

D. B. Greig, Ford of Canada treasurer, said "the union has made it increasingly clear that the union shop and checkoff" are its main interest.

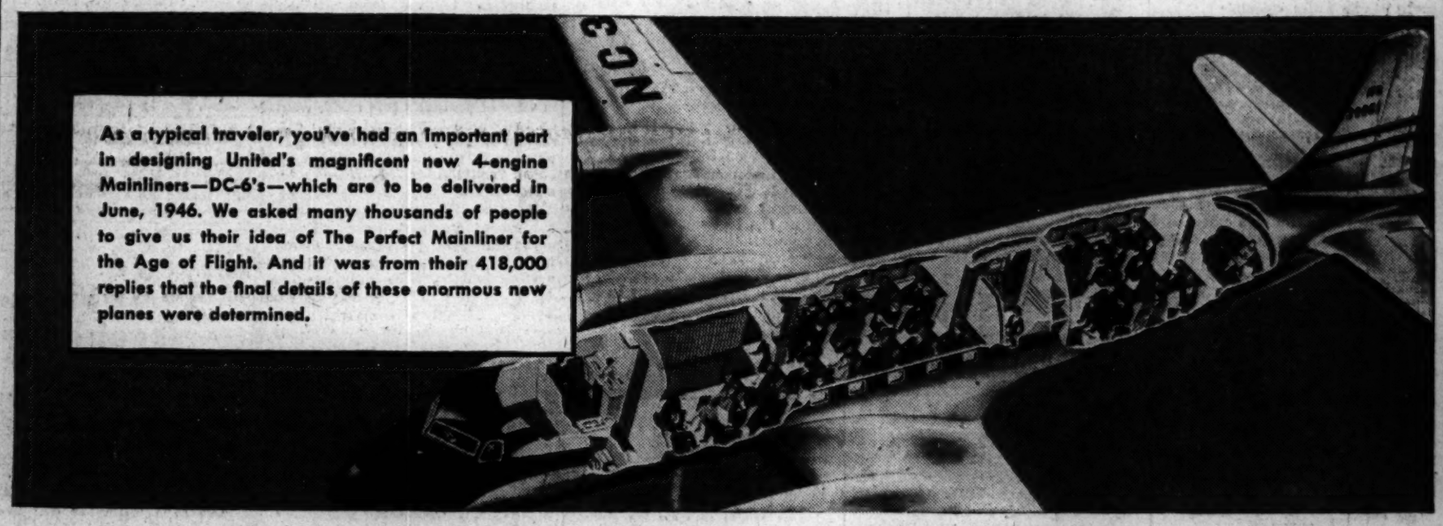
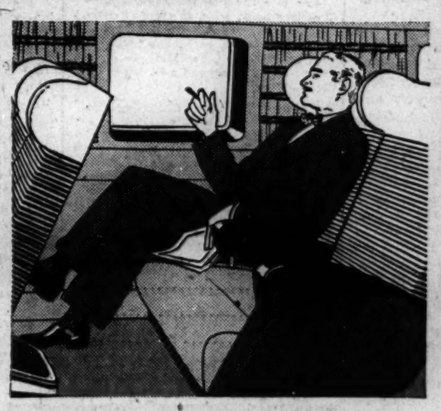
Here are the new United Mainliners
YOU helped design



As a typical traveler, you've had an important part in designing United's magnificent new 4-engine Mainliners—DC-6's—which are to be delivered in June, 1946. We asked many thousands of people to give us their idea of The Perfect Mainliner for the Age of Flight. And it was from their 418,000 replies that the final details of these enormous new planes were determined.

LUXURY AND NEW COMFORT ALOFT are assured in this handsome interior. Spacious accommodations for 52 daytime passengers . . . two stewardesses . . . pressurized cabins offering near-ground atmosphere at smooth upper altitudes.

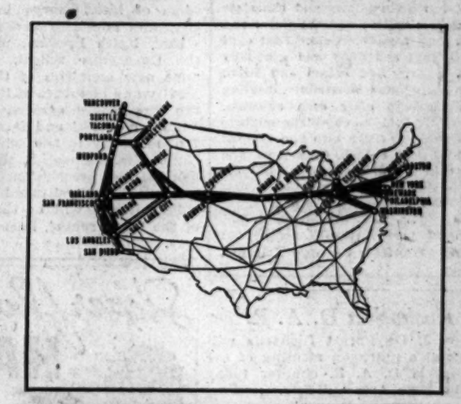


LIVING-ROOM COMFORT in these new specially designed reclining chairs reserved in advance. Individual, indirect lighting . . . air conditioning . . . new wide windows giving a superb view . . . 5-mile-a-minute speed that devours distance.

NIGHT FLIGHT, too, is a memorable experience in the luxurious new Sleeper Mainliners. Extra-long, extra-wide lower and upper berths offering utmost privacy. You'll find slumber in the sky more restful than in any other kind of travel.

EXCELLENT MEALS are a Mainliner feature. Your favorite dishes prepared in our own commissaries . . . served with our compliments, piping hot from a new-type galley—insurance that United will continue to lead with delicious food aloft.

LADIES' LOUNGE presents new refinements and comforts for air travelers. And there's a modern dressing room for men, too. Your new half-million-dollar Mainliner's great size provides more room than ever before.



STRAIGHT, STRATEGIC is the route followed by Mainliners. Serving 53 cities from coast to coast, the famous Main Line Airway offers convenient arrival and departure times . . . fast, direct service . . . fares to suit your pocketbook.

These are some of the new and exciting luxuries you will enjoy when the first new DC-6 United Mainliners are delivered next summer. Gliding through the smooth upper air at speeds up to 300 miles an hour, these great Mainliners will carry you from coast to coast in 10 hours or less. And with United's new low fares, you will enjoy the speed and luxury of these remarkable post-war Mainliners at less than the cost of first-class surface transportation. So see your local travel agent and plan that long-awaited vacation over The Main Line Airway.

United Air Lines has been presented an Award of Honor by the National Safety Council for having flown more than a billion passenger miles in the past three years without a fatal accident. We are proud of our flight and ground personnel who made this record possible.

When Is a Sale Not a Sale?

Answer: When it stops too soon.

Goods are not sold when they move from the manufacturer to the wholesaler.

The sale is really consummated when the consumer uses the merchandise, likes it, tells his friends and comes back for more.

That's not very startling... but it's worth bearing in mind as we start on the road back to competition for sales.

5,580,420 SEE GAMES IN A. L.; BREAK RECORD

Victorious Tigers Draw 1,280,341

BY IRVING VAUGHAN

The owners of the eight American league clubs are going to eat pretty well this winter and this includes those who have no other source of income. They were well rewarded for their efforts during the 1945 season, according to figures announced yesterday by Will Harridge, league president. The league set an attendance record for itself with a total of 5,580,420 paid admissions.

This was 782,262 more than paid their way thru the turnstiles in 1944 and 146,629 above the 5,443,791 with which the junior major league set its previous high in 1940.

Tiger Fans Deserve Title

By winning the league pennant and the world's series, the Detroit Tigers furnished satisfactory reward for a faithful constituency that totaled 1,280,341 admissions at Briggs stadium. This was the highest figure ever reached by a Detroit team and not far removed from the league's one club mark of 1,289,422 set by the Yankees in 1920. The Tigers also topped the league attendance in '44 with 923,176.

The Tigers developed more than a little of their record gate by tempting the home fans with twilight engagements, a form of entertainment that was unsuccessful in other cities. Their best crowd at a dinner time game was 31,288 with the Yankees on July 6. A number of other twilight shows drew more than 20,000.

Night Game Crowds Up

Night game attendance showed a climb, thus arousing fears that the limitless program of electric light affairs may be continued. A total of 1,269,591 fans saw 109 night games last season. In 1944 the attendance at 128 electric light parties was 1,218,941.

During the season the eight clubs shared in entertaining more than 500,000 service men at the league games. Attendance figures for the 1944 and 1945 seasons follow:

	1945 Attendance	1944 Attendance
Detroit	1,280,341	923,176
New York	881,845	769,995
Chicago	857,981	654,530
Washington	652,660	525,235
Boston	603,794	506,975
Cleveland	598,182	475,272
St. Louis	482,956	508,644
Philadelphia	462,631	505,322

Sox Line Up 13 Games

Harry Grabiner, White Sox vice president who is quitting the job Dec. 15, announced yesterday that he had completed the spring exhibition schedule in so far as California is concerned. Thirteen games, all with the Cubs, Browns, or Pirates, will be played on the west coast before starting back east. The exhibitions for the return trip will be announced later. The 13 games already arranged for James Dykes' boys are as follows:

March 9-10—Pittsburgh at Los Angeles.
March 13—St. Louis at Pasadena.
March 14—Pittsburgh at Pasadena.
March 15—Pittsburgh at San Bernardino.
March 16-17—Cubs at Los Angeles.
March 18—Pittsburgh at Long Beach.
March 19—Cubs at Pasadena.
March 20—St. Louis at Anaheim.
March 21—Cubs at Los Angeles.
March 23-24—Pittsburgh at San Diego.

It also was disclosed yesterday that Mrs. Grace Comiskey, president of the White Sox, had contracted with the Jacobs brothers, concessionaires, to take charge at Comiskey park next season. Approximately $100,000 will be spent improving the hot dog stands.

NATIONAL TOPS 5,000,000

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—For the first time since 1930 National league baseball teams played before crowds totaling more than 5,000,000 persons during the 1945 season, the circuit's headquarters said today.

More than three-fifths of the total attendance was concentrated in New York and Chicago. The New York Giants, Brooklyn Dodgers, and Chicago Cubs all reported season marks of more than 1,000,000.

The National league does not announce its actual attendance figures.

P.G.A. CONSIDERS WAR WORK ONLY PARTIALLY DONE

BY CHARLES BARTLETT

The Professional Golfers' Association of America, which set out on doing a job for the war four years ago, considers itself only over the first round of its assignment. That was demonstrated yesterday in the preliminary meetings of the 29th annual convention of the organization in the Bismarck hotel, which will resume this morning with the annual election of officers and continue thru tomorrow.

Fred Corcoran

The P. G. A., one golf family which did not dally about its war time responsibilities, has raised an aggregate of approximately $620,000 from the professionals and amateurs in its 29 sections to provide golfing facilities for hospitalized service ment of World War II. in 60 centers thruout the nation.

Will Enlarge Program

Leo Diegel, former double champion of the P. G. A., who is national chairman of the P. G. A. rehabilitation committee, said yesterday in his annual report that the task of giving returning veterans every opportunity to play golf is only partially completed. He pledged his committee's 1946 efforts to an enlargement of the present program. He further pointed out that the P. G. A.'s initial venture in the eastern section, the course at the Valley Forge [Pa.] hospital, now is attracting an enthusiastic average of 275 service men per day.

Fred J. Corcoran, tournament manager, reported that the P. G. A. has raised $250,000 in its various war events to date. This figure is headed by the $51,500 derived from the annual association tournament in Dayton, O., last June, one of the most successful events in the history of the tournament.

Elect Officers Today

The annual election of officers is scheduled for today's morning session. Present officials are Ed Dudley of Atlantic City, N. J., president; Frank Sprogell, Blythefield, Mich., secretary, and Willie Maguire, Houston, Tex., treasurer.

BY WILFRID SMITH

Who are the most valuable football players to their teams in the Western conference?

With the conclusion of the 1945 campaign only two Saturdays distant, it is not too soon to make preliminary examination of the achievements of the year. Seven conference games remain on the schedule and four of them may affect the championship. This hinges primarily on the Indiana-Purdue game Nov. 24 in Bloomington. If the undefeated Hoosiers win, they will gain their first Big Nine title. If they lose, the results of other games will determine the championship.

Teammates Do the Picking

The most valuable player at each of the nine universities is elected by members of that team and here is the merit of the award established in 1924 by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Each of the most valuable players will receive a miniature white gold football emblematic of the honor which is unquestionably the most highly treasured prize because it stems from the recipients' teammates' regard.

There are no restrictions. Each football squad may name any one from its group from any class and playing any position. Ability may be a fundamental requirement but leadership, courage, and desire to play are attributes recognized in the balloting. Three of last year's most valuable players were freshmen.

Committee to Name Winner

The most valuable player elections will not be held until after Nov. 24. When the list of nine players is completed, a committee of 21 will select the most valuable player in the conference. This group is composed of the nine conference coaches, nine prominent football officials, K. L. Wilson, commissioner of athletics for the Big Nine; Arch Ward, sports editor of THE TRIBUNE, and the writer.

Each elector names a first and second choice and these are scored 2 and 1 votes, respectively. The winner probably will be announced by mid-December. The award, the same as when the competition was established by the late Harvey Woodruff, is an actual size sterling silver football. Red Grange of Illinois received the first one. Last year's recipient was Les Horvath, quarter back on Ohio State's undefeated squad.

Wildcats Seek First Victory Since 1940 Over Notre Dame

After six consecutive Big Nine engagements, Northwestern university's surprising football team will depart from conference competition Saturday for its annual game with Notre Dame before a capacity crowd in Dyche stadium. All seats for the game were sold a month ago and thousands of mail orders have been turned back by ticket offices of both schools.

19 Victories for Irish

Saturday's game will be the 25th in a series that started in 1889 and finds the Irish leading with 19 victories against three for the Wildcats. Two games ended in scoreless ties.

Despite the big margin by which Notre Dame leads in the victory column, the series has been one of the hardest fought in middle western football. Only six times has either team won by more than two touchdowns; the Irish taking five of these against one for the Wildcats. Thirteen games, or more than half, have been decided by seven points or less.

Wildcats Score Three Triumphs

This year's game will find the Wildcats seeking their first victory over the Irish since 1940 when Don Clawson and Bill DeCorrevont led the Purple to a 20 to 0 triumph, one of the four times during the series that Notre Dame has been held scoreless. The Irish won last year, 21 to 0.

The Wildcats come up to the Notre Dame game with a season's record of three victories, three defeats and one tie.

With the exception of Bruce Bairstow who was injured in the Ohio State game, the Wildcats will have their full strength available for Saturday.

FOUR JOIN IRISH CASUALTIES

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 12 [Special]—Four Notre Dame football players joined the casualty list today after the bruising 48 to 0 defeat by Army Saturday, as the Irish opened drills for Saturday's game with Northwestern.

Bob Skoglund, regular left end, suffered the loss of two teeth; Pete Berezney, regular right tackle, is nursing a bruised leg; Phil Colella, first string half back, has a badly bruised shoulder, as does Frank Ruggerio, No. 1 full back, whose chin was cut in the navy game two weeks ago.

INJURIES HIT BADGERS

Madison, Wis., Nov. 12 [Special]—The thinning ranks of the Wisconsin football squad received another jolt today when it was learned a veteran right end, Jack Mead, suffered a severely wrenched elbow in the Northwestern game and may not be able to play against Navy in Baltimore next Sunday.

The Badgers test with the Middies will be their first meeting with the Navy, which will come to Madison during the next three years for a return game. The Wisconsin squad will leave Thursday morning.

NAVY HAS HOLIDAY

Annapolis, Md., Nov. 12 [Special]—Next assignment for the Navy football squad, Wisconsin in Baltimore stadium Saturday, will be the eighth and last preliminary game before the meeting with Army. A rest was declared for the players today as the entire brigade had a holiday.

'CHICAGO HAS NO FOOTBALL PLANS,' SAYS BERWANGER

The University of Chicago's attitude toward intercollegiate football has not changed and the institution definitely is not interested in resuming Western conference competition in the sport, according to the personal opinion of Jay Berwanger expressed at yesterday's Quarter Back luncheon in the Morrison hotel.

"The university accepts enrollment of students who normally would be in their second and third high school years," Berwanger said. "This is reflected in the fact that while we have some 190 students playing intramural football, none would be able to compete in the intercollegiate variety, since all are only 15 or 16 years old."

Business Men Plan Annual Horse Show

BY JAMES SEGRETI

The Chicago horse show, a war baby on the city's sports calendar, may be a permanent fixture.

Plans to continue the tanbark presentation in the Coliseum each winter under the sponsorship of the Chicago Horse Show association are being directed by Paul Butler and John F. Cuneo, prominent Chicago business men, who led the organization of the first show in the Coliseum a year ago.

Presents a Problem

Continuation of the Coliseum show will present a problem to horsemen in the middle west and in other sections of the United States, many of whom already are making plans to participate in the resumption of the International Live Stock exposition in the International amphitheater, 42d and Halsted sts., next winter.

The International show, held in connection with the Live Stock exposition, was discontinued because of the war in 1941. However, the ampitheater, which was taken over by the army since that time, is expected to be returned to its owners no later than next spring. The International Dog show already has been scheduled for the south side plant next April.

New Lot Purchased

Butler and Cuneo head a syndicate which has purchased a lot north of the Coliseum. It is planned to construct a building there to accommodate entries for the annual Coliseum show. This year a record entry of 508 horses forced owners to pitch tents outdoors for their prize animals, among them Cuneo, whose Wensleydale Pilot, valued at $15,000, withstood frigid temperatures.

"We believe there is room for two horse shows annually in Chicago," said a spokesman for the Chicago Horse Show association. "We will not have conflicting dates and we feel sure exhibitors will enter both events."

HALAS READY TO RESUME HIS CIVILIAN STATUS

HONOLULU, T. H., Nov. 13 (AP)—Comdr. George Halas, owner of the Chicago Bears of the National football league, has been detached from duty as welfare and recreation officer for the Pacific fleet, it was announced today. He had been on Adm. Nimitz' staff for the last six months.

He left today for a brief tour of duty at San Francisco before being released from active duty.

Nimitz recently awarded Halas the bronze star for meritorious service in his supervision of welfare and recreation matters for more than 2,000,000 officers and men of the Pacific fleet.

STRIKE COMES AFTER BIERMAN HITS 'LOAFING'

Discord Follows Three Defeats

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 12 [Special]—Eleven members of the University of Minnesota's varsity football team, angered by Coach Bernie Bierman's charges of loafing, failed to report for practice today.

The list of holdouts included Bob Fitch, Tom Reinhardt, and John Westrum, tackles; Bob Graiziger and Bob Hanzlik, guards; Judd Ringer, end; Dale Rappans, quarter back; Wayne [Red] Williams and Dick Lawrence, half backs; and Hudson Mealey and Vic Kulbitski, full backs.

Bierman Blasts Squad

Bierman had said earlier in the day that the Gopher squad "never has been as good as we were reputed to be. The squad as a whole has loafed," he added, "and has not shown any spirit. I'm going to find out, without delay, just who does and who doesn't want to play football and I will be governed accordingly in selecting line-ups for the remaining games on our schedule.

"At any rate," Bierman continued, "there will be a lot of new men on the squad which goes to Iowa City for next Saturday's game."

Several members of the team were said to have resented a radio broadcast yesterday, in which Coach Bierman placed the responsibility for recent reverses on the players.

Normally the Gophers would have had some 60 players out for a Monday practice. Today there were 34, altho some of those missing were suffering from injuries incurred in that 49 to 0 beating they suffered at the hands of Indiana Saturday. Casualties included Tom Cates and Ken Parent, half backs, and Larry Olsonoski, left tackle.

Only two of the 34 who reported today had started games this season.

Team Skids Steadily

Minnesota opened the season with an easy victory over Missouri, then beat Fort Warren and Nebraska before encountering Northwestern in its first Big Nine conference test. After they had drubbed the Wildcats, 30 to 7, the fans began to talk of championships and even Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern called the Gopher squad the "nearest thing to a pre-war outfit" he had seen.

Then came a 20 to 7 defeat by Ohio State, a 26 to 0 drubbing from Michigan in the Little Brown jug battle and, finally, the pay-off—last Saturday's Indiana debacle.

Bierman could not be reached tonight.

CANFIELD LEADS BIG 9 SCORERS; TALIAFERRO 2D

George Taliaferro's three touchdowns in Indiana's 49 to 0 victory over Minnesota last week have boosted the Hoosier left half back into the No. 2 spot in Big Nine individual scoring, official Western conference statistics released yesterday show.

Taliaferro has scored 30 points in five conference games, and is second to Purdue's Bill Canfield, who has 36.

In yards gained from rushing, the speedy Negro back has gained 437 in 79 attempts, giving him an average of 4.9. Three of Taliaferro's teammates—Bill Armstrong, Bob Miller, and Mel Groomes—have respective averages of 9, 7.3, and 6.3, altho none has carried the ball more than 25 times.

In team defensive standings, Indiana moved into a second place tie with Illinois, each yielding 210 yards per game. Offensively, the Hoosiers have risen from fifth to third place, with an average scrimmage net of 306. Ohio State and Michigan, respectively, retain the offensive and defensive leadership of the Big Nine.

'CLEVELAND JOB SUITS ME,' SAYS LT. PAUL BROWN

Lt. Paul Brown yesterday branded as ridiculous a report in Columbus, O., that he might resign from his post-war job as general manager-coach of the Cleveland All-America conference team to coach the University of Kentucky eleven.

"I am looking forward to getting on the job at Cleveland," said Lt. Brown at Great Lakes Naval Training station, where he is football officer, "and there is absolutely nothing to the Kentucky report."

The Associated Press said in a story with a Columbus date line that it was learned in Lexington, Ky., that the former Ohio State coach had been mentioned for the Kentucky job. The Kentucky team has been coached by Athletic Director Bernie Shively since Ab Kirwab resigned last year.

Lt. Brown signed a five year contract as coach and general manager of the Cleveland team last February. At the time Owner Arthur McBride said "it is the best deal ever given a football coach."

FORM FANS HAVE TOP DAY OF 1945 AT SPORTSMAN'S

Favorites Win Six Races in Row

BY MAURICE SHEVLIN

The most formal day of the 1945 racing season in Chicago marked the opening of the last week of racing at Sportsman's Park yesterday.

Starting with the daily double races, the first and second on an eight race card, favorites scored without much difficulty in six consecutive events, including the day's featured $2,000 Marcia Barrett purse.

The double return was $8.20, the lowest of the year in the Chicago area, brought about by victories for M. H. VanBerg's Tomluta in the opener and Silver Star stock farm's Michigan Chevy in the second. Tomluta paid $3.60, and Michigan Chevy $4. Billy Nichols and Job Jessop were the winning riders.

Astound Wins Third

A. S. Higgins' Astound gave Nichols his second triumph in the third and paid $4.80. Jessop made it two for himself and a double for Owner-Trainer VanBerg with Take Courage in the fourth, the winner paying $5.20.

Jessop made it three victories with Mrs. Al Gaal's Catchwelsta in the fifth and the bettors received $4.20 on the favorite.

Signals Bloke, owned by Mrs. Emil Denemark and ridden by Alfred Applebee, scored at $5 in the feature, beating Go Devil and Jessop by a narrow margin as Mrs. Phil Leon's Sky Wolf took the show in a six horse race at a mile and one sixteenth.

Jockey Nichols had the favored Wobble Pump in the seventh, but it was Jessop who rode the winner, George S. Howell's Two Score. It was Jessop's fourth of the afternoon. The winner paid $10, going to the post the second choice.

Play Easy Takes Final

The second choice, Play Easy, owned by E. A. Boyd and piloted by Willie Gillespie, won the last event as the favored Hasty Brook ran out of the money. Play Easy paid $11.40.

A crowd of 7,593 turned out for the first of six prgrams, net proceeds of which will go to charity. The first $75,000 will be given the Illinois Home and Aid society, the next $50,000 to the Catholic Youth organization, and the remainder to welfare funds of eight other organizations. The day's mutuel handle was $644,546.

Football Old Timers to Hold Dinner Tonight

Jim Conzelman, former coach of the Chicago Cardinals, will be the headliner tonight at the annual dinner of the Old Time Football Players' association in the Morrison hotel. The event will start at 6 o'clock. Coaches of the Bears and Cardinals will be in attendance. Among other guests will be Red Grange and Judge Roger Kiley.

It Happened in Dubuque

She is a Cleveland av. lady who wanted to make a neighborly gesture toward a Mrs. Newcomer recently arrived in Dubuque to reside, so she rang her up of a recent evening and invited her to "run over about 8 for a little bridge."

"O!" exclaimed Mrs. Newcomer, "I'd love to, but I have an engagement for this evening. My husband phoned me just a few minutes ago and said we'd eat downtown tonight, then go to see 'Uncle Harry.'"

"O!" said the Cleveland av. lady, slightly taken aback, "You must excuse my being surprised, but you see, my dear, I didn't know you had any relatives living here in Dubuque."

"Relatives?" exclaimed the other lady puzzled, then she laughed gleefully and explained: "'Uncle Harry' isn't any relative, dear, it's the name of the movie they're showing at the Orpheum this week."

Lord, Bless the Food We Eat

O Lord of sun and shower and soil and seed,
Whose omnipresence makes our lives complete,
Grant us Thy grace according to our need,
And may Thy name be praised while now we eat.

Lord God of all the beautiful and good,
Whose wish for us is happiness and health,
Sustain our bodies with this wholesome food,
Thy bounty be our song and only wealth.

Creator God, whose thought toward us is love,
And who turned Cana's water into wine,
Make this occasion like to heaven above,
Be Thou our honored Guest, and while we dine,

Grant us the gift of words that fill our ears
With pleasant, peaceful thoughts. Forgive our sins
And, now and thruout all the coming years,
Our hearts shall raise a chorus of Amens.

REVISED ILLINI OFFENSE TO FACE OHIO SATURDAY

New Combination Wins Coach Eliot's Praise

Champaign, Ill., Nov. 12 [Special]—Coach Ray Eliot's revised offense, good last week for seven touchdowns against Iowa, remained intact in today's drills as the Illini prepared for Saturday's game with Ohio State in Columbus.

Keeping their first string status were Half Backs Stan Stasica and Gene Kwasniewski, Full Back Bill Krall and Quarter Back Bill Butkovich. Eliot was highly pleased with the running of Freshman Half Backs Tom Zaborac and Jack Pierce and they will be used as replacements against the Buckeyes.

Several Illini Injured

Several Illini were injured in the Iowa contest and Eliot held a light workout for the first team while the reserves were learning Ohio State plays. Stasica, Kwasniewski and End Bill Heiss were nursing slight injuries but will be in shape Saturday.

Lou Agase, first string tackle, is expected to return to scrimmage sessions, but may have trouble regaining his left tackle position, since that spot is now held by Bill Kolens, one of the most improved players of the squad. Capt. Ralph Serpico and Freshman Bunker Jones alternate at right tackle.

OHIO STATE LOSES TACKLE

Columbus, O., Nov. 12 [Special]—Concern was felt today over the condition of Tackle Thornton Dixon's knee as the Ohio State football team started preparation for the homecoming game here Saturday with Illinois.

Dixon suffered an injured knee midway thru the Pittsburgh game.

MICHIGAN LOSES WATTS

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 12 [Special]—Personnel problems faced Michigan's football coaching staff today as the Wolverines began preparing for Saturday's Western conference game with Purdue here.

Loss by navy transfer to the Glenview, Ill., air station of Center Harold Watts, Birmingham, Mich., veteran, who has been a 60 minute man in any game where the need arose caused the most serious worry. Tony Momsen, Toledo freshman, will take over at the pivot post.

PURDUE EYES MICHIGAN.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 12 [Special]—Disappointed by the unimpressive showing against Miami last week, Coach Cecil Isbell ordered an intensive drill on both offense and defense this afternoon instead of the usual Monday conditioning workout as Purdue started preparation for Michigan in Ann Arbor on Saturday.

Isbell's worries were complicated by the fact that Bill Horvath and Harold Holz, guards who started against Miami, both suffered injuries that may keep them out of action this week.

HOOSIERS RESUME WORK

Bloomington, Ind., Nov. 12 [Special]—Indiana's undefeated Hoosiers forgot their 49 to 0 triumph over Minnesota today and settled down to hard work to prepare for their invasion of Pittsburgh next Saturday. Indiana, which is after its first undefeated season as well as its initial Big Nine football championship, has not lost a game to Pittsburgh since the series began in 1942.

Max Bentley Sets Pace with Eight Goals

BY EDWARD BURNS

Max Bentley, as rapid and skilled as ever after two years in the Canadian army, tops the scorers in the National Hockey league in this week's tabulations, with eight goals. He also has made two assists for a point total of 10. In points the slender Chicago center is tied with Bill Cowley of Boston, who has made seven goals and three assists, and his linemate, Bill Mosienko, who has four goals and six assists.

The Hawks also placed one man in the second flight, those with nine points. Toe Blake of Montreal, who led the league a week ago, has made seven goals and two assists, and Alex Kaleta has made four goals and five assists. Still another Hawk, Clint Smith, star of Sunday night's 5 to 3 victory over the world champion Maple Leafs, shares the third flight with Maurice Richard of Montreal. Each has accounted for eight points.

Wares Among First 15

Other Hawks who are in the top 15 point makers are Doug Bentley, who has made five points, and Eddie Wares, lone defense man in this group, who has made two goals and two assists.

The Hawks rested yesterday, pondering their first place eminence in the league standings as well as in the individual scoring lists, but today and tomorrow they will don skates to practice for two tough games coming up with the Detroit Red Wings, a great defensive outfit they have not seen this season.

Play in Detroit Thursday

They will play the Wings, now in third place in the league standings, in Detroit Thursday night and will again face the Detroiters in Chicago Stadium Sunday night.

Don Grosso, injured in Toronto, will not play in the Detroit series, but Wingy Johnston, out of three games with injuries, again is ready to play.

Bergstrom Field Wins from Camp Grant, 12-0

Rockford, Ill., Nov. 12 (AP)—The 9th troop carrier command from Bergstrom Field, Tex., tonight took advantage of wind blown punts to score a touchdown in each of the first two periods and defeat Camp Grant, 12 to 0. The heavy Bergstrom Field line held Camp Grant to no first downs.

JIMMY JOYCE K. O.'s GRAVES IN 2D AT OMAHA

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 12 (AP)—Jimmy Joyce, 132½ pound Gary, Ind., fighter, knocked out Jackie Graves, 130½, of Austin, Minn., in 27 seconds of the second round tonight.

The blow which ended the fight was the first solid one Joyce threw, and ended Graves' bid for his 13th professional boxing triumph.

Graves moved in fast at the start of the second round to catch Joyce's punch on the mouth. The blow dropped Graves to the canvas, altho the punch did not appear to carry enough power for a knockout.

AIR LINE ORDERS 35 NEW PLANES FOR 7 MILLIONS

Pennsylvania-Central Airlines yesterday ordered from the Glenn L. Martin company 35 modern passenger planes costing a total of 7 million dollars.

The ships will have a speed of 300 miles an hour, about 100 miles an hour faster than convential commercial air line transports, and will carry 40 passengers, compared with 20 to 22 passenger capacity of present day planes. Delivery will be made early in 1947.

Powered by Two Motors

C. Bedell Monro, president of P.-C. A., said the planes will be powered by two Pratt & Whitney engines capable of developing 2,100 normal takeoff horsepower, and will be equipped with every new electronic device, including radar. Other improvements are reversible pitch propellers, heat anti-icing equipment, and tricycle landing gear.

Passengers will sit two abreast on each side of the aisle, eliminating the single seats on one side of the present planes. Travelers will be provided with the newest heating and cooling systems and with shelves for light luggage at the cabin entrance.

Adapted to Line's Needs

Monro said the planes will be custom built to meet all required specifications and adapted to P.-C. A.'s particular needs.

"These planes will curtail ground time, reduce operating and maintenance costs, offer new comforts and safety, and ultimately pave the way for even lower fares," he said.

The new fleet will supplement the recently acquired 12 four engine DC-4s which the Martin company is converting into 56-passenger planes.

SECURITY OFFERINGS IN AUGUST DROP FROM PEAK REACHED IN JULY

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 12 (AP) — New corporate issues of securities offered for sale in August in amounts above $100,000 totalled 440 million dollars—less than half the July total which set a monthly peak for 16 years, the securities and exchange commission reported today.

The August total of new issues was 1 billion 185 millions, the lowest figure in six months. Included were 700 millions in United States savings bonds.

Corporate securities included 196 millions sold privately, the largest amount of private placements since December, 1940. Three large issues included were 60 million of Sinclair Oil 2¾ per cent debentures, 50 million Republic Steel 3 per cent first mortgage bonds, and 40 million Liggett and Myers Tobacco company 2⅝ per cent debentures.

Big Personal Plane Output Gain Expected

Production of planes for individual and business use is expected to reach a volume of approximately 100 million dollars in 1946, C. J. Reese, president of Continental Motors corporation, said yesterday. Personal plane makers are setting up production facilities and formulating sales plans on the basis of building and selling 35,000 to 40,000 light planes during the year.

Attainment of this goal would mean the industry would make 50 to 65 per cent more personal planes in one year than were in existence in the United States before the war, he said. Only 24,134 craft were privately registered in 1941.

Plans 90 Per Cent of Engines

Reese said his industry forecast was based on Continental Motors' orders for 34,739 four and six cylinder aircraft engines to be delivered in 1946, and on an industry survey indicating Continental engines will power approximately 90 per cent of all personal planes to be made in the year.

The prediction of a 100 million dollar volume was based on the assumption that prices will average approximately $2,500 per plane, tho several models will be priced at about $2,000.

Advantages of Mass Output

"If the personal plane industry reaches its goal next year, it will be able to make a good start toward achieving advantages of mass production which were impossible on the limited output of pre-war years," said Reese. "Six producers each plan to build 3,000 to 6,000 planes.

"Similarly, Continental's large volume of business, together with simplification of engineering design to achieve a high degree of interchangeability of parts between six cylinder and four cylinder aircraft engines, is making possible important gains in manufacturing efficiency. Special purpose machine tools are being used extensively now, whereas their cost would be prohibitive if production were at pre-war levels."

October Rayon Shipments Outstrip Any 1945 Month

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Rayon shipments in October were the largest of the year. The Rayon Organon, trade publication, said shipments totaled 67,600,000 pounds, an increase of 13 per cent above the 59,800,000 pounds shipped in September. Shipments in the first 10 months aggregated 633,700,000 pounds of rayon yarn and staple fiber.

SUPPLY OF MEAT ANIMALS DROPS IN BIG MARKETS

Increase in Hogs Offset by Sheep, Cattle Dip

Hog receipts at principal packing centers increased again yesterday, but the rise was not sufficient to offset the decrease in cattle and sheep arrivals. Twenty markets received a total of 287,000 meat animals, compared with 359,000 a week ago. It was the smallest total for Monday since Sept. 10.

Chicago buyers paid steady prices for most meat animals, with many types at ceiling prices as a result of the big demand. Most barrows and gilts sold at the $14.85 a hundred pounds top, and all packing sows and stags brought their ceiling of $14.10. The average remained at $14.80.

Many Steers Bring Ceiling

Some of the liveliest bidding of the year cleaned up the Chicago cattle supply of 15,500, which was the smallest for a Monday since early last August. More than 75 carloads of steers and two loads of heifers brought the $18 ceiling. Some of the lower grades of cattle gained 10 to 15 cents. Beef cows were strong to 25 cents higher, and gains of 10 to 15 cents were made by canners and cutters. Bulls were stronger. Calves sold steady.

The yards received 5,000 sheep and lambs, the smallest Monday total since the middle of September, and the 20 market total of 79,000 was 41 per cent below a week earlier. Chicago buyers paid steady prices, the $14.50 top for native lambs, $12.50 for yearling wethers, and $6.50 for old ewes. Some solid mouth ewes sold to farmers at $7.75.

Hog Slaughter Small

The October hog slaughter in packing plants under federal inspection was the third smallest for that month in 35 years, said the department of agriculture. Packers butchered only 2,329,666 head, compared with 4,223,255 a year ago.

October cattle butchering set a record peak at 1,583,697, compared with the former high of 1,450,572 in October, 1944.

The sheep and lamb slaughter was 2,018,282 last month, smallest for October since 1941, but the largest peace time October total on record. Last year it was 2,238,346.

RYE AGAIN RISES 5 CENT LIMIT IN WINNIPEG TRADE

WINNIPEG, Man., Nov. 12 (AP)—Rye futures prices on the grain exchange today continued their broad upswing, advancing 5 cents a bushel, the maximum permitted for one day's trading.

Commission houses, local operators,, and others were on the buying side and light offerings contributed to the wide advance. American interest in the market was limited because of the Armistice day holiday. December closed at $1.97, May at $1.93½, and July at $1.84⅝.

A cargo of wheat, involving about 250,000 bushels disposed of to the Netherlands, was the only export business reported.

CHARGES LABOR ATTACKS SLOW INDUSTRY, JOBS

Executives Give Up 'Endless Fight'

Ceaseless attacks on business and industry by certain labor groups are discouraging private enterprise and reducing the number of jobs available for workers, Charles A. Schmutz, editor in chief of Standard & Poor's corporation, said yesterday.

The statement of the investment advisory and statistical company editor asserted dozens of executives are "giving up the seemingly endless fight" because some labor organizations continually belittle management's pay raises, retirement plans, and group insurance contracts, and indulge in name calling and inciting "avoidable and synthetic" labor disputes.

Sell Businesses, Buy Stocks

As a result millions of dollars "now are coming into the stock market" from men who have quietly sold their individual enterprises to the major corporations that are "better equipped to carry on the one-sided fight," Schmutz said. He recalled two examples of this "defeatism" that were brought to public attention recently.

"John L. Keeshin, Chicago, recently retired from the Keeshin Motor Transportation system because of 'impossible labor demands,'" Schmutz said. "The enterprise will continue, but without the man whose foresight and initiative built it up to its outstanding position in the trucking field and as an important source of jobs.

"It was front page news when Boatbuilder A. J. Higgins decided to sell his New Orleans plants which have been closed by a jurisdictional [union] squabble. For every such case reaching the headlines there are hundreds which pass unnoticed."

"Like Subversive Conspiracy"

Referring to union demands for a 30 per cent pay increase in the automobile industry, Schmutz said many of the motor executives had gone thru "long, gruelling hours" on war time assignments, only to face "impossible demands, name calling, and obstruction" in returning to normal production.

"The scene is repeated in almost every industrial center," he said. "If a nation-wide conspiracy of subversive forces were organized to prevent successful reconversion and pave the way for national socialism of the Hitler variety it could not be better planned and executed. Whether the majority of participants understand that they are taking part in an unconscious conspiracy is beside the point."

Schmutz said this was not an appeal for the "hidebound reactionary employer" but a statement on one aspect of the economic consequences of a "labor movement pendulum that has swung much too far."

Labor Parley Delegates Cast in Dual Roles

BY THOMAS FURLONG

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 12—With critical wage disputes existing in the steel, automobile, and other major industries, delegates to the President's labor-management conference today prepared to resume negotiations for a basic formula for collective bargaining.

Nominally, the issues involved in the prevailing wage disputes are not the direct concern of the conference. In many cases, however, the personalities involved in the disputes are taking part in the conference. R. J. Thomas of the CIO United Auto Workers and C. E. Wilson, president of General Motors corporation, both are delegates. Outside the conference rooms their organizations are engaged in a battle of words over union pay demands.

Fight Effort to Inject Issue

Philip Murray, CIO president, who is directing the drive to get a $2 a day increase for his United Steel Workers, is seated in conference sessions near John A. Stephens, labor relations counsel of United States Steel corporation, principal target of the union. Stephens is an alternate management delegate.

Since the first day of the conference Murray and Thomas have been trying to inject wage policy into discussions. Resisting these efforts are the management delegates, the AFL, and John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers.

[Richard Frankensteen, vice president of the UAW, said the CIO understood "on very good information" that the AFL and UMW had merged, giving the combination a one vote advantage over the CIO in the conference, the Associated Press reported. The merger rumor was denied by William Green, AFL president, and Lewis' associates.]

Outside the conference Murray and Thomas hurl the charge that U. S. Steel and General Motors refuse to engage in bargaining.

U. S. Aids CIO Outside Parley

Spokesmen for the corporations reply that to the unions collective bargaining means complete surrender to the union terms. They insist that wage increases are impossible without compensating price increases. Murray and Thomas refuse to discuss price, contending that is strictly the concern of the office of price administration. Meanwhile, the OPA refuses to budge.

In this battle outside the conference both the department of commerce and the department of labor give aid and comfort to the CIO.

Secretary Wallace's well disciplined statisticians are busily engaged in throwing figures at the public intended to create the impression that all that is needed to usher in the more abundant life is higher and higher wages. Those government economists who believe that the country's No. 1 economic problem is to stave off inflation have been silent.

Secretary Schwellenbach has injected himself in the steel wage dispute by offering to "conciliate" the differences after the corporation had clearly told the union there was no margin for higher wages without higher prices. Schwellenbach's letter suggested he thought wages ought to be hiked anyhow.

Don't Even Agree on What It Is

Management delegates express the opinion that it might be well if the conference discussions were directed at writing a definition of "collective bargaining" acceptable to all. Developments thus far make clear that among the delegates there are sharply conflicting interpretations of the phrase. As a result, observers are dubious that the conference can agree on an acceptable procedure for making collective bargaining effective when the delegates do not agree on what it is.

Committees will resume their discussions tomorrow morning and no general conference session is expected until later in the week or possibly next week. The battle of words outside is expected to proceed concurrently.

WALLACE ASKS BIG LOANS FOR BRITAIN, RUSSIA

New York, Nov. 12 (AP)—Secretary of Commerce Wallace said today the United States must make substantial loans to England, Russia, and other allies if world trade barriers are to be lowered and a ruinous Anglo-American-Russian trade war averted.

He made his proposal in an address to 2,000 business men attending the 32d national foreign trade convention, then heard his statements attacked and defended.

Wallace dealt mostly with the current trade and loan negotiations with Great Britain and did not mention Russia. He said, however, that requests for loans from other allies should be granted on the basis of need and their contributions to the war.

Says Britain Needs Backing

"If the United Kingdom is to abandon its system of exchange controls which channelize and restrict trade, if it is to reduce or eliminate tariff preferences within the British empire, then it must have the financial backing of the United States to make that possible," Wallace said. "Without dollars Britain would be forced to strengthen the so-called sterling bloc."

Almon E. Roth, president of the National Federation of American Shipping, Inc., said: "I am seriously concerned with the ability of the government to implement the policies so clearly enunciated by Secretary Wallace."

The National Foreign Trade Council, Inc., also interjected a warning. In a set of 17 foreign trade principles it said, "Experience has demonstrated that dependence upon long term loans and investments as a device to balance chronic import deficiencies is uneconomic, since all too frequently the capital invested is lost."

Folsom Backs Wallace

Marion Bayard Folsom, treasurer of Eastman Kodak company and director of the special house committee on post-war economic policy, backed Wallace.

He said, however, that loans to Russia should be predicated on a "full and frank" disclosure of Russian production statistics, the proportion of production going into armaments, the uncovering of trade treaties with eastern countries, the opening of soviet territory to business men and journalists, and a protection of American property rights.

FRANC DEVALUATION TO BE DISCUSSED IN WASHINGTON TALKS

PARIS, Nov. 12 (AP)—Pierre Mendes-France, former finance minister in the French provisional government, will leave for America soon to discuss with United States officials the devaluation of the franc, it was disclosed today. Present value of the franc is pegged at 50 to the dollar. French financial circles have been speculating that it might be lowered to 120 or 125 to the dollar.

Largest, Most Modern Tow Boat Off to Mississippi Today

BY PHILIP HAMPSON

The George T. Horton, largest and most modern river tow boat ever built in the Chicago area, was on exhibit in Chicago yesterday preparatory to leaving for service today on the Mississippi river between St. Louis and New Orleans. The 150 foot craft was built for John I. Hay company, barge line operator, in the South Chicago yards of the Calumet Shipyard and Drydock company.

Contrary to the implication in its official designation as tow boat, the George T. Horton is a pusher. It can push 10,000 tons of freight—the equivalent of about 200 loaded freight cars—upstream at a speed of about four miles an hour. With a load of 8,000 tons it can make a speed of five miles an hour.

Nozzle Increases Efficiency

Two big diesel engines provide 2,000 horse power, but thru the use of a "Kort nozzle" an additional 400 horse power is developed. The device increases propeller efficiency by as much as 25 per cent, said John I. Hay, president of the barge line.

Quarters for the crew of about 20 are vastly different from accommodations in river boats of the past. Rooms are as comfortable as those of a modern city apartment, even to plenty of shower baths. Adjoining the roomy kitchen are refrigerators capable of carrying a 30 day supply of food.

Steered Hydraulically

The Horton, which was named for the late president of the Chicago Bridge and Iron company, has a beam of 35 feet, a depth of 10 feet, and a draft of 7 feet. Its twin four blade propellers are 84 inches in diameter. The craft is steered by hydraulically operated twin tiller bars instead of a wheel.

The Hay company, with headquarters at 332 N. Michigan av., operates a year round service as a common carrier between Chicago, St. Louis, New Orleans, and Houston. It has been in business since the opening of the inland waterway to Chicago.

EMPTY SHELVES GREET BUYERS IN MEN'S STORES

Unprecedented Clothing Shortage Reported

The demand for men's clothing is greater now than at any time in the last year and retail store shelves are depleted almost as soon as new shipments are received, a survey showed yesterday.

Retailers said discharged service men, who must buy complete new outfits, are primarily responsible for the buying wave. Preference is being given them as retailers bend every effort to help them get back on a civilian basis.

B. J. Cahn, president of B. Kuppenheimer & Co., Inc., said the supply of men's clothes was at an unprecedented low because of the lack of materials and because of hamstringing regulations of the office of price administration.

Strikes Are Factor

Strikes, man power shortage, the price of wool, and the lack of wool and lining all combine to keep production of suits and overcoats down, but the manufacturers are making all they can as supplies reach them, Cahn said.

Cahn suggested that discharged officers have their uniforms remodeled instead of placing them in mothballs until the crisis in men's wear is over. Civilians also should take old clothes out of mothballs, repair them, and wear them until the situation eases, he said.

Another manufacturer took a different view, however. He said that any man who had spent years in uniform might resent being told to remodel and wear his navy blue. "I know I'd want to get out of it as soon as I could, so how can we ask them to keep on wearing it," he explained.

Shortage to Continue

The shortage will begin to ease early in 1946, but supply will not meet demand until late spring and possibly next fall, retailers and manufacturers said. One of the largest manufacturers of men's suits reported he was shipping all orders by express instead of frate to get the suits into the hands of retailers as rapidly as possible.

Supplies of shirts and shorts for men are equally scarce. The manager of one large store said shipments are sold almost as soon as they arrive.

Despite the scarcity, however, retailers insisted that any man could buy a suit if he didn't insist on having one particular style or pattern. "If a man will shop around, he can find something," said one retailer.

Honor Awarded

VERA D. BERG

Miss Vera D. Berg, chairman of the war bond department of the American Women's Voluntary service, will be doubly honored for her efforts in selling war bonds and savings stamps during a dinner Friday at the Chicago Yacht club. The dinner will mark three years' work by AWVS in selling 51 million dollars worth of stamps and bonds. Miss Berg will receive a treasury citation, as will many of her fellow workers. In addition Miss Berg will be given a merit pin by Mrs. Robert Cavenaugh, chairman of the Chicago Metropolitan unit of the AWVS, in recognition of her services with the AWVS.

KELLY PREPARES FOR ERECTION OF VETS' PORTABLES

Mayor Kelly yesterday was waiting information from Washington as to when the city could expect delivery of 2,000 portable type dwellings to help ease the housing shortage.

The mayor emphasized that whatever money is needed for the housing project will be obtained in some suitable manner. He had no idea, he added, how much it might be. The immediate problem, he said, is not money, but a man power shortage to construct homes.

Selection of sites and plans for erecting the buildings will be worked out as soon as possible, Mayor Kelly said. He indicated that it would be necessary to get the approval of the unions to erect the structures and also to amend the building code which bans pre-fabricated buildings.

32,500 Families Need Homes

The dwellings, the mayor said, are of the type that have been erected by the national housing authority near war plants. They will be placed at the disposal of the families of war veterans, 32,500 of whom are said to need homes.

Mayor Kelly also suggested that unused stores and storeroom space be remodelled for living quarters. He said that a group of brick homes and stores started near the Douglas airport should be completed for veteran housing. He also favored, he said, amending the home owners loan act to allow veterans to borrow as much as 100 per cent, up to $7,500, to build homes.

Earl McMahon, secretary of the Chicago Building Trades council, explained the union's stand on the erection of pre-fabricated dwellings.

"The council does not believe the pre-fabricated building is a conventional form of home," he said. "Besides there are the factors of sanitation and health. These structures cannot be called homes; at most, they are nothing more than pre-fabricated shelters.

Insist They Be Temporary

"The council last week gave permission to erect 200 temporary dwellings for veteran-students at the University of Chicago because it was promised that they would not be permanent, but would be replaced by a certain date. The council probably would not object to the erection of the 2,000 portable dwellings if there is a guarantee that they will be used temporarily during the housing shortage.

"The council also believes that it owes a duty to the public to warn against the erection of permanent pre-fabricated homes that are represented to cost only a small sum.

"If for example, a portable dwelling is represented to cost only $3,500 it will cost the purchaser another $3,500 for constructing basements, sidewalks, sewers, and other conveniences that are necessary."

Stray Raccoon

Raccoon taken from tree on south side awaiting a claimant yesterday at Anti-Cruelty society.

A raccoon atop a tree in front of 6342 Ellis av. yesterday caught the eye of an unidentified passerby who telephoned the Anti-Cruelty society. Herbert Carnes, who responds to such calls, had little difficulty in coaxing the animal down to the ground but it scurried around the building into a basement, where Carnes secured it with a dog pole. The animal, weighing 20 pounds, was given a meal of grain, hay, and nuts. It will be held at the Anti-Cruelty society for five days and then, if unclaimed, will be turned over to Lincoln park zoo.

URGES SCHOOLS BE TURNED TO RECREATION USE

Every public school building in the country should be open after school and thru the evenings to provide recreation facilities for children and adults, or for any use the people desire, Sidney A. Teller, sociologist and lecturer, told the City club yesterday in the La Salle hotel.

"The way to get benefit from public property is thru use," Teller said. "An empty, unused $100,000 school building is a $100,000 loss. Using the public schools only for day time school purposes means that we get only a 50 per cent return on our investment."

Chicago can help meet the challenge of more leisure, brought about thru technical advances, by using its public school buildings for "adult education, recreation, and character building," he said.

BLIND APPROACH EQUIPMENT TO GUARD PLANES

Special equipment to expedite blind or instrument approach systems for winter use by airliners at Chicago airport will be installed soon by the civil aeronautics administration, according to word received here yesterday.

The airport has a $150,000 transmitter owned by the army to help bring in planes. It is believed by airport officials that the new equipment would make the radio guidance more exact and enable incoming planes to hit the runways.

Army financial sponsorship of traffic control towers at many airports including Chicago will terminate soon, it is believed. The CAA has prepared a request for a supplemental appropriation to operate the towers, asking $1,500,000 for the first six months of 1946, which is last half of the current federal fiscal year.

BARE M'CORMICK SEMINARY PLAN FOR EXPANSION

A three year, $3,785,000 development program for McCormick Theological seminary was launched at a dinner at the seminary last night, attended by about 300 Presbyterian leaders of the city. President J. Harry Cotton of the seminary said a serious shortage of ministers was the principal reason for the expansion. Deaths of pastors, he asserted, now exceed ordinations.

Lt. Comdr. Allan A. Zaun, former chaplain at the United States Naval academy, Annapolis, Md., and later on the carrier Hornet, an alumnus of McCormick and former assistant minister of Fourth Presbyterian church, gave the principal address. Forty-five per cent of Presbyterian churches are without pastors, 21 per cent receive no regular pastoral supply service, and it is now certain that many military chaplains will remain in the services for months or years, it was stated.

Under the expansion program, Dr. Cotton said, an enrollment of 250 students is planned instead of 150 to 160 in normal times. The present enrollment at McCormick is 161. Contemplated expansion of missionary enterprises will require at least 10 per cent of McCormick's graduates each year, he added.

Thieves Get $2,700 and Fur Coat from Home

Michael Dennehy, 6055 South Troy st., a tavern owner, reported to the police yesterday that his home was bulgarized while he was at work at his tavern. He lost $2,700 which he had in a paper sack, a fur coat, and a silverware set.

THIEVES STEAL 2 WHEELBARROWS

The Downey Coal company, 76th st. and Bennett av., yesterday reported to police the theft of two wheelbarrows, valued at $50, from in front of 6232 Ingleside av.

EXPECT 10,000 DELEGATES FOR LEGION MEET

American Legion officials opened offices in the Palmer House yesterday in preparation for the biggest convention of legion delegates in history. Opening officially next Sunday, more than 10,000 delegates are expected to attend the convention, which will last thru Wednesday.

A total of 2,031 delegates representing a membership of 1,700,000 will hold conferences on the welfare of returning veterans and the future security of the nation, officials said. Other topics of discussion will include rehabilitation of veterans in relation to hospitalization, reëmployment, the GI bill of rights, and all phases of activity in which veterans are concerned.

Military Training One Topic

Scheduled for debate and resolutions are such national defense problems as universal military training, maintenance of a powerful sea and air fleet, and the development of schools for diplomatic training, officials said.

Highlights of the convention will be the presentation of the Legion distinguished service medal to Gen. Eisenhower, a mass induction of war veterans, and the greatest assembly in history of winners of the congressional medal of honor.

Grant New Charters

The Legion is granting new charters to groups that consist mainly of veterans of this war at the rate of more than four a day. Delegates attending the convention will represent 12,739 Legion posts already established.

THIEF TAKES BICYCLE

A bicycle owned by Levina Van Antwerp, 1438 W. 70th st., was stolen yesterday from in front of 6906 S. Halsted st.
